DEMOCRATS OPEN THEIR CONVENTION

Americanism and that "the policy of the administration as to neutrality is as American as the American flag" were given a prolonged demonstration.

When Mr. Glynn predicted the reelection of President Wilson the delegates rose en masse and cheered, waving flags and whistling shrilly. The band helped along the demonstration.

Governor Glynn vainly tried to quiet the delegates, but they were determined to have it out, the uproar alternatingly rising and falling.

Glynn pounded his gavel, trying to silence the throng, but soon the floor was again a sea of flags.

The New Jersey delegation, bearing its stanchion, began the first procession down the front aisle. Stanchions of Illinois, Maryland, Indiana and other states soon followed.

Tame's the Word!

At 11:20 o'clock with forty minutes before time for the convention to be called to order there were not more than twenty delegates on the floor, only a few officials on the platform and the galleries were filling slowly. There was little excitement and bands that marched with the delegates from downtown was the only amusement for the crowd.

How Democracy's Hosts Lined Up at Convention

Convention called to order by William F. McCombs, chairman of national committee.

Convention call read by J. Bruce Kramer, secretary to the national committee.

Opening prayer by the Rev. Dr. James W. Lee, M. E.

Temporary officers announced.

Speech of temporary chairman, former Governor Martin H. Glynn of New York.

Committees announced.

Recess until noon Thursday.

In finishing touches upon the hall as the delegates filed in.

The delegates and alternates had seats on the main floor, arranged like an oblong wedge, with the broad side toward the platform. Their seats were jammed together, arrangements for both delegates and spectators being much more congested than at either convention in Chicago.

The only picture of President Wilson was a small reproduction of a photograph on a shield with a back ground of the flag, and bore the inscription: "America First."

A Coatsless Crowd

The Coliseum filled rapidly just before noon, some delay in opening the doors to spectators preventing an earlier start. The bands accompanied the delegations to the hall, but were not allowed to march into the hall. Few delegations came all together and there was little excitement or cheering during the half hour preceding the opening of the convention.

Moving picture machines and cameras were planted at every vantage point.

Because of heat many of the delegates soon removed their coats and it promised soon to become a coatsless crowd.

Texas delegates tossed miniature souvenir bales of cotton to the galleries.

At 11:45 the official band began the opening song to the accompaniment of a male choir. The song brought the first applause of the day.

Ovation For Bryan

Just before the convention was called to order the band struck up "Columbia the Gem of the Ocean" and the delegates rose joining in the chorus and waving American flags.

"Dixie" brought a roar, interrupted by the rebel yell.

William J. Bryan was given an ovation as he took his seat in the press section. The applause for him started in the galleries and then spread to the delegates. Mr. Bryan smiled his appreciation and got out his pencil and prepared for his duties.

The crowd was orderly and quiet as it waited for the convention to begin. A half hour after the time set for the start the delegates still were coming in. The bands were taking seats on the platform.

Chairman McCombs took his place at his desk at 12:30 amid cheers and applause.

A few thumps of his gavel on a wooden sounding board quickly secured order and he cried: "The convention will be in order."

One verse of America was then sung by the entire crowd with tossing flags keeping the rhythm.

This was followed by one verse of the Star Spangled Banner.

The Rev. James W. Lee, Methodist Episcopal Bishop of St. Louis prayed.

Bryanites Compromise

After three days' caucusing the Bryan and anti-Bryan factions of the Nebraska delegation compromised today and elected J. J. Thomas of Stuart, Neb., member of the platform committee. Thomas, though elected on a Bryan ticket at the primaries, was referred to by the anti-Bryan faction as a sympathizer of their cause.

W. D. Oldham, the anti-Bryan candidate for platform committee, was named chairman of the delegation in pursuance of the compromise agreement and W. H. Thompson, the Bryan candidate for platform committee, was named on the committee to notify the President of his renomination. The controversy in the delegation involved the prohibition question.

Nominations Friday

Adjournment will be taken noon Thursday when the committees will report. Permanent organization will be affected and after the permanent chairman, Senator Ollie James, of Kentucky, delivers his speech, the convention may listen to some of the party's orators after which adjournment will be taken until Friday morning when the platform will be read and adopted. Then will follow a recess and the Presidential nomination will come late Friday night.

Suffragists Hopeful

The suffragists hope to have the convention adopt the plank proposed by Secretary of the Navy Daniels, which favors a suffrage amendment to the Federal Constitution.

The suffragists consider their cause has been greatly enhanced by having the secretary as an ally.

Platform building was continued by potential leaders of the party to-day so as to have much of the work in readings for the consideration of the resolutions committee. The committee is expected to organize late today, receive drafts of planks and hand them over to a subcommittee for consideration. It is probable that a public hearing will be given on Thursday to suffragists, labor leaders and others in the Federal Constitution inserted in the declaration of principles. Anti-suffragists will also be given a hearing, it is said.

Sleeps on Planks

Secretary of the National Committee, who arrived here last night from Washington with the planks drafted personally by President Wilson will submit them to the resolutions committee when it is appointed. Mr. Baker has taken extra precautions to prevent the text of the planks in his custody from reaching the public before submission to the committee. So cautious was he that on his way West he took the planks from his traveling bag and kept them under the pillows of his berth while he slept.

Want Progressives

Expressions of approval were heard to-day regarding the suggested plan to win over members of the Progressive party by making overtures to them in the Democratic platform. Secretary Baker in discussing this phase of the political situation said that party leaders hoped to get Progressive support by drawing a platform so that it will meet with their approval.
