COAL RESIZING TO RAISE PRICE?

An open discussion on resizing of anthracite coal was started by Samuel B. Crowell, of the George B. Newton Company, of Philadelphia.

Frank F. Mathers, of Philadelphia, opposed resizing on the grounds that the increased cost for the resized grades would mean an increase for the consumer with the result that the retail dealer would get the blame for requesting the operators to make the proposed change.

J. Nelson Ake, of Egg Harbor, N. J., told of his experience with the demand for pea coal and said that the public will suffer from the change in sizes.

The delegates who voted for the resizing committee appointment passed it by a total of 14 for to 88 against.

The defeated side then requested that they be represented on the committee because of the close vote and Frank J. Wallis, vice-president of the association, who was in the chair at the time, agreed to this proposal.

T. B. Preston, of the Gifford Wood Company, of Hudson, was unable to read the paper he had prepared to open the discussion on economic handling of coal, Wellington M. Bartolet, of Reading, taking his place.

B. W. Schulte, of Scranton, in speaking of mechanical devices for unloading coal, said that he experienced trouble in the winter because of frozen coal, due to the wet washing system used to a large extent by operators.

Urging retail dealers to follow the lead of jobbers and operators in adopting uniform prices for their coal was the advice given by Charles K. Scull, of Philadelphia, who opened the anthracite price advance discussion. He rapped the men who are more anxious to do business at any expense, forgetting their profits.

Frank F. Mathers, of Philadelphia, spoke of the tidewater prices of coal and said that an equitable adjustment of freight rates should be made for coal sold in Pennsylvania, as it costs more for the coal east for retail purposes in Pennsylvania than it does to ship it to the wharves to the barges for transportation to other places.

Wallis Elected President

Officers and directors were elected by acclamation this morning as follows: Frank J. Wallis, Harrisburg, president; Walter L. Montgomery, Harrisburg, vice-president; J. Arthur Strunk, Reading, treasurer; J. C. Tattersall, Trenton; E. F. Bertolet, Reading; Samuel B. Crowell, Philadelphia; J. P. Eastman, Lebanon; Henry Heck, Jr., Easton, and George D. Hedeborg, of Milton, directors to serve for three years.

The only new director is Mr. Heck, who succeeds D. S. Williams, of Easton.

At the afternoon session committee reports were read thanking the committee of arrangements and others for the entertainment of the delegates. H. C. Barr, sales manager of J. S. Wentz and Company, gave an interesting talk on "Retailing Bituminous," and told of the trade in bituminous coal in the State. R. S. Mead, professor of finance of the Wharton school of the University of Pennsylvania, then addressed the members on "Retailing as a Business."

Business sessions closed this afternoon and to-morrow the delegates will leave at 8 o'clock on a special train provided by the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company. The trip will be an inspection tour of the Brookside colliery of the company in the Lockens Valley region. The party will return by way of Lebanon at 6 o'clock.

Makes Burglar Fire Blanks at Himself

Reasoning that the easiest way to dispose of a burglar is to scare him with the thing he most fears, and that is a pistol, a Chicago man, H. C. Mayberry, has devised an apparatus which will fire off cartridges and do the scaring automatically at the very moment the burglar begins work.

The burglar unwittingly sets off the contrivance himself and does his own frightening, as it were, according to an article in the Popular Science Monthly for June. This is accomplished through the aid of numerous push-buttons or other switches, located at points along the path a burglar must pursue in entering a building. Thus, the raising of a window will close one of the switches and cause the contrivance to operate. If, once inside, the burglar should stumble over a string stretched across his path or step on a loose board, a fusillade will surely greet him. As soon as he operates one of the numerous switches, his presence is promptly heralded far and wide by powder, smoke and noise.

The device is in part mechanical and in part electrical in nature. Housed in a small box about five inches square and ten inches long, it is preferably suspended from or attached to the ceiling of a room. Hence, it is out of the way and less accessible to would-be tamperers.

The mechanical part of the apparatus consists of a small clockwork mechanism which rings a high-sitched bell on the principle of an alarm-clock. The slow unwinding of the spring as it operates the bell, causes a cam-like contrivance to revolve, at each successive turn releasing a firing-pin in a metal bar nearby.

Don't Peel Your Face

If your pink complexion is fading, if wrinkles are creeping into your face, if sallowness is destroying your beauty or pimples, blackheads, freckles and brown spots are making you unattractive, don't try the dangerous experiment of peeling your face or resign yourself to looking years older than you really are. You can overcome any of these beauty-destroying marks without peeling your face by a simple, safe and reliable way that calls for no special skill or expensive toilet requisites. Face peeling is dangerous, disgusting and often results in ruined complexions and blotchy faces. If you want a delightful surprise and want a smooth, girlish complexion that will make you look years younger than you really are, go to your druggist and get a little Am-o-nized Cocoa cream which is a delightful fragrant emollient that will act as a tonic to your skin, bring roses to your cheeks and quickly banish the complexion defects that make you look years older than you really are. It does this because it contains all the nourishment your skin requires. No massage is necessary. You simply apply a generous amount of this sweet, pleasant emollient over your entire face and neck once or twice a day or just before retiring at night. It works while you sleep and you awaken in the morning with a complexion that is charming to behold. Am-o-nized Cocoa cream keeps the skin so clean that it must be lovely—so soft and fine that it is irresistibly alluring. If you have not as yet enjoyed the charm and thrill that every one experiences when they first behold the magic beauty it creates, get a jar to-day from any good druggist and see what just one application of this sweet, fragrant emollient will do for you.
