Twenty classes are still without a break in their ranks. Music was furnished during the evening by the Haydn Quartet, of Harrisburg, and Whitman's Orchestra, of town. GRADUATES TALK ON PREPAREDNESS

Fifty-two Steelton Seniors Receive Diplomas at Thirty-second Annual Commencement

Before more than 1,000 people, all that could crowd into the High School auditorium, fifty-two members of the class of 1916 of the Steelton High school participated in the impressive ceremonies which marked their retirement from public school life last evening.

The big hall was tastefully festooned with college, school and class pennants and a huge bank of daisies, the class flower, encircled the stage. For the first time the High School orchestra furnished music for the ceremonies and performed its part as creditably as any of the larger professional orchestras.

The solemn-garbed students in their essays and declamations caught the spirit of the hour and seized upon "Preparedness" as the keynote of their discourse. To the tuneful strains of "Lake Soman," by the orchestra the fifty-two graduates marched in and took their places on the stage. The Rev. C. B. Segelken, pastor of the First Presbyterian church offered prayer and the salutatory oration was delivered by Harry Paul Hocker.

Miss Laura Esther Keim followed with a recitation, "The Widow and Her Son," which she presented with ability. Another selection by the orchestra followed. Then "Preparedness" came to the front again in a declamation, "The Call to Arms," Patric Henry's stirring plea, by Harry Edward Trawitz. This was followed by "The Going of the White Swans," a gripping recitation by Henrietta Catherine Poir and the rendition of "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2," by Florence Christine Finger.

Again in the declamation of George Edgar Wolf, the spirit of the hour was echoed. He spoke on "Our Duty to the Republic." This was followed up by clever story entitled "In the Trenches" in which the boy members of the class were each brought to the attention of the big audience in their best garb by Esther Reah Lau.

In the essay presented by Harry Devore Sellers, entitled "Preparedness" the boys had "their inning" and the girls their uncomfortable moments. The valedictory essay, "Aim at a Certain End," by Miss Azalea Wigfield.

The diplomas were presented by Attorney W. F. Darby, president of the school board for 11 years, following a few remarks by Superintendent L. E. McGinness.

As he presented each member of the class, Professor McGinness pointed out a few high lights in the class history, called attention to the two pair of twins in the class and pointed out the fact that most of the graduates were born during the Spanish-American War, as is evident, he said, by their names. The address to the graduates was delivered by Dr. A. C. Rothermel, principal of the Kutztown Normal school, the speaker who delivered one of the addresses when the cornerstone for the Steelton High School was laid. He declared that a High School education is the "key to the knowledge of the ages," and urged the students to make the best possible use of the knowledge and training in public schools. He also pointed out advantages of higher education.

To Hold Memorials.—Memorial services will be held Sunday by Steelton Lodge, 162, Order of Independent Americans and by Steelton Camp, 5589, Modern Woodmen of America. The Americans will attend services in the First Methodist Church where the Rev. W. C. Sanderson will preach the memorial sermon and the Woodmen will attend Grace United Evangelical church to hear the sermon by the Rev. J. M. Shoop.

Wier who have just returned to the borough. Those who participated in the interesting program presented include: J. F. Mentzer, Miss Martha Armstrong, Earl Bush, Frank Armstrong, H. J. REAL ESTATE

To Report on New Annex to City at June Court

Not a single objection to the proposed annexation of the Calder tract—the new suburban development just east of Nineteenth street—was presented to-day when the viewers appointed by the Court to report on the subject held a brief session in the Council chamber. The viewers met yesterday on the ground. The only property owner to appear was Theodore G. Calder, owner of the tract which had been developed. The stretch of ground includes all that lying east of Nineteenth, west of the Poorhouse Road, north of Cameron Parkway and south of the Philadelphia and Reading "cut." The majority of the property holders have petitioned Council for annexation and the city fathers joined in a request to the Dauphin County Court to permit the suburb to come in.

The viewers will not frame their report for presentation to Court at June Quarter Sessions. The new tract, it is expected, will be included within the present boundaries of two wards—the First and Second.

Bowman, Walnut street, $1 each; William Pavord to Sarah A. Emerick, 112 South Cameron, $2,200; Charles D. MEDICAL MERGER

NEARLY COMPLETE

Jefferson, U. of P. and Medico-Chi Schools Will Act as Unit

Philadelphia, June 2.—Philadelphia is now virtually assured the largest medical school in the world, through the merging of the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania, the Jefferson Medical College and the Medico-Chirurgical College. The merger of the latter college with the University of Pennsylvania was consummated yesterday. The proposition, which has been under discussion since last December, has been under discussion since last December, has been virtually worked out by the different institutions and the result of the final meetings probably will be made public at the meeting of the Jefferson alumni, which precedes the annual banquet to be held to-night at the Bellevue-Stratford. The announcement of Jefferson's merger with the university and the Medico-Chirurgical is expected.

Alba Johnson, who was appointed a member of the Jefferson committee, said yesterday afternoon, after a meeting at the Jefferson Hospital, that he could make no statement other than to say that the news would be given out to-night.

Card of Thanks

MR. AND MRS. FRED WIGFIELD AND FAMILY wish to return their heartfelt thanks to all those who so kindly assisted and to those who extended sympathies during their recent sad bereavement.

Great Min-Ral-Cop

Continues to Relieve

Every day more men and women are telling of the great relief they have found by using the new remedy. It's not a few, but many are rejoicing.

What is your complaint? You know you are compelled to drink water. You put the Min-Ral-Cop in your drinking water. It doesn't change the color of the water. Neither does the water have an unpleasant taste or odor afterwards. "I don't see how, by drinking that water, I can be helped," is what you may say. Neither did the multitudes see how until they tried it. They have changed their opinions now and to-day they are telling it better than I can ever expect to tell it. Try it just once, and it will convince you, too.

Mrs. Fannie Mackey, 1221 Seventh street, is a hard working woman. She has to make her own living. Mrs. Mackey said she was suffering with complication of diseases, her breath was short, her system run down, her appetite poor. After drinking the water from her Min-Ral-Cop a few days, her son remarked to her, "Mother, I don't hear you complaining now." She declares the Cop has wrought wonders for her. One Cop has been known to have been used several years, and every individual should use his own cop. Go quickly now and get one at Marshall's Pharmacy, Cor. Bond and Cowden streets. Price, 50c. R. J. Stone, Sole Proprietor and Manager, 619 North Second street, Richmond, Va. adv.
