

PROGRESSIVES NOMINATE T. R. BY ACCLAMATION

Before this action was taken, Mr. Robins had mentioned the necessity of nominating a Vice-President. "Johnson is the man," was the shout that came from the floor showing that the desire of the party was almost unanimous for their 1912 standard bearer, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt of New York, and Governor Hiram Johnson of California.

10.58—Instructors to delegates on how to make a nomination unanimous without call were given from the platform by Secretary Davis. 11.04—After explanation of the parliamentary situation it was apparent that a nomination would be made without roll call.

11.05—Answering demands for an immediate nomination of Colonel Roosevelt, Chairman Robins said the convention would proceed to adopt the platform or make nominations without giving the conference committee a reasonable time to report. 11.09—"The peace conferees reached the convention hall at 11.09 a. m. 11.11—Chairman Perkins was recognized to report the action of the conference committee.

regular orders of business until it became the Republicans are balloting again. 12.22—Mr. Colby named Col. Roosevelt at the end of the two minute talk. Delegates and spectators cheered wildly but were checked at once by the chair. 12.26—Chairman Robins took the floor from George W. Perkins who followed Mr. Colby, by recognizing Governor Hiram Johnson as soon as it was announced that the Republicans had proceeded with a third ballot. The discourtesy to Mr. Perkins was howled down, and Governor Johnson at once yielded to Mr. Perkins to inform the convention of the withdrawals at the Coliseum of a number of favorite-son candidates.

Progressive Chairmen Vote to Await Action on Lodge Suggestion by T. R.

Chicago, Ill., June 10.—The conference of the Progressive state chairmen adjourned at 11.05 a. m. after voting to request the Progressive convention to delay further action until the Republican convention has opportunity to consider a suggestion made by Colonel Roosevelt that Senator Lodge be considered as a compromise presidential candidate. A minority of the conference voted to nominate Roosevelt at once.

At 9 o'clock this morning George W. Perkins, Hiram Johnson and other Progressive delegates were in close conference with Chairman Robins and there were rumors among the Progressive delegates that a coup of some kind was in preparation, the word having gone round to have them in their seats early so that the convention could meet sharp at 10.30. George W. Perkins left the conference to go to a meeting of the Republican and Progressive conferees. All the state chairmen remained in the conference, it was said, no word had yet come from Colonel Roosevelt as to whether he would accept a Progressive nomination if the Republican convention nominated Justice Hughes.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT, PROGRESSIVE NOMINEE FOR PRESIDENT

The picturesque career of Theodore Roosevelt may be summed up briefly thus: Born in New York, October 27, 1858. Educated at Harvard, 1880. Member of New York Legislature, 1882-4; delegate Republican national convention, 1884; United States Civil Service Commissioner, 1889-95; president New York Police Board, 1895-7; assistant Secretary of Navy, 1897-8; Governor of New York, January 1, 1899, to December 31, 1901; Vice-President of United States, 1901-05; became President on death of William McKinley, September 14, 1901; President of United States, 1905-09.

HIRAM JOHNSON, PROGRESSIVE NOMINEE FOR VICE-PRESIDENT

Hiram Johnson, former Governor of California, is a resident of Sacramento, where he was born September 2, 1866. He was admitted to the bar of California in 1887. He was Governor of his State from 1911 to 1915 and has been a rampant Progressive ever since the break in 1912.

HUGHES IS TOLD OF NOMINATION

Receives News Without Apparent Emotion While at Lunch With His Wife

Washington, D. C., June 10.—Justice Hughes was told of his nomination for the Presidency by newspaper men at his home where he had been at work all during the Republican convention on decisions to be handed down on Monday, probably his last day as an associated justice of the Supreme Court. He received the news without evident emotion, saying: "I have nothing to say at this time, but will make a statement later in the day."

SAYS VIRTUES MAY BE VICIES

Dorothy Dix Discusses "Unselfishness" and What It Lead To

Unselfishness is another virtue that is popularly supposed to be the brightest jewel in the crown that adorns the feminine brow. Never a preacher or a moralist who doesn't adjure women to cultivate unselfishness. Never a panegyric of wifehood or motherhood that isn't a rhapsody over the woman who makes a doormat of herself for her children and husband to wipe their feet upon.

they raise up the lazy, selfish, parasitic girls, who curse the men who are unlucky enough to get them for wives. Mother has a glow of self-righteousness when she thinks of how she is "saving" her daughters by bending over the wash tub while they are getting exercise in a tennis court. She thinks she is doing the part of a noble, self-sacrificing mother by working her fingers to the bone while her girl's hands are pink and manicured, and by wearing the cast-off clothes of the family while her daughters are arrayed in the latest creation from Paris.

It is natural that this view of the subject should be popular with the little tin gods before whom a woman offers herself up. The queer part of it is that women should have cultivated in themselves the sacrificial spirit until they have come to believe that the way for a woman to do her duty by her family is to make herself miserable for it. They are like the fanatics who think they attain heaven by casting themselves under the wheels of the car of Juggernaut and letting it roll over them and crush the life out of them.

WHY BACHELORS DO NOT MARRY

Does Not Know One Marriageable Woman Who Loves Children Writes One

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX (Copyright, 1916, Star Co.) Here is a letter from a bachelor who has some interesting things to say about marriage. It seems he read in this column some time ago a reference which he thought unfriendly toward bachelors. That was a mistaken impression on his part; but here is what he has to say, and it would be well for women, married and single, to read it carefully: "I am nearly forty; extremely fond of children. My Christmas bill for dolls was over $30. My only reason for wishing to marry would be to have a little home nest of my own, but when I look around among the supposedly marriageable prospects I cannot name one who knows how to boil an egg or instruct a servant how to do so.

Why Bachelors Do Not Marry. The opinion of physicians regarding marriage is not always reliable. Quite an army of young women of marriageable age can be found in America who have never been under the care of a physician, at least since their crup and measles days.

Does Not Know One Marriageable Woman Who Loves Children. "I don't know a marriageable woman who loves children, though they will often pretend to if they think to gain your favor by doing so. There are fully 500 physicians in New York who are bachelors—and if a physician don't know what matrimony means no one does. "I don't happen to drink or smoke. Barroom company I detest, and anything like a club life would bore me. I want none of it while I have good books and a piano.

Does Not Know One Marriageable Woman Who Loves Children. "When a man doesn't love a woman, what greater injury could he do her or himself than to marry her? Isaac Newton, Voltaire, Herbert Spencer and a few others were bachelors, and there are a few of us left, so please give us credit for being human beings, but give us a chance to meet some woman who has a little of the home instinct and perhaps we would see an opportunity to change our state.

Does Not Know One Marriageable Woman Who Loves Children. "The bachelor who wants to meet women with the home instinct, if his mind is absolutely focused in that direction, will materialize them and they will become visible. A shopping credit which they are ever ready to trade off for a better one. Nor is the unselfish wife the pearl without price that she is supposed to be. It is not the self-abnegating woman who help men, but the ambitious ones who demand a place in the sun and force their husbands on to get it for them. Many a man has become a millionaire because he had to hustle to supply a selfish wife with gew-gaws.

Does Not Know One Marriageable Woman Who Loves Children. "Moreover, the unselfish wife and mother have never the slightest influence with either husband or children. We all take other people at their own value, and we accord to them the treatment they demand of us. Hence, when a woman humbles herself before her family they treat her with the contemptuous indifference due to her position. This is why the self-abnegating woman does more harm than good, and why unselfishness is oftener a crime than a virtue.
