Modestly Describes "World's Greatest Circus"

The juvenile population of Middletown was thrown into a state of pleasurable excitement to-day by the announcement that the "World Famous George & Kern Circus" would give two performances in town to-morrow in the weather permits.

The glad tidings were spread by "Bill" Moore, the hustling press agent of the show, who with the customary reluctance (?) of his profession admitted that when it came to present ling a real-sure-enough circus, his aggregation of stars had Ringling Brothers hopelessly outclassed. It required the purchase of a couple of tickets and considerable persussion to get "Bill" show but he finally relented and told an awe-stricken crowd of listeners enough to keep them awake all night. Besides the big show there will be a wild west exhibition in which dashing cowboys will "annihilate" bands of marauding Indians to the music of "Winchester rifles," and "automatic revolvers." As if this were not enough for the ordinary mortal, "Bill" promises a side show in which "the bearded lady," the "man-eating savage," the "living skeleton" and the "fat man" will permit the astounded public to saze upon them for a triffing expenditure. To cap the climax, a third tent will be pitched for the sole purpose of dispensing lemonade. "Think of it, gentiemen," exclaimed the enthusiastic press agent, was how that carries a tent for lemonade only, and you gain some idea of the stupendous magnitude of the great undertaking carried on by the owner and their associates," all of whom are only a men of an average age of C. Z. Moore, local supervisor for the other attractions.

"Bill," the livewire press agent, by the way, is the young son of C. Z. Moore, local supervisor for the Pennsylvania Railroad.

COMMITS SUICIDE WHEN HE HEARS WIFE SEEKS DIVORCE

Word has been received here of the Narrow Scape of the freshet over the were was drowned yesterday afternoon while canceing with George Solway, Jr., a companion, on narrowly escaped with his life. The Robert Grayec Construction Company officials stated at noon to day that they could not estimate their loss to the network of tresties which have been receded over the water at the new Cumberland Valley Railroad bridge, now nearing completion, but expect that it will be several hundred dollars. Work will be delayed for Several days until the river recedes and the temporary structures are repaired. Diritwood and large logs caused most of the damage, tearing away some of the trestles. Owing to flood warnings sent out local manufacturing plants had little trouble, and the water did not reach flood stage, although preparations had been made for the river to pass this level.

The Reputation of the Maxwell

THAT is the bore and stroke of your motor," was asked a Maxwell owner not long ago.

"I don't know," he replied simply, "I don't buy cars on figures any more. I buy them on what they've done."

For this man, and for many others like him, it was enough that during the thirteen strenuous years the Maxwell record for performance, reliability and economy had swept it to the front.

Figures-engine speed figures, horse-power figures, wheel-base figures—they meant nothing to him. The name "Maxwell" carried more weight than all the technical description that could be offered.

Maxwell cars have achieved this great good will and this priceless position with the public only by their unequalled record of things done. What is said of an automobile in its specifications is one matter. What the car actually does in the hands of owners, year after year, is another matter.

The Maxwell car has won its position through sheer merit. It has set record after record in competition with cars of all prices and classes.

Everything considered, the Maxwell is the safe investment. It is a known, tried and proved product. It will serve you as it is serving and has served countless others.

Let us arrange for a demonstration today. You will be under no obligation. We want to give you a chance to convince yourself.
