She Can Train White Rats, but Can't Manage Husband

Denver, Colo., June 16. As a trainer of pink-eyed white rats, Mrs. Alva Roberts, a young Denver woman, was so successful that she was able to obtain lucrative engagements on the vaudeville stage, but when she attempted to manage her husband, Charles E. Roberts, her business manager and stage partner, she proved a sorry failure, she admitted to Judge Baker in the county court, when she appeared as the plaintiff in divorce proceedings. Roberts, instead of being a kind, dutiful husband, Mrs. Roberts testified, had an ungovernable temper.

$10,000 Prize Beauty Weds One of Her 1,742 Suitors

St. Louis, June 16. Miss Ida Damon, St. Louis, recent winner of a $10,000 moving-picture prize, was married to J. Arthur Painter, a railway mail clerk of Chicago. Miss Damon answered all of the 1742 proposal letters she received. She picked out ten or twelve men and continued to correspond with them. She took a fancy to Painter's style of writing and discontinued the other eleven suitors. She exchanged photographs with him, and later invited him to come to St. Louis. After one or two visits there their engagement was announced.

Girl Gets $8,000 For Boat Grandad Sunk in Civil War

St. Louis, June 16. Helen Fagan, 16 years old, will receive $8,000 from the United States government, by a decision last week of the United States Court of claims in Washington, in payment for the steamer William Henry, which her grandfather Captain Samuel Houston, deliberately sank in the Arkansas river in the Civil war, to prevent a cargo of Confederate supplies from reaching its destination at Port Smith, Ark. The claim was for $14,000, but was cut to $8,000 in the court of claims.

Gashes Son's Hand to Keep Him From Play

St. Louis, June 16. Anton Skrivan, a baker of St. Louis, Mo., admitted he had cut a deep gash between the first and second fingers on the right hand of his son, John, 12 to prevent him from playing marbles. The father was arrested by Chief of Police Willmann, of University City, and an information charging feloniously wounding was issued by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Brooks.

The cut was three-quarters of an inch long. The boy tied up his hand and went to the Bartner school, where he is a pupil. The boy neglected to wash the dishes, so as to play, the father said.

First Man to Be Sentenced Under Lazy Husband Law

Indianapolis, June 16. The first sentence in juvenile court under the "lazy husband" law was imposed by Judge Lahr in the case of George Bailey, of Indianapolis, charged with child neglect. Because Bailey has shown an unwillingness to work and support his 5-week-old baby, whom he never saw until he appeared in court, he will be an "employee" of the county for the next six months, working on the county roads. During that time the county will turn over to his wife $6 a week.

Elopers Wed in Midst of Ball at Courthouse

Clarksville, Tenn., June 16. Robert Finker and Miss Effie Powers, who eloped from Halley's Mills, Ky., to Clarksville, Tenn., encountered an unusual experience. They arrived in the night while the local Knights Templar Commandery was in the midst of a ball in the courthouse. The court clerk, a member of the commandery, was sought from the dancing throng to issue a license, and was accompanied by another member of the fraternity to act as a witness. To the latter it occurred that it would be a feature worth while, both to the Templars and their guests and to the couple, to have the ceremony performed in the ballroom. The proposal was accepted, the couple led to the center of the ballroom and a clergyman from the ranks of the Templars united the young people. After the ceremony Grand Prelate de Ovies took the chapeau of a Knight, suggested that the couple be given a wedding present, and a collection brought a nice sum.
