Throw Fresh Troops in Large
Masses Against French
Lines

PARIS ADMITS RETREAT

Say Bulgarians Advance Into Greece Through Secret
Agreement

Fresh troops in large masses are being thrown by the Germans against the French lines northwest of Verdun and twice within the last 24 hours General Nivelle's forces have been compelled to give ground.

The weakest point in the French defense appears to be in the neighborhood of Cumieres between that village and Dead Man Hill, to the west. This line was denied by the Germans for a distance of more than 300 yards in the third of a series of violent assaults yesterday afternoon. Last night the Germans returned to the attack with a fresh division and Paris admits that in the face of this drive the French were forced to retire slightly along the Bethincourt-Cumieres road.

Other Violent Attacks

The German attacks apparently were equally violent along other sectors of the front west of the Meuse, but according to the French war office, nowhere else were the Crown Prince's men able to gain ground. East of the river heavy artillery fire in the region of Fort Douaumont is reported.

Advices from the Balkans show a continuation of Bulgarian activity along the Macedonian front, following the recent occupation by King Ferdinand's troops of forts on Greek territory in the vicinity of Demir-Hissar. The Bulgarians are reported to be concentrating additional forces near the Greek border at Nevolet and Xanthia, while along the Vardar river the advance lines of the entente forces are being bombarded.

This followed a parade up Pennsylvania avenue, reviewed by military and naval officers. Special honor was paid the memory of those who lost their lives on the battleship Maine and the submarine F-4, which sank off Honolulu Harbor.

Conductor John S. Snyder Killed Near Trenton

John S. Snyder, aged 65 years, 1509 Green street, preference freight conductor on the Philadelphia division of the Pennsylvania railroad, was struck by a westbound freight train near Trenton last night and instantly killed. The body was brought to Harrisburg at noon to-day. Arrangements for the funeral will be announced later.

The survivors are a widow, Mrs. Kate E. Snyder, two daughters, Mrs. Irving Brandt of Lancaster, and Miss Anne Snyder at home; also sisters residing in Harrisburg, Lancaster and Columbia. Burial will probably be made at Columbia.

An investigation is being made as to how Conductor Snyder met his death. It is the belief he was stepping from his train which was eastbound, when struck by the westbound freight.

John S. Snyder was a native of Mill Creek. He started his service with the Pennsylvania railroad 40 years ago, and at one time was located in Columbia.

BIG BILLED WOODPECKER FINDS WAY TO STORE FARMERS' CORN

Deputy Prothonotary Erb Solves Mystery of Grain's Disappearance; Hammer Seals Crack in Pole

Hockersville, Pa., May 30.—Farmers around here who had been puzzled during the last few days as to the disappearance of newly sown corn solved the mystery to-day with the aid of Deputy Prothonotary Elmer E. Erb. Elmer is a lawyer and sits in at sentence court and hears lots about criminals and knows lots of detectives and so on, and the folks about here kind of looked to him to do a little Sherlock Holmes work on the corn problem. So he did. At the grocery store the other day he told this story about it himself. Everybody said "Do tell!"

Just outside the Erb homestead is a tall telegraph pole. Of late the unusual activity of a red-headed wood-

PHILADELPHIA IS POLITICAL CENTER

Governor's Headquarters Staff
Goes There; No Response to Penrose Exceptions

In the absence of Governor Brumbaugh and Attorney General Brown to-day no one would comment upon the exceptions taken by the Penrose people in Philadelphia to the claim of thirty-seven delegates, likely three more and possibly six, for the Governor made last night by Mr. Brown. The claim is regarded here as the final statement from the Brumbaugh people. A week ago forty-four were claimed, but the statement issued last night does not include the three Roosevelt men in Allegheny county and has in the list a half-dozen others who are for the Governor for President and Senator Penrose for chairman.

FINDS PENROSE'S HAT

The lost hat has been found, in the discovery by young Lester Stouffer, a lad living along the road between Gettysburg and Harrisburg, of the hatbox stamped "B. Penrose, Philadelphia," which the senior Senator lost during a motor trip some days ago. In the box were several new hats which were destined to cover Senator Penrose under the varying conditions of the Chicago national convention. Stouffer parcel posted the hats to the tip half way to the box.

POULTRY FIELD MEETING

A big field meeting was held this afternoon at the Beaufort farms by the Central Pennsylvania Poultry Association and the State Department of Agriculture. W. Theodore Wittman, poultry adviser for the State Department, gave an interesting address, speaking particularly on breeding, incubation and feeding. Automobiles met the Rockville cars at the Linglestown road and conveyed the persons attending the meeting to the farms. E. B. Mitchell, proprietor, opened the place for inspection during the afternoon.

OVER RIVER TOWNS MAY JOIN FORCES

Washington Heights Names
Committee to Talk Annexation With Camp Hill

Washington Heights citizens in town meeting last evening appointed Charles H. Bishop, Frank J. Harro and Gus M. Steinmetz a committee to wait on Camp Hill Council at its next meeting and take up with that body the matter of annexing Washington Heights to Camp Hill borough.

The subject of annexation or creating a separate borough for Washington Heights was discussed at length. Engineer James Thompson showing by diagram the section proposed to be included in the tract to be annexed or incorporated. It was developed that a twenty mill tax rate for the proposed borough would yield an income of about $5,600 and that this would not be sufficient for the purposes, especially since a new school-house would have to be built, about $750 expended the first year to send children to Harrisburg High Schools (a constantly increasing sum) and that the expenses of a separate borough would be much greater than if the territory was simply made a part of Camp Hill.

It was shown that the proposed separate borough would cost the taxpayers much more than would be the case if he territory were annexed to Camp Hill and the two communities governed by one Burgess, one council, one board of health, one school board, etc. Besides, annexation to Camp Hill would give Washington Heights free high school facilities and a graded school system, which it could not have otherwise.

The meeting adjourned to convene at the call of Chairman Frank J. Harro.

Young Woman Blacksmith Advises Girls to Propose

Ames, Iowa, May 30.—Miss Tura A. Hawk, Iowa State College's only girl student of blacksmithing, has further demonstrated her versatility by winning the faculty cup for the best extemporaneous address, and she did it with the subject "Why Women Should Propose."

"There are three reasons why a woman should propose—physical, spiritual and moral," said Miss Hawk. "I ask you, is there any reason why a strong, able-bodied woman should not support a husband if she chooses? No; only a time-worn prejudice rears itself against such a procedure."

"For the spiritual reason there is the great saying, 'What ever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so to them.' As woman should rightfully be the manager of the old-fashioned institutions, the home, is it any more than fair that she should be permitted to ask the man of her ideals to help her found and operate that home? Must woman, because years of common practice have established a custom, wait when she is ready to begin her life work because only the men who are not her ideal will propose?"

"Five Minutes For Memor- ies" Teaches Lesson of Patriotism and Heroism to Thousands Throughout the State; Fighters of Fifty Years Ago Step by Un- daunted in Spirit Though Bent With Age; Impres- sive Ceremonies Mark Ser- vices Where "Little Green Tents" Stand Ever So Si- lent

All Harrisburg to-day stood with head bared while the survivors of America's greatest lesson in preparedness trudged by with the Flag.

The "thin blue line" wavered just a little more perhaps than in years gone by, and the ranks were not so full and compact; but then the green mounds in the cemeteries toward which the procession moved were more numerous than a year ago and the year before.

Memorial Day was just another year nearer to the day of memories, only that didn't prevent the blue-clad fighters of 50 years ago from stepping along any the less gamely; they cheerfully grinned at the combined efforts of the over-cautious weatherman and the grave old man with the scythe and tramped past unperturbed at least—with the same vigor that won that first Grand review after Appomattox a place in history.

When "They Remembered"

For just five minutes to-day the scores of Grand Army men in Harrisburg "remembered" with some 18,000 fellow-fighters throughout the State, the "fellows" who fought with them some 50 years ago and in whose memory flowers were strewn and salutes were fired and "laps" were called to-day.

This was at noon when, in response to the State commander's general order Grand Army throughout Pennsylvania bared their heads and gave "five minutes to memories."

The finishing touches to the big day's program were completed last evening and early this morning. Everybody was busy as could be "round the quarters of Post 58 and 116 and among the Sons of Veterans and the Spanish-American club, formed by the Veterans of foreign service had their hands equally full.

What the Rain Couldn't Efface

Just a word about the cemeteries, too. Hundreds of people crowded the burial grounds and when the sun went down last evening, the quietest section of the city showed the results of loving care and a few tears perhaps, that even the rainy tears of old Ma Nature's May showers couldn't efface. Flowers, and the flag that makes any other Nation's emblem—take it from the tired but jumpy veteran to-night—look like mighty, mighty chest, formed the setting that only Memorial Day can give.

The Children's Tribute

The school children helped too. Committees at all day yesterday at the post rooms receiving the floral tributes of hundreds of little folks who "had read about Gettysburg and Vicksburg and Andersonville in 'history'."

"Daisy Fleabane" 'Il Get You if You Don't Watch Out

If you're at all susceptible to hay fever, you'd better be careful if you go daisy-picking—the "daisy fleabane" 'il get you if you don't watch out.

In the June issue of the "Dauphin Medical Academician," the enlarged and very interesting monthly publication that is prepared by the Harrisburg Academy of Medicine and the Dauphin County Medical Society, some interesting advice about "hay fever" and its causes, etc., is contained in a leading article.

"Hay fever weeds and how they may be recognized," is the title of the paper. The chief offenders are already "black-listed" as they have no redeeming features of color, scent or utility. The chief characteristics are that they are wind pollinated, very numerous, the flowers are inconspicuous and extraordinarily full of pollen. But, listen, here's what Dr. Scheppegrell, president of the American Hay Fever Prevention Association, has to say about the daisy fleabane:

"Children collect these flowers and in one whiff will inhale sufficient pollen to cause a paroxysm of hay fever lasting three to five days. Such attacks are almost invariably attributed to 'colds,' the real cause not being suspected. It may, in addition, cause a 'sensitization,' which will make the child susceptible to hay fever in later years."
