MY TIRED FEET ACHED FOR "TIZ"

Let your sore, swollen, aching feet spread out in a bath of "Tiz."

Just take your shoes off and then put those weary, shoe-crinkled, aching, burning, corn-pestered, bunion-tortured feet of yours in a "Tiz" bath. Your toes will wriggle with joy; they'll look up at you and almost talk and then they'll take another dive in that "Tiz" bath.

When your feet feel like lumps of lead—all tired out—just try "Tiz." It's grand—it's glorious. Your feet will dance with joy; also you will find all pain gone from corns, callouses and bunions.

There's nothing like "Tiz." It's the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause foot torture. Get a 25 cent box of "Tiz" at any drug or department store—don't wait. Ah! how glad your feet get; how comfortable your shoes feel. You can wear shoes a size smaller if you desire.—Advertisement.

CAMP HILL GETS STATE'S PRAISE

Efforts For Good Roads Complimented in Bulletin on Good Roads Day Plans

The plans of the people of Camp Hill for participation in State-wide Good Roads Day next Thursday are cited by the bulletin issued by the State Highway department on the way the good roads organizations, automobile clubs, men and women and boy scouts and girls' clubs are taking hold of the project.

The bulletin says: "An example of what a borough can do will be set by Camp Hill, in Cumberland county, on 'State-wide Good Roads Day.' Borough Council has decided to observe 'State-wide Good Roads Day' by inviting the taxpayers in the borough, numbering 350, to co-operate in repairing the borough streets on that day. It is expected that much good will be accomplished."

The Oswayo Valley Good Roads Association has appointed a foreman on every section of road in Sharon township in Potter county. Each foreman is to be furnished with men and teams and needed materials to make the day successful. They expect to erect guard rails and widen and grade various parts of the highways.

Blair county has organized a flying squadron which is touring the county to arouse interest in "State-wide Good Roads Day." They are meeting with great success. By circulars and personal letters the Huntingdon County Good Roads Association is stirring up great interest in that county. It is expected that Huntingdon county will take a leading place in the central counties of the State on that day.

A general committee of 50 men well-known throughout the county has been named to assist the Warren county supervisors in making the day successful.

The Cambridge Springs Motor Club has authorized its board of governors to organize the membership for effective work on the day in Crawford county. The Quakertown Free Press issues an appeal to farmers, merchants, mechanics, laborers, physicians, clerks, bankers, clergymen, lawyers and teachers to turn in and make the day "Bucks count."

"Every effort will be made to push Good Roads Day so that Mercer county will be in the front rank as she always is in movements for general good," says the Sandy Lake Breeze in discussing editorially its benefits. "But," continues the editorial, "to do so everybody must put a shoulder to the wheel. Can we count on you?"

Several hundred farmers and many leading citizens in and around Chambersburg, Franklin county, have determined that the day is to exceed last year's record. There will be a large turnout in that part of the county on that day.

"The Armstrong County Good Roads Association is busy getting things in shape for 'State-wide Good Roads Day,'" says the New Bethlehem Leader. "And incidentally are looking to the matter of giving the autoists something to do. Owners of cars are expected to take the workers to and from the places on the roads where they are to work and while not doing this, are to roll up their sleeves and go to work, also, all of which is just and proper."

Calhoun, McKeesport, Pa.; F. S. Cantrell, Jr., Philadelphia, was elected legal counsel.

Bradford, Pa., was selected as the site of the 1917 shoot, a delegation from Scranton agrees to wait until next year to issue an invitation. After Bradford had been selected, Dr. F. J. Urban was named as the 1917 corresponding secretary from that place. New gun clubs taken into membership are: Wyoming Gun Club, Wyoming; Khoral Club, of Marietta; Elmhurst Gun Club, of Elmhurst; Ashland Club, York Fish and Game Propagation, of York; Greensburg Club, Wernersville Club, Hawley Club, Scranton Club, Christian Club; Philadelphia Electric A. A., which, it was announced, has 300 members though it is a new club.

MEMBER OF OLD SWEDE FAMILY MURDERS TWO

Brutality and Mystery of Crime Stirs Country; Nearly Escapes

Stockholm, Sweden, May 19.—Leonard Rudolph Alexander Gyllenpalm, a member of one of the oldest families in Sweden—a family knitted in the seventeenth century and registered in the "Riddarhus," or Swedish House of Nobles—has confessed to the double murder which recently occurred in one of the branch banks of Stockholm, and which stirred all Sweden because of the brutality and mystery of the crime. The manager of the bank was found with a hatchet in his skull and a woman clerk was shot dead.

The chance capture of Gyllenpalm and his own cold-blooded story of the crime have made a thrilling reading for the Swedish people. His Nemesis worked in the person of a young Swedish woman with a good memory for faces. She had seen the nobleman emerge from the bank, and though she did not then know of any murder having been committed, she noticed there was something strange about his manner. When she herself entered the bank she found the bodies of the manager and the woman clerk, and then realized that the man she had seen hurrying from the place must have been the murderer. She described the man to the police as best she could, but the detectives made absolutely no headway until, more than a year laid toward the end of the young lady passed the murderer in the street. She thought she recognized him but was not sure. With a girl companion she followed the man several blocks until they fell in with a policeman to whom the girl told her suspicions, and the officer decided to arrest him.

The nobleman at first denied all knowledge of the crime, but after he had been held for two days, an analysis of some spots on his clothes and shoes established that they were stains of human blood and when confronted with this evidence, Gyllenpalm confessed. He said he was in desperate need of money and had planned the crime weeks ahead. He only intended, however, to kill the branch manager, thinking no one else would be at the bank at the time. He carried the hatchet in a leather portfolio, or lawyer's brief case. He was surprised to see the woman clerk and followed his first impulse to shoot. Having committed the double murder, he became alarmed and fled without securing any money whatever.

Direct from the scene he went to a restaurant a few blocks away and joined a party of friends at a mid-day breakfast, eating a hearty meal and drinking several glasses of wine. That afternoon the newspapers were full of the accounts of the mysterious murder. Gyllenpalm, however, moved about among his friends without the slightest evidence that he was more than ordinarily stirred by the news. He had dinner down town with a friend and then the most startling suggestion he suggested a walk around to the bank to see where such an atrocious murder had been committed. There was a crowd of the morbidly curious about the door, which was guarded by a policeman. Gyllenpalm, in his confession, told how while he was standing there in the crowd about the bank he became alarmed and fled.

"It is a curious thing, but a murderer always returns to the scene of his crime."

May Choose Sword to Die Gyllenpalm said in his confession that he gave way at the knees and almost sank to the sidewalk, but his friends had thought he merely slipped. When he had recovered his equilibrium Gyllenpalm asked the policeman if he thought the murderer would be caught. "Yes," replied the officer, "if he is fool enough to try to leave the city. We have everything watched. If he stays in town though, it will be more difficult."

"I decided to stop in town," said Gyllenpalm in his confession. Always fond of cafe and restaurant life, the murderer did not alter his course of living in any way. But evidently began to worry, for after a week had elapsed and he called to his father in Russia for funds to carry him to that country. This money which might have enabled him to escape to complete safety for the rest of his days arrived in Stockholm the morning after his arrest.

By reason of his nobility of birth, Gyllenpalm can choose that he be put to death with the sword instead of the more plebeian blade of the guillotine. Such is his inalienable prerogative.
