

OF INTEREST TO THE WOMEN

THE STRUGGLES OF A WIFE

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

CHAPTER XXIX.

Copyright, 1916, Star Company. Myra Webb attacked her new story with the conviction that on this depended much of her future success or failure.

If she could write something fine in spite of the intangible discouragements in her home; if she could prove that she could rise above fears and doubts to such an extent as to forget her surroundings and throw herself into her tales, then she might have confidence in her own powers.

She determined that she would make good. She did not know that she was exercising auto suggestion, but she was.

The secret of many a man's and woman's triumph over circumstances lies in his or her ability to persuade the subconscious self that what must be done can be done.

It was through this ability that Myra at last wrote her new story. She felt as if she was impelled by some inner force of which she knew little.

Things became vivid before her mind's eye and she depicted them in forceful language. When she must stop her work she felt weary and spent, as if virtue had gone out of her.

At the end of the third day she had finished the rough copy of her work. She put it aside and would not look at it again until to-morrow.

It seemed almost like another person's work when she read it the following morning. She made sundry corrections, then began carefully and laboriously to copy her story. She called it "Truth." That was what Mr. Martin had said he wanted—a story that had truth in it.

When at last the manuscript was typed and ready for delivery, she took it downtown and left it with Mr. Martin's stenographer. The editor himself was busy in his inner office and she would not disturb him.

The Aftermath. There is a sense of blankness and staidness after one has finished an absorbing piece of writing, and this assailed Myra now. She wanted to get away from herself—from her thoughts. To this end she made an impulsive suggestion to Grace when she reached home that afternoon.

"Perhaps you would like to plan the dinner party of which you spoke the other day," she ventured. "When do you want to have it? Suppose we say the latter part of next week?"

Perhaps she was reckless; perhaps the money she hoped for would not be forthcoming. Perhaps the story would be returned to her. The idea was intolerable—she must think of something else.

"All right," Grace agreed. "I am glad you introduced the subject yourself, if you had not I would not have done so. I made up my mind to that when I saw how self-absorbed, and depressed you have been lately."

MAN KILLS MOTHER, BABY, DAUGHTER, SON AND SELF. Rochester, Ind., May 17.—William Dollars, 30, a miller at Macy, a village near here, yesterday shot and killed his mother, Mrs. Anna Dollars, 50, and daughter Agnes, 5, fatally wounded his son George, 11, and baby Ida, 2, and then went to a nearby cemetery, where he killed himself on the grave of his wife.

It is believed that the recent sudden death of Dollars' wife caused insanity.

FOODS WHICH CAUSED COLLAPSE OF GERMAN SAILORS DESCRIBED

GATHERED BLOUSE AND PANEL SKIRT

Velvet Bandings High in Favor as Trimmings This Season

"Self-absorbed! Depressed!" Myra exclaimed. Why, dear child, I have not been that, have I? "You certainly have," mother, the girl declared. "I thought perhaps you were peeved at my planning to have company here so soon."

"Nothing of the kind," Myra disclaimed. "I have been occupied with my writing, that's all."

"Well, it is a pity to be so much engrossed in any occupation that one cannot be cheerful and bright," I think, Grace remarked. "I get that way myself sometimes, I acknowledge, but with me it is different—so much depends on my success in the future."

"I know, dear," the mother sympathized. She did not remark that a great deal, too, depended upon her success as a writer.

But she encouraged the girl to talk about the coming dinner party. Grace had decided that there were to be four couples in all.

"You and father and myself," she said. "Miss Perkins and her brother, Mary Jarker and Robert Haviland. And now we want one more man."

"What about Max Courtney? We have not seen him since he called here last Summer."

"No, we haven't," Grace rejoined, "and I did not intend to ask him again."

Design by May Mantion.

8824 (With Basting Line and Added Seam Allowance) Gathered Blouse, 34 to 42 bust.

8840 (With Basting Line and Added Seam Allowance) Skirt with Panel Front, 24 to 34 waists.

Will Spend Life in Jail Rather Than Give In. Pittsburgh, Pa., May 17.—Christian Lieberman, a Civil War veteran, who has already spent two years in the Allegheny county jail for contempt of court because he refused to obey a court order to remove his old home to make way for a public highway near McKeesport, has returned to jail voluntarily and says he will spend the rest of his life there unless the court changes its mind.

Three attempts have been made in the lower courts to secure his freedom on writs of habeas corpus without result. Recently his case was appealed to the State supreme court which sustained the lower tribunals. Pending the appeal he was released. When an adverse decision was handed down Lieberman, because of conscientious scruples, went to the jail and gave himself up.

Knox Tells Church to Carefully Study Politics. Pittsburgh, Pa., May 17.—Speaking in the Knoxville Presbyterian church which now stands on the site of Jeremiah Knox's old strawberry patch Philander C. Knox, former Secretary of State, last night told the Men's Club of the church that "it is fit and right that the church should come out of the shell where it is decaying and help raise the standard of civility by the establishment of clubs within the church, which would not alien themselves with any party but rather would measure political issues and parties from the standpoint of good government and right."

Odd Fellows in Penna. Now Number 170,802. Exposition Park, Pa., May 17.—Reports made at the session of the Grand Lodge, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, of Pennsylvania, yesterday showed that the membership in this State numbers 170,802, an increase of 5,000 during the past six months.

The reports also showed that $882,690.32 has been paid out during the year for special relief, the equivalent of $100.89 an hour.

The meeting was formally presided over by Rev. W. O. Colbone, of Linesville, Pa., and James Reany making addresses of welcome. Grand Master J. P. Hale Jenkins, of Norristown, responded.

Schwab Orders Addition $500,000 Building to Be Erected at the Bethlehem Plant. South Bethlehem, Pa., May 17.—Charles M. Schwab yesterday sanctioned the erection of another large department to his Bethlehem steel plant, which means an outlay of more than half a million dollars and will give employment to several scores of skilled mechanics.

On account of the demand for larger caliber guns, both by this country and foreign governments, a new general annealing, test and storage plant for large guns will be built and will be located on the hill between the Lehigh and Saucon plant. It will be equipped with annealing furnace slotting machines, drills and other accessories.

LONG WALK TO AID PARENT Children Tramp Six Miles to Ask That Eviction Be Stopped. Wilkes-Barre, Pa., May 17.—Joseph and Mary Rankin, respectively 13 and 10 years, walked from Plymouth to this city, a distance of six miles yesterday, to the office of the District Attorney, and asked that official to save their father from being put out of his house. They said their parent was being evicted when they left.

Where the children got their directions to the District Attorney is a mystery to the officials. They were turned over to the charity officials.

GYPSIES TRAVEL BY AUTO A band of gypsies in three automobiles and a truck passed through Harrisburg yesterday. They pitched their tents east of the city line near Steelton. Notice was served on the gypsies by Chief of Police Thomas J. Zell that they would not be permitted to sell their goods or tell fortunes in Harrisburg.

IS YOUR BLOOD A RED STREAM

No Where in This Paper Is There a Better Lesson to Be Learned Than That Taught By S. S. S.

How many men go about us with bad blood? Science speaks in figures that would appall those who do not know. Poisoned blood is the keystone of the building called Disease. Almost every disease is due to bad blood. Germ life which fosters itself on our blood destroys all manner of men in a slow and insidious fashion.

Rheumatism, that craftiest of all diseases, attacks its victims through the blood. So does Catarrh, Eczema, Tetter and many skin diseases. The body of man will take care of almost every case of disease provided the blood is pure and normal. If the blood is run down, then beware, for it is the heavy artillery of the body and without it man falls an easy prey to even the simplest of maladies. This is particularly true in the hot season.

S. S. S. is the world's greatest blood purifier. Why? Simply because it is extracted from vegetable ingredients that reach the blood in almost their identical quality, when they have passed through the stomach and intestines.

S. S. S. has met every demand made upon it by hundreds of thousands of sufferers of almost every known blood disease. That is why this great blood purifier is sold everywhere in all classes of people and why it is carried by every drug store in every city or our land. No druggist would any more open a drug store without S. S. S. than he would without quinine and capsules.

The action of S. S. S. is to build up the tissues, restore blood force, enrich the corpuscles so that they can throw out of the blood the decay that causes trouble, the germs that make men suffer, the acid that gathers in tissue and muscles and around joints. If you could be in our laboratory and see the work that is going on there, open our mail and read the letters we receive, then go into our file room and see the thousands of grateful letters on file there you would be as widely enthusiastic about S. S. S. as we are. The right way to treat disease is with the tools of Nature. S. S. S. is a builder of blood, Nature's friend to the blood. S. S. S. will ease up body strain in a perfectly well man. It will take nourishment to your blood and journey with it to every corner and seek out every blotch, raw sore, itch, irritation, pain, twitching rheumatic ache and will make the blood pay a little attention to the nerves and your vitality. We maintain an expert department head, especially trained to the needs of S. S. S. patrons and he will be glad to reply to any confidential letter you may send him in a plain common sense manner, privately, so that you alone may know the contents of his letter and he will tell you about your trouble. Write him to-day; and no matter what manner of blood trouble you suffer from it is a duty you owe yourself to go to your druggist now and get S. S. S. You will find it at any drug store anywhere. Write if you will to Swift Specific Company, Medical Dept. Drawer 5, Atlanta, Ga.

CHAPTER XXIX. Copyright, 1916, Star Company. Myra Webb attacked her new story with the conviction that on this depended much of her future success or failure. If she could write something fine in spite of the intangible discouragements in her home; if she could prove that she could rise above fears and doubts to such an extent as to forget her surroundings and throw herself into her tales, then she might have confidence in her own powers. She determined that she would make good. She did not know that she was exercising auto suggestion, but she was. The secret of many a man's and woman's triumph over circumstances lies in his or her ability to persuade the subconscious self that what must be done can be done. It was through this ability that Myra at last wrote her new story. She felt as if she was impelled by some inner force of which she knew little. Things became vivid before her mind's eye and she depicted them in forceful language. When she must stop her work she felt weary and spent, as if virtue had gone out of her. At the end of the third day she had finished the rough copy of her work. She put it aside and would not look at it again until to-morrow. It seemed almost like another person's work when she read it the following morning. She made sundry corrections, then began carefully and laboriously to copy her story. She called it "Truth." That was what Mr. Martin had said he wanted—a story that had truth in it. When at last the manuscript was typed and ready for delivery, she took it downtown and left it with Mr. Martin's stenographer. The editor himself was busy in his inner office and she would not disturb him. The Aftermath. There is a sense of blankness and staidness after one has finished an absorbing piece of writing, and this assailed Myra now. She wanted to get away from herself—from her thoughts. To this end she made an impulsive suggestion to Grace when she reached home that afternoon. "Perhaps you would like to plan the dinner party of which you spoke the other day," she ventured. "When do you want to have it? Suppose we say the latter part of next week?" Perhaps she was reckless; perhaps the money she hoped for would not be forthcoming. Perhaps the story would be returned to her. The idea was intolerable—she must think of something else. "All right," Grace agreed. "I am glad you introduced the subject yourself, if you had not I would not have done so. I made up my mind to that when I saw how self-absorbed, and depressed you have been lately."

PRESIDENT TELLS OF HEAVY BURDEN

Responsibility of Deciding on War or Peace Drives Sleep Away. Washington, May 17.—President Wilson last night made public a frank and intimate review of his three years in the White House and his impressions of foreign and domestic problems, delivered confidentially before Washington correspondents gathered at the National Press Club. He spoke of the difficulties of the presidency, and particularly of the motives which have guided his handling of the European situation.

"America," the President said, "is for peace because she loves peace, and believes the present war has carried the nations engaged so far that they cannot be held to ordinary standards of responsibility. But," he added, "the United States has grown to be one of the great nations of the world, and therefore must act 'more or less from the point of view of the rest of the world.'"

"I cannot retain my moral influence over a man except by occasionally knocking him down," he said; "if that is the only basis of his soul I have got occasionally to knock him down."

From the ship's cook, as translated by Dr. Perrenon, was obtained a chart showing what each meal consisted of prior to the breaking out of the disease among the men. This chart not only makes way for a public highway near McKeesport, has returned to jail voluntarily and says he will spend the rest of his life there unless the court changes its mind.

Three attempts have been made in the lower courts to secure his freedom on writs of habeas corpus without result. Recently his case was appealed to the State supreme court which sustained the lower tribunals. Pending the appeal he was released. When an adverse decision was handed down Lieberman, because of conscientious scruples, went to the jail and gave himself up.

Knox Tells Church to Carefully Study Politics. Pittsburgh, Pa., May 17.—Speaking in the Knoxville Presbyterian church which now stands on the site of Jeremiah Knox's old strawberry patch Philander C. Knox, former Secretary of State, last night told the Men's Club of the church that "it is fit and right that the church should come out of the shell where it is decaying and help raise the standard of civility by the establishment of clubs within the church, which would not alien themselves with any party but rather would measure political issues and parties from the standpoint of good government and right."

Odd Fellows in Penna. Now Number 170,802. Exposition Park, Pa., May 17.—Reports made at the session of the Grand Lodge, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, of Pennsylvania, yesterday showed that the membership in this State numbers 170,802, an increase of 5,000 during the past six months.

The reports also showed that $882,690.32 has been paid out during the year for special relief, the equivalent of $100.89 an hour.

The meeting was formally presided over by Rev. W. O. Colbone, of Linesville, Pa., and James Reany making addresses of welcome. Grand Master J. P. Hale Jenkins, of Norristown, responded.

Schwab Orders Addition $500,000 Building to Be Erected at the Bethlehem Plant. South Bethlehem, Pa., May 17.—Charles M. Schwab yesterday sanctioned the erection of another large department to his Bethlehem steel plant, which means an outlay of more than half a million dollars and will give employment to several scores of skilled mechanics.

On account of the demand for larger caliber guns, both by this country and foreign governments, a new general annealing, test and storage plant for large guns will be built and will be located on the hill between the Lehigh and Saucon plant. It will be equipped with annealing furnace slotting machines, drills and other accessories.

IS YOUR BLOOD A RED STREAM

No Where in This Paper Is There a Better Lesson to Be Learned Than That Taught By S. S. S.

How many men go about us with bad blood? Science speaks in figures that would appall those who do not know. Poisoned blood is the keystone of the building called Disease. Almost every disease is due to bad blood. Germ life which fosters itself on our blood destroys all manner of men in a slow and insidious fashion.

Rheumatism, that craftiest of all diseases, attacks its victims through the blood. So does Catarrh, Eczema, Tetter and many skin diseases. The body of man will take care of almost every case of disease provided the blood is pure and normal. If the blood is run down, then beware, for it is the heavy artillery of the body and without it man falls an easy prey to even the simplest of maladies. This is particularly true in the hot season.

S. S. S. is the world's greatest blood purifier. Why? Simply because it is extracted from vegetable ingredients that reach the blood in almost their identical quality, when they have passed through the stomach and intestines.

S. S. S. has met every demand made upon it by hundreds of thousands of sufferers of almost every known blood disease. That is why this great blood purifier is sold everywhere in all classes of people and why it is carried by every drug store in every city or our land. No druggist would any more open a drug store without S. S. S. than he would without quinine and capsules.

The action of S. S. S. is to build up the tissues, restore blood force, enrich the corpuscles so that they can throw out of the blood the decay that causes trouble, the germs that make men suffer, the acid that gathers in tissue and muscles and around joints. If you could be in our laboratory and see the work that is going on there, open our mail and read the letters we receive, then go into our file room and see the thousands of grateful letters on file there you would be as widely enthusiastic about S. S. S. as we are. The right way to treat disease is with the tools of Nature. S. S. S. is a builder of blood, Nature's friend to the blood. S. S. S. will ease up body strain in a perfectly well man. It will take nourishment to your blood and journey with it to every corner and seek out every blotch, raw sore, itch, irritation, pain, twitching rheumatic ache and will make the blood pay a little attention to the nerves and your vitality. We maintain an expert department head, especially trained to the needs of S. S. S. patrons and he will be glad to reply to any confidential letter you may send him in a plain common sense manner, privately, so that you alone may know the contents of his letter and he will tell you about your trouble. Write him to-day; and no matter what manner of blood trouble you suffer from it is a duty you owe yourself to go to your druggist now and get S. S. S. You will find it at any drug store anywhere. Write if you will to Swift Specific Company, Medical Dept. Drawer 5, Atlanta, Ga.

CHAPTER XXIX. Copyright, 1916, Star Company. Myra Webb attacked her new story with the conviction that on this depended much of her future success or failure. If she could write something fine in spite of the intangible discouragements in her home; if she could prove that she could rise above fears and doubts to such an extent as to forget her surroundings and throw herself into her tales, then she might have confidence in her own powers. She determined that she would make good. She did not know that she was exercising auto suggestion, but she was. The secret of many a man's and woman's triumph over circumstances lies in his or her ability to persuade the subconscious self that what must be done can be done. It was through this ability that Myra at last wrote her new story. She felt as if she was impelled by some inner force of which she knew little. Things became vivid before her mind's eye and she depicted them in forceful language. When she must stop her work she felt weary and spent, as if virtue had gone out of her. At the end of the third day she had finished the rough copy of her work. She put it aside and would not look at it again until to-morrow. It seemed almost like another person's work when she read it the following morning. She made sundry corrections, then began carefully and laboriously to copy her story. She called it "Truth." That was what Mr. Martin had said he wanted—a story that had truth in it. When at last the manuscript was typed and ready for delivery, she took it downtown and left it with Mr. Martin's stenographer. The editor himself was busy in his inner office and she would not disturb him. The Aftermath. There is a sense of blankness and staidness after one has finished an absorbing piece of writing, and this assailed Myra now. She wanted to get away from herself—from her thoughts. To this end she made an impulsive suggestion to Grace when she reached home that afternoon. "Perhaps you would like to plan the dinner party of which you spoke the other day," she ventured. "When do you want to have it? Suppose we say the latter part of next week?" Perhaps she was reckless; perhaps the money she hoped for would not be forthcoming. Perhaps the story would be returned to her. The idea was intolerable—she must think of something else. "All right," Grace agreed. "I am glad you introduced the subject yourself, if you had not I would not have done so. I made up my mind to that when I saw how self-absorbed, and depressed you have been lately."

W.B. CORSETS

give style, comfort and superbly fitting gown; are economical because long-wearing, and assure the utmost in a corset at a most moderate price.

W. B. NUFORM STYLE 419 (See large illustration). Medium low bust; elastic inserts. Splendid wearing outfit, embroidery trimmed. $1.50.

W. B. NUFORM STYLE 440 (See small illustration). For average full figures. Medium bust. Double hip construction assures double wear, with smooth fit. Long wearing outfit, embroidery trimmed. $2.00. Other W. B. Models $1.00 up.

W. B. BRASSIERES worn with W. B. Corsets give fashionable figure-lines and add to gown-fit. 50c and up. AT YOUR DEALER Send for Free Illustrated Folder to Weingarten Bros., Inc. New York Chicago San Francisco

MONEY in any form is only labor crystallized and condensed, and the money that you save is all that you have in material form to show for your life's work. Therefore save all you can, that when the times comes when you cannot work the balance of your life will be independent and not dependent. The facilities offered by the FIRST NATIONAL BANK are exceptionally good. 224 MARKET ST.

Workmen's Compensation Act Blanks

We are prepared to ship promptly any or all of the blanks made necessary by the Workmen's Compensation Act which took effect January 1. Let us hear from you promptly as the law requires that you should now have these blanks in your possession.

The Telegraph Printing Co. Printing—Binding—Designing—Photo Engraving HARRISBURG, PA.

The Inner Secret of New Post Toasties

A glance at one of these new corn flakes reveals novel, little bubbles which are raised by the quick, intense heat of a new process of manufacture.

These bubbles are an identifying feature of these—the only corn flakes with a self-developed, delicious corn flavour—the only flakes that do not have to depend largely on cream and sugar for palatability.

Try some of the New Toasties dry—they're good that way—the children munch them like candy. But of course the delicious new flavour is more pronounced when the flakes are served with sugar and cream.

The New Post Toasties do not waste into "chaff" in the package, and they don't mush down in cream like other flakes. They're a vast improvement over old-fashioned corn flakes and have met with enthusiastic approval everywhere.

New Post Toasties Sold by Grocers everywhere.

White House Coffee advertisement featuring a large illustration of a coffee cup and saucer. Text includes 'White House Coffee', 'Fragrant—Delicious Satisfactory', 'Boston Roasted', 'Best Grocers', 'In 1, 2, and 3-lb. sealed tin cans only. Never sold in bulk.'

Suits When Others Disappoint advertisement. Text includes 'Suits When Others Disappoint', 'No grocer should deny you, for the wire connections with our factory—through our various distributors in the principal parts of the United States—make it possible for any dealer, no matter when or where, to obtain a supply of this superb coffee without delay.', 'Packed Only in 1, 2 and 3-lb. Sealed Tin Cans.', 'Witman-Schwarz Company, Harrisburg, Pa. Wholesale Distributing Agents.'