REVOLT DOOMED FROM BEGINNING

Sinn Feiners Used as Pawn by Berlin Against Revolutionists

London, June 2.—This is the history as told by the authorities here of the widespread plot which resulted in the uprising in Ireland. It is a story to the effect that the Sinn Fein organization was used as a pawn in the game played by Berlin and certain Germans and revolutionists in America and of how the failure of the revolt was made doubly sure by the inability or disinclination on the part of Germany to carry out important features of the plan at almost the last moment. The facts given here have been gathered from authentic British sources and are printed as completely as possible under the censorship.

Planned Before War

The plot had its inception shortly after the beginning of the war when certain Irishmen and German auxiliaries conceived the idea of utilizing the Sinn Fein organization for a revolt—the Germans being actuated, of course, by the admittedly legitimate purpose of weakening Great Britain and the others having national aspirations or, in at least one case, a desire to obtain revenge for alleged political wrongs suffered at the hands of England. At that time the Sinn Feiners who really had organized because of jealousy of the nationalist volunteers, probably had no definite idea of starting a revolt. They accepted the plan, however, and eventually fell victims to a scheme which was not of their own making.

HELP FOR WORKING WOMEN

Some Have to Keep on Until They Almost Drop. How Mrs. Conley Got Help.

Here is a letter from a woman who had to work, but was too weak and suffered too much to continue. How she regained health:— Frankfort, Ky.—"I suffered so much with female weakness that I could not do my own work, had to hire it done. I heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I tried it. I took three bottles and I found it to be all my claim. Now I feel as well as ever I did and am able to do all my own work again. I recommend it to any woman suffering from female weakness. You may publish my letter if you wish."—Mrs. JAMES CONLEY, 516 St. Clair St., Frankfort, Ky.

appears prominently throughout the story. He went from America to Christiania late in 1914 under an assumed name. At Christiania he conferred with the German consul and then proceeded to Germany with his Norwegian servant. Coincidentally with his arrival in Berlin certain officials placed their influence and guarantee of assistance back of an Irish rebellion. According to this account Germany agreed to furnish money, arms and men to assist the Sinn Feiners and most important of all, said to have agreed to an invasion of England which would prevent soldiers being sent into Ireland by the British War Department.

Communicated Through U. S.

America was made the medium of communication between Berlin and Ireland. Certain Irishmen in the United States enlisted their services and Captains Boyed and Von Papes, the German naval and military attaches at Washington together with others, some of whom are now under arrest in America, are said to have done their part in furthering the plans. The carrying of funds and information to the Sinn Feiners was done largely by Irish sympathizers in America who were able to visit their home land without question. Shortly after Casement's arrival in Germany the statement appeared in German newspapers that his servant had been making trips to Christiania to visit the British authorities for the purpose of delivering Casement over to them. At the same time Sir Roger Casement, then British minister at Christiania had tried to have him assassinated. This was the first news the British public had received of Casement's presence in Germany. His assassinations against the British minister are now said to have been the initial step in a publicity campaign to gain sympathy.

Tried to Recruit Irish

The next information received in London concerning Sir Roger Casement was brought by returning soldiers who reported that he was going about the prison camps and trying to recruit Irish soldiers to fight against England. He is said to have obtained few acceptances.

This recruiting and somewhat haphazard plotting went on until November, 1915. Then there was a lull in proceedings. The trust appears to be that the revolutionary wind which had blown hot from Berlin at first was then getting cool. The Germans had grown tired of Casement's Casement himself retired to Munich where it was reported he was in poor health. After a considerable spell of comparative inactivity, these persons in the United States who were taking a part in the engineering of the revolution became weary or waiting for developments and sent a man to see Casement. This man, an Irishman and a British subject living in America proceeded direct to Germany without touching England. He brought word that the date for the uprising must be set and plans laid for the date. This was agreed to and either Easter Sunday or Easter Monday was fixed upon.

As the time drew near it was seen that a revolution could not be made a success and the idea of invasion was discarded. This fact was not known to the Sinn Feiners until almost the moment before the fighting started. However, certain Berlin officials had given their word to assist the movement and decided to satisfy the obligation as far as possible without heavy loss of life or war material. Easter approached and it was proposed to dispatch a ship to Ireland with arms and those Irish soldiers who had agreed to fight. A naval attack on the east coast of England and air raids also were settled upon to divert the attention of the British authorities from Ireland. The ship, start from Kiel for the western coast of Ireland, but it was manned by a German crew and did not carry the Irish recruits. When Sir Roger Casement had fallen through he refused to let his followers embark, declaring that it would be sheer murder. He did agree to go himself, however, and departed on the submarine. The fate of the ship of arms and of Casement has been told.

Wife Away on Visit, He Weds Once More

Chicago.—David Finzelber's wife went to the country for a two months' vacation. During her absence David took unto himself another wife, according to the police. He left South Chicago, went to West Pullman and there made love to Josephine Hittant. He told her his name was Fred Brown and after a rapid courtship induced her to be married to him, the ceremony taking place in Crown Point, Ind. All was happiness until Mrs. Finzelber wrote saying she was coming home with the children. David didn't know what to do, but his latest wife did. She had him arrested for bigamy and now he's in jail.

FAT MEN IN TENNIS CONTEST

BRING DOWN AEROPLANE

Tarnopol, Galicia, June 2.—An Austrian aeroplane, one of these whose visits have become almost a daily feature of life in this town, was brought down within the Russian lines recently. Its two occupants succeeded in burning the machine but were captured. On every fair day these air raiders from Austrian lines by over Tarnopol and drop their bombs. Their appearance is the signal for a fusillade from field guns from various quarters. At the first report people seek the shelter of buildings, children scamper to quick cover and faces are turned skywards. A few days ago 25 bombs fell but the net damage was slight. On another day, at noon-time, a raider was observed high among the clouds. Shells from the Russian guns burst on all sides of him, but he sailed seemingly unharmed behind a bank of clouds and disappeared from view. Later came a report of his capture, the details of which are lacking.

PROTEST MARRIAGE BANS

Vienna, June 2.—To protest against the legal prohibitions and hindrances to marriage in Austria, the Austrian Women's Union is organizing a series of demonstrations. In a manifesto issued to the public the Union declares that it is surprising that at a moment when there is a general desire for an increase of population the state itself prevents whole categories of persons, especially women, from marriages.
