MEMORIAL DAY PLANS COMPLETE

Veterans to Visit Schools Friday; Attend Church Sunday; Parade Tuesday

Once more the Boys in Blue will march to the city cemeteries to honor their noble dead; once more the familiar salutes will be fired over the graves, flowers strewn, flags placed and stories of the past recalled as the posts of the Grand Army of the Republic complete their observance of Memorial Day. Last night a committee of arrangements met in the headquarters of Post 58 and made plans for the Memorial observance. Two companies of infantry and the Governor's Troop of the National Guard of the State; veterans of the Spanish-American War, and foreign service veterans will aid the Civil War soldiers in the ceremonies. Visit Schools Friday The public schools will be visited next Friday by the veterans who have planned their annual addresses. Sunday, May 28, the members of Post 58 will attend the church services in Camp Curtin Memorial Methodist Church when the Rev. A. S. Williams will speak. Other ministers in the city have made plans to preach special sermons for the occasion. In the afternoon the veterans will go to West Fairview to take part in the program there. On Memorial Day morning special services will be held in the Paxtang cemetery with the Rev. Harry B. King in charge. Parade Tuesday Forming at Front and Market streets, this year the route of the parade follows: West in Market to Fourth street, to Mulberry street bridge, to Thirteenth street; first division south in Thirteenth street to Mt. Calvary cemetery, second division north to Harrisburg cemetery; Post 58 to Lincoln cemetery. The veterans will assemble at 1 o'clock and automobiles and carriages will be furnished for those who are unable to march. At the Harrisburg cemetery the program will include an address by the Rev. Henry W. A. Hanson and W. H. Moore and readings by N. A. Walmer and J. D. Saltzman. Others who will take part are Miss Irene Wagner and the Rev. M. Stamets. The order of formation for the parade is as follows: Platoon of police; chief marshal, George L. Sellers; chief of staff, William D. Rhoads; assistant marshal, E. Laubenstein; aids, Charles Beaver, F. H. Hoy, C. H. Honick, R. A. Fulton, F. Newcomer, F. Drucker, W. F. McDaniel, H. D. Myers and E. L. Wagner. DEMOCRATS HEAR DUDLEY F. MALONE

Central Democratic Club's Annual Jefferson Dinner Well Attended

Dudley Field Malone, collector of the port of New York, was the principal speaker at the Jefferson dinner of the Central Democratic Club in the Masonic Temple last evening, which was attended by well-known Democrats from all over the State. The dinner was at once an anniversary and the opening of the Wilson campaign in this city. National Committeeman A. Mitchell Palmer, who had been invited, was unable to attend. Vance C. McCormick, reading a telegram of regret from him, Edward Moeslein was toastmaster and at the speakers' table were Samuel J. Graham, Assistant United States Attorney General, of Washington, D. C.; Harry B. Saussaman, candidate for Congress; Scott S. Leiby, candidate for State senator; ex-Mayor John K. Royal, Lewis M. Neiffer, William McCoy, Fred W. Morgenthaier, Milton H. Plank, T. K. Van Dyke, Warren Van Dyke, Vance C. McCormick, H. B. McCormick, Casper Dull, Henry Opperman, H. W. Jones, ex-Congressman Frank B. Dershem, James McKee, Christian Nauss, Postmaster Frank C. Sites, O. M. Copelin, Samuel Kunkel, Charles R. Kurtz, deputy collector of the port of Philadelphia; Paul O. Brosius and Charles O'Reilly, Lock Haven. The Municipal orchestra and a boys' trio rendered music during the evening. Mr. Malone, after humorously telling his audience that it was much easier to be a Democrat in New York, where that party wins once in a while, said that Pennsylvania Democrats were therefore entitled to medals of honor. The speaker blamed the Republican administrations preceding that of Wilson for the unpreparedness of the country, asserted that the President will be re-elected and said that every promise of the Democratic party previous to election had been kept. Mr. Leiby concluded the speaking with a short address. RETURN FROM WEST Miss Marguerite Hummel, of Poplar street, Steelton, and her nephew, James Walker Trullinger, of this city, are home after spending two months with Mr. and Mrs. Webster Dewalt in Valenton, Neb. The small boy had the misfortune to be run over by a wagon while away, breaking his arm, which is now mending nicely.

the Verdun front where the Germans have thrown fresh troops into the conflict. Two new divisions attacked the French lines west of the Meuse between the Avocourt wood and hill 304 and succeeded in obtaining a footing in a small post near hill 287, east of the wood. Elsewhere according to the afternoon Paris bulletin the attacks were repulsed, as was a German attack on the fort on the northeast slope of hill 304 which the French took the previous day. According to Berlin advices Russia, believing that the treaties recently concluded between Rumania and the central powers go beyond the bounds of commercial agreements and have political significance, has "taken measures to ascertain the circumstances which gave rise to the conclusion of the treaties."
