G. O. P. TO FIGHT TO GET CONGRESS

Aggressive Campaign Planned to Regain Senate and House; Forming Committees

Washington, D. C., May 19. — Feeling certain that Republican harmony will result from the convention to be held in Chicago in June, the leaders of the party in Washington are preparing for an aggressive campaign for the recovery not merely of the Presidency, but of the Senate and House.

The preparations that are being made are on a scale to surpass even the memorable campaign of 1896. Plans are being formulated for the expansion of committees, creation of additional committees and the elaboration of the entire campaign organization.

As one new feature it is proposed that a special committee shall be created, composed of members of the National Committee, and Senators, not member of that committee, which will pay special attention to the Senatorial contests in States where the Republicans hope to win.

After the House, Too

As another new feature, expansion of the Congressional Campaign Committee organization through the appointment of seven subcommittees, comprising practically the entire membership of that committee, and putting every man to work to help carry the House of Representatives also is being considered.

A similar disposition of forces in the National Committee and strengthening a hand in the management of the campaign if reunion is effected at Chicago, is suggested.

Utilization of almost of Jonathan Bourne's half million dollar Republican Publicity Association, which has been at work for more than a year and which has already collected campaign contributions known to run into large figures, also is indorsed.

The formation of a Senatorial Campaign Committee, is a distinct departure designed to look after the interest of Senatorial candidates as the Congressional Committee looks after nominations for the House. The idea originated with Republican Senators, and the details will be worked out at Chicago after the reorganization of the National Committee.

Taught by Experience

After the elections of 1914 the Republicans found to their chagrin that in at least two States a reasonable amount of effort might have elected Republican Senators. At the time it was "everybody's business" to watch the campaign, which, of course, resulted in it being "nobody's business" and the Democrats walked away with the prizes practically by default, it is claimed.

The Republican National Congressional Committee has already expanded and completed its reorganization upon a larger scale than ever before known and will wage the most vigorous campaign since the hot fights of 1896 and 1900. The Executive Committee has been expanded from nine members to seventeen and endowed with wide authority. Representative William B. McKinley, of Illinois, has been chosen chairman of the Executive Committee, with Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, vice-chairman. Representative Miller, of Delaware, secretary and former Senator Nathan B. Scott, now a resident of this city, treasurer.

NANNIE BURROUGH'S IDEA

By Frederic J. Haskin

millinery, manuevering and massage, general housekeeping, business, social settlement work and music. The cost is $9.50 a month, with $3 extra for music. The girls are required to run the place themselves, hiring only one man to do the Spring plowing and building repairs. Meals are prepared by the domestic science class, much of the clothing is made by the dress-making class, the girls are manuevered once a week by the manicuring class and coiffured by the hairdressers.

One cottage, dedicated by a Chicago religious denomination is used exclusively for practical housekeeping. The first floor, containing a living room, dining room, kitchen and butler's pantry, is furnished simply but correctly, while the second floor contains six well-arranged bedrooms. Here each girl takes her turn in performing certain duties in the household. One week she is housekeeper, planning the meals and overseeing the work of the others; the next week she may be chambermaid or cook, the actual visitors from Pennsylvania, Mississippi or Kentucky, who are to be house guests for the week in which case the housekeeper makes her arrangements and each girl is assigned additional duties.

In this house, also, are given banquets and various entertainments for which subscriptions are taken, any monetary surplus being turned over to the school. Recently, the girls decided that the model kitchen was looking rather shabby and needed a new coat of paint. This they found cost $19, which they sold to the rest of the pupils and a few visitors for the necessary ten. In helping the school the girls are not only being taught a lesson in self-reliance, but they are learning to bear their share of responsibility for others.

Great emphasis is placed upon household economy, the pupils being taught how much time and money should be spent on a single meal, and also the value of efficient marketing. The girls do the marketing for the institution themselves under the supervision of the teachers. A specific article of the household diet is studied and dissected. For example, one week salads will be under discussion, including their food value in the menu, the varieties of dressings to be served with each, together with various combinations and receipts until each girl in the class is familiar with all kinds of salads and everything connected with them. The next week the same procedure ensues with meats or breads, or potatoes.

Economy, efficiency and cleanliness are the three mottoes of the National Training School. The beds are kept spotless, the floors are scrubbed vigorously and the school laundry is done as a part of the household courses. Such great stress has been laid upon cleanliness by Miss Burroughs that it has become necessary to police the hall leading to the bathtubs. The afternoon bath is the cause of great excitement and lively conflict between pupils, often ending in disastrous results to clothes and hair.

SUIT FOR $200,000 FAILS

Pillar-Mining, That Might Release a Lake, Involved

Pottsville, Pa., May 19. — The case of the Dodson Coal Company, who sued Warren and Frederick Delano for $200,000 damages, was decided adversely to the plaintiff by Judge Bechtel, who ordered the jury to render a verdict for the defendant. The suit has been pending for years and is the direct result of the decision of the Supreme Court, ordering that a barrier pillar of 300 feet be maintained between the Morea Colliery, operated by the Dodsons and the Mill Creek Colliery, adjoining, because of the presence of a large subterranean lake, which would

THE GOAT'S TIME—HONORED CALLING

In Farm and Fireside is an essay on the goat which says among other things: "The goat is a great aid in keeping tin cans, bricks, scrap iron, and other such rubbish from accumulating around the farm, as he eats all of these things as fast as they appear, and he would be a greater success in this way if he wasn't so ambitious.
