Shares in the Harris Building and Loan Association make a staple investment that never depreciates in value. The income rate is unusually high; shares left until maturity never having yielded less than 6.6 per cent. on the investment although borrowers have paid but six per cent. The difference is due to the fact that all receipts are compounded monthly at six per cent. Money put in the Harris Bulding and Loan Association is a conservative and income bringing investment, and one that is rarely offered to the salaried man.
