COMPANY MAKES BOYS' WASH SUITS AND ROMPERS

The Jennings Manufacturing Company of this city who have for years been manufacturing ladies' aprons which have been sold from coast to coast, have added a new line to their business; that of manufacturing boys' wash suits and rompers and this line has already been very well received all over the country.

The materials being used are the very best that can be obtained, and even with the scarcity of dyes, they have been fortunate in obtaining all fast colors.

With the wash suits their idea is to see how good they can make them and not how cheap, as they expect to build up a reputation for Jennings wash suits the same as they have for their ladies' aprons, however these garments are most reasonable in price, workmanship and quality considered, and are sold in a popular range of prices, namely 25 cents to $2.00 each.

These garments are all made in Harrisburg and are sold by many different Harrisburg dealers, amongst them are Bowmans, Dives, Pomeroy and Stewart, Kaufmanns, William Strouse and E. M. Sible. Try and remember the next time you purchase anything in this line and ask to be shown the Jennings garments as by this way you are boosting the home industry as well as getting the very best value for your money.—Advertisement.

DISTINCTIVE IDEAS IN CUSTOM TAILORING

The custom tailoring emporium of V. F. Salerno, located at 27 North Second street, enjoys the confidence and patronage of a very large number of the business element of the city of Harrisburg and vicinity. This confidence is founded upon a business policy that never fails if it is combined at the same time with a thorough knowledge of the particular requirements of the trade. When Mr. Salerno first started in business, he determined that in his stock would always be found the best and latest patterns he could possibly secure, and with careful tailoring and perfect satisfaction to every customer he felt satisfied he would be able to build up a good business. As a result of this policy, Mr. Salerno has many customers who never think of going elsewhere for anything in his line, knowing they will always get full value for their money and will be told only the truth regarding anything purchased at this store.

Through a constant reaching out for more extended purchasing fields and a wider range of home trade, Mr. Salerno's business has made great strides. To this end he has secured entire control of certain special lines of haberdashery, as well as special suit patterns he buys direct from the mills, an advantage that accrues to the benefit of the customer, as well as to himself.

Not only this, but he imports direct from Europe in large quantities instead of taking their foreign-made goods from wholesalers in this country. These facts have given Mr. Salerno a standing and reputation of which he is justly proud.

Mr. Salerno is a tailor of experience, and his motto is "no fit, no pay," which is absolute assurance to the customer of perfect satisfaction. If you have not already purchased your suit, it will surely pay you to stop in and see Mr. Salerno before doing so.—Adv.

A RESTAURANT OF QUALITY

The Manhattan Restaurant at 317 Market street, is one of the most modern and up-to-date restaurants in this part of the State and enjoys the confidence and patronage of a very large majority of the transient as well as the city people. This confidence is founded upon a business policy that never fails if it is at the same time combined with a thorough knowledge of the details of the particular requirement of the trade.

What is meant by this, is that when this modern restaurant was first opened for business it was decided by the proprietor that they would always serve the very best of foods that they could possibly buy; serve them in the most modern way, and at the lowest prices possible. As a result of this policy they have built a most envied reputation in their line of business and they have a great body of customers who never think of going elsewhere for anything in the line of eatables, whether it may be a cup of excellent coffee, a ham sandwich, broiled steak, lobster, chicken or anything that could be found in the higher priced restaurants. They are always sure they will get full value for their money at the Manhattan.

The Manhattan has several specials on the menu every day, and no matter how particular you are regarding what you eat, you will be sure to find it here and it will be cooked and served in a way that is sure to make you one of their many customers. If you have not already tried their meals you cannot imagine what delicious things you have missed.—Adv.

WHAT GIVES MILK ITS VALUE AS FOOD

L. B. Smith, proprietor of the Camp Curtin Dairy at 268 Delaware street, this city, states that some idea of the importance of milk as human food may be gained from the fact that about one-sixth of the total food of the average family is furnished from milk and its products. Milk from various animals is used in all parts of the world, but with us that of the cow, so far surpasses all other kinds in importance, that unless otherwise specified, the word "milk" is taken to refer to cow's milk only.

Few staple foods vary so much in composition, as milk. The average, good, unadulterated milk should contain about 87 per cent. water and 13 per cent. solids. About one-fourth of these solids are furnished by the protein compounds, casein and albumen. The casein being five or six times more abundant than the albumen. Fats (butter fat) form one-third of the total solids. Butter fat occurs in globules throughout the milk, and it is upon the size and number of them that the creaminess of milk depends. The larger the globules the more easily and completely will they rise as cream to the surface of the milk. Carbohydrates make up 36 per cent of the solids, by far the most important of them being lactose, or milk sugar. The remaining five per cent consists of mineral matters, the bulk of which are phosphates and chlorides of soda, potash and lime.

Besides these chemical constituents milk almost inevitably contains bacteria of many kinds and in varying numbers. They cause the souring of milk and the ripening of cream cheese and they produce many other changes in the composition and flavor. The number present in freshly-drawn milk varies enormously with the conditions of milking. The Camp Curtin Dairy is very particular regarding the quality of the milk sold by them. When their milk is delivered to the home, the housewife need not fear that her children are in any danger of being inoculated with the germs of disease, as all their milk is pure, wholesome and sure to prove satisfactory. If you are not a present customer of the Camp Curtin Dairy, just phone (Bell) 1485-J and request them to deliver to your door a sample quart of milk that you may try it and you will surely be one of their many satisfied customers thereafter.—Adv.

MR. GABLE TELLS INTERESTING STORY REGARDING PAINT

It seems hardly necessary, perhaps, in this age of enlightenment and progress to discuss the relative merit of a "hand made" or "machine made" product such as paint. However, H. A. Gable who is located at 113 to 117 South Second street and who wholesales practically every thing that is required in the building and construction line, as well as being the local distributor for the Acme White Lead and Color Works of Detroit, Mich., manufacturers of the famous Acme Quality New Era paints and varnishes, states that back of the "machine made" which in itself means not only economy on account of large production at the least cost, is the perfection of grinding, the thoroughness of mixture, uniformity of tinting and all the advantages that accrue from a perfectly adjusted organization such as the Acme White Lead and Color Works maintain, and whose sole occupation is to make the best paint that can be made. Back of the "machine made" paint, the property of the Acme company is the most modern and up-to-date factory with chemical laboratories and chemists who are constantly studying and experimenting to produce better paints. The "hand made" paint combined in a crude and imperfect manner by human muscle and stick or paddle, from materials of inferior properties of which are unknown, or guessed at, cannot possibly compare in result of them being lactose, or milk sugar. The remaining five per cent consists of mineral matters, the bulk of which are phosphates and chlorides of soda, potash and lime.

The painting contractors of Harrisburg and vicinity are strong boosters of Acme paints and byproducts, and in filling contracts for the decoration of many new homes and business structures, they will use thousands of gallons of paint during the coming season, a large portion of which has already been ordered from Mr. Gable.

Mr. Gable states that in the several industrial buildings that have already placed their paint orders with him, a large quantity of white lead, containing such properties as tend to reflect all the light possible, will be used. Where concrete floors have been laid, a special concrete paint will be applied to the walls and baseboards. Considerable varnish and high grade stains have been ordered for use in some of the finest residence jobs.

We are told by Mr. Gable that as soon as the painting season gets in full swing, the price of paint are sure to advance and for that reason he is advising his customers and the public in general to place their orders as much in advance as the time will permit as possible. This will enable him to buy at the present prices and protect his buyers from any future raises.—Adv.
