A large and interested audience attended the public entertainment held last evening by Capitol City Review, 288, of the Woman's Beneficial Association of the Maccabees. The Guards did excellent work and two little girls, Margaret Armstrong and Sara Hess, gave a duet. Readings by Miss Ramsay, in costume, charmed the audience and Mrs. Forster, of Harrisburg Review, 257, and members of the Grace Methodist Church choir sang delightfully, accompanied by Mrs. Phillips. An interesting and timely talk by Mr. Dorschner closed the program.

GRACEFUL DANCES AT GARDEN PARTY

Everyone Interested Asked to Attend Wellesley Club Lawn Fete Tomorrow

Everyone will want to attend the beautiful garden party given to-morrow afternoon on the lawn of the Herman P. Miller residence, 2217 North Third street, as a benefit by the Wellesley Club of Southeastern Pennsylvania. The tickets are only a quarter each, including refreshments and the money secured will help increase the fund for the student building, an auditorium much needed at Wellesley. The girls will sell candy as an extra.

The order of dances and music includes: "Moment Musical," Schubert, by Miss Ruth Powell the tree day dancer of Wellesley, last year; "Every Little Movement," fairy group; "Flower Dance," Dorothy Cox; "Blue Danube Waltz," "Nymph Dance," Helen Davis to "Le Secret," Gautier; "Same Sort of Girl," Fairies; "Serenade," Dingo, Ruth Powell; "Greek Ball Dance," to "Narcissus," the Misses Mary Whitmer, Helen Wallis, Elizabeth Morgan, Helen Farmer, Margaret Pollock, Elizabeth Killinger, Bertha Turner and Clara Wolfe; "Piper Dance," to Piper music, Miss Arline Johns of Lancaster, a pipe dancer of Wellesley, 1914.

The officers of this branch of the Wellesley Club are: President, Miss Anna Sener, Lancaster; vice-president, Miss Rebecca Greist, Lancaster; recording secretary, Miss Anna Margaret Miller, Harrisburg; corresponding secretary and treasurer, Miss Margaret Tuttle, York; graduate counselor, Mrs. Tuttle, York. THE JUNIOR AIDS TO PRESENT PLAY

"The Princess Who Couldn't Dance" Given in Board of Trade June 1

The Junior Aid Society will present "The Princess Who Couldn't Dance" at the Board of Trade Hall, Thursday evening, June 1. The members of the cast have co-operated heartily in boosting and practicing for the play. Rehearsals have been held almost daily for the past few weeks and everything indicates success. Tickets for the play, selling at 50 cents apiece, can be procured from the members of the society.

The cast includes the following girls: The princess, Nell Payne; the king, Elizabeth P. Harris; the queen, Helen Davis; the prince, Theodora Kaufman. The four comical dancing masters, Fidelity, Dartha Davis; Thinaidly, Katherine Beideman; Bumbinsky, Virginia Bishop; Humbinsky, Alice Virginia Cooper; furnish the humorous and ridiculous touch to the play which makes it sparkling with life and bubbling over in laughter.

The Buttery Fairies, Helen Davis; the Naiad, Eliza Bailey; the South Wind, Theodora Kaufman; the Fairy of Happiness, Susanna Maguire; the Little Old Woman, Alice Lescurie; the pages, Margaret Davis and Winifred Meyers; the herald, Betty Oenslager; maid in waiting, Lydia Kunkel; lords and ladies, Eliza Bailey, Dartha Davis, Virginia Bishop, Katherine Beideman, Alice V. Cooper, Alice Lescurie, Sarah Bailey, Louise Hickok, Mary Louise Hubley, Susanna Maguire, Gladys Voorhees, Avis Ann Hickok and Mary Cooper.

The lords and ladies will air the grace and ease of royalty when in the third act they dance the old-fashioned gavotte so splendidly. The play is one of those modern fairy stories where the prince and princess marry and live happily ever after.

There is no doubt of its being a success. The cast, which is well chosen for their individual adaptability to the parts, evinces talent and splendid training. The play is entirely under the direction of Alice Sener, who merits credit for his fine work in drilling and training the players.

During the intermission candy will be sold by quaintly garbed pages. The proceeds derived from this play will be used to further the wonderful work which this organization is doing.
