Ainsile when she stood before her now, she could not deny that she was a fair picture.

"Perfectly groomed," some one said of her. Besides being unusually pretty, she certainly, as Grace had once expressed it, "knew how to wear her clothes."

"No, I can't imagine anybody refusing to go anywhere on such a lovely day," she repeated.

"Then," Dayton hesitated for an instant, "perhaps you will prove the sincerit of that remark by accepting an you to go on the drive we are planning for this afternoon."

"I shall love it!" Sylvia said, clasping he hands rapturously. "May I sit on the front seat by you? I love to watch you drive!"

Dayton cast a swift glance at Grace, but her face was absolutely expressionless.

"II—If—" he stammered, "If Miss Webb does not mind."

"I'—if—" he stammered, "If Miss Webb does not mind."

"Can you be ready in half an hour?"

"Can you be ready in half an hour?"

"I' am ready now, except for getting my hat and wraps," Grace told him.

"I must change my dress, but I will be down in half an hour to the minute." Sylvia Alinsile promised.

"I must change my dress, but I will be down in half an hour to the minute." Sylvia Alinsile promised.

"I am sorry, dear," Myra Webb began, "that Miss Ainsile is going."

"I' am sorry, dear," Myra Webb began, "that Miss Ainsile is going."

"I' hat him sorry, dear," Myra Webb began, "that Miss Ainsile is going."

"Oh, that's all right," Grace said brusquely. "I can pretend to like it, of course, though I am tired of shamming. I might have known that it would turn out like this. Mr. Dayton pretended he wanted to take me when at heart he wanted more to take Sylvia.

"How hat some the content of the company of the company

"That's because I am your daughter." the girl rejoined. "Don't you suppose I understand why you wouldn't go this afternoon? You thought I would have a better time if I went alone with Mr. Dayton, so you said the weather was too hot."

"No," Myra protested, "I really have some work I must do. But," with a justider that. That is my own affair."

"And your work always comes beore everything else," the girl said lowly. "I often wonder if you really love it, or it you only pretend to beause you have to."

"Trust you for standing up always for the other girl," he commented. "They ought to, if they have any sex-loyalty." "Well, I tell you how it is—" he began, then broke off with, "Ah, here's look perfectly corking! She looks worth waiting for, doesn't she look perfectly corking! She looks worth waiting for, doesn't she?" "She certainly does," Grace agreed with all the fervor she could muster.

FLOUNCED SKIRT

Useful Combination of Lingerie For Young Girls and Small Women

HOLDS DRESS OUT

9072 (With Basting Line and Added Seam Allowance) Combination Under-garment for Misses and Small Women, 16 and 18 years.

Women, 16 and 18 years.

It would hardly be possible to find a dainter or prettier undergarment or slip than this one. The petticoat is finished with a circular flounce and ruffles of net are arranged over this flounce. The corset cover may be made as it is here, or cut off straight below the arms and held in place by means of shoulder straps. For the net petticoat or the soft silk petticoat or for any petticoat of evening wear, the treatment shown here is an excellent one. For the lingerie dress, it would be pretty to make the corset cover and the flounce of embroidery and the upper part of the petticoat only of plain material. In the case of the net, there is an under petticoat or lining used of soft silk that is cut exactly like the outside and the ruffles are straight and gathered.

For the medium size will be needed, 5½ yards of material 27 inches wide, 434 yards 36 or 3½ yards 44, with 1½ yards 44 inches wide for the ruffles.

The pattern No. 9072 is cut in sizes for 16 and 18 years. It will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper, on receipt of ten cents.

An entire division, half of whom were Bavarians and half Pomeranians, was used up by the Germans in twelve separate attempts Monday to storm the French positions north of Thiaumont. From this position the French flanking fire prevents the senemy from advancing on 'Vaux plateau. No result having been attained by nightfall, fresh troops were brought up and an attempt made to turn the position from the southwest. After a desperate struggle a footing was obtained in some of the trenches on hill No. 321, half a mile west of Thiaumont and a mile east of Bras.

No effort was made to increase the advantage yesterday, owing probably to the losses on Monday which, according to prisoners were exceptionally heavy. A man belonging to the Sixteenth Bavarian infantry stated that his regiment had been held in reserve for a big offensive against the last forts of Verdun, but that it had been thrown in to support the troops attacking Thiaumont and had lost nearly a third of its effectives.

Among the items of improvements mentioned was the addition of twelve fire doors, making it possible to isolate any part of the building in case of fire, and the starting of work on a maternity ward and additional quarters for nurses. In answer we say that never have we published a fictitious letter or name. Never, knowingly, have we published an untruthful letter, or one without the full and written consent of the woman who wrote it.

The reason that thousands of women The reason that thousands of women from all parts of the country write such grateful letters to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. is that Lydia E.
