"IT'S Just as Good" Is a Lame Excuse

IT'S a lame excuse for a dealer to say, "It is Just as Good," when he offers you an imitation in place of the genuine product for which you asked.

YOU can cure the dealer who has the "Just as Good" habit - refuse to buy the substitute he offers you.

BY REFUSING to buy his substitute, you will show him you are not an "Easy Mark." There are plenty of grocers, druggists, haberdashers, houseware stores, dry goods stores, and dealers in other lines, who will supply your wants and will always sell you what you ask for.

IT IS to your advantage to buy at stores where you get what you ask for, because in addition to good service you are sure of getting standard brands of merchandise.

REST assured of one thing - your interests are always safer with the dealer who gives you what you ask for than they are with the dealer who offers you an imita-tion and tells you it is "Just as Good."

"JUST as Good" won't satisfy you.

YOU'LL find lots of suits for sale in Harrisburg at less than $25. When we advise you to come here and pay we are well aware that there are plenty of lower priced suits to be had. But we're also aware that there are no suits really cheaper than these; none more economical; none better value for your money than these.

Twenty Five Dollars For a Hart-Schaffner & Marx Suit

And that's what you spend your money for. It doesn't require any special business genius to see that the economy in a purchase is in what you get, not in what you pay.

The value in these Hart-Schaffner & Marx suits is in the style, the fine fabrics, the splendid tailoring, the smart fit and the long and useful service you'll get which most low priced clothes don't give you.

There were many expressions of love

There were many expressions of love and esteem made among the little group of silent mourners and here and there the trace of a tear could be discovered. Wid Conroy was in the center of the group of athletes on their way to humble the Blings.

"Poor Moose." That was about all that Conroy said as he stood with bared head. Joe Ward and Chie Hartman both of whom attended the funeral of Ote Johnson were deeply affected and those who attended the obsequies will recall that Ward wept like a child during the services at the church.
