PLAYS AND PLAYERS
Valeka Suratt completed her work in the new William Fox film in two weeks. Her director, Roland West, says this is the quickest time he has ever heard of, for a star.

The most notable production of the season, according to the members of the Harvard Dramatic Association, was that of Claude Adams at the Harvard stadium when she did "Joan of Arc." This memorable performance was given in 1905, with Dallas Anderson, now Miss Adams' leading man, as the Dauphin.

"Somewhere in France," Richard Harding Davis' last story, is to be made into a picture play by Thomas H. Ince. The story was first published in the Metropolitan Magazine.

"Character Building in Children" is a late chapter in the campaign for "Better Babies" being waged by the Paramount Photographs. In these pictures, mothers are shown how to aid the child properly in its moral and mental growth.

A plot of song, color and fun is what is said of the Majestic's headliner, a bright musical comedy, entitled "Mr. Inquisitive," at that theater appearing at that theater for the last half of the week. There are seven people in the cast headed by Earl Cavanaugh, who was formerly a comedian with the "Toney Girls." Another act on the bill is that of Santley and Norton, who present a burlesque and singing act. Completing the vaudeville list are: Doc O'Neil, styled the king of "nut" comedians; Henry and Adelaide, couple in a singing and dancing act; and Pete and His Pals, comedy act consisting of a blackface comedian and a funny mule.

MOTOR CLUB TOUR TO PASS FAMOUS GALLITZIN SPRING

BRONZE TABLET UNVEILED AT GALLITZIN SPRING

CUT STONE PERGOLA ERECTED AT PRINCE GALLITZIN SPRING, ON THE WILLIAM PENN HIGHWAY

Motorists Sunday who wished to go east or west over the Allegheny mountains, on the William Penn Highway near Crescon, found it an impossibility. The road was blocked, not by a landslide nor a flood, but by almost $400,000 worth of automobiles parked along the highway. Special police made an effort to clear the road for the through tourists, but their efforts were fruitless. As a matter of fact the special police merely made the tangle more complete. The 34 automobiles of every description which composed the line stretching a mile above and two miles below the Prince Gallitzin Spring were jammed together so tightly that no impression could be made upon the tangle. Five thousand persons went by train and in these 384 automobiles to attend the ceremonies held in connection with the unveiling of the monument to Prince Gallitzin, the Russian priest who went to Loretto, Cambria county, in 1799; and took charge of a parish which included hundreds of square miles of mountain territory. In his travels through his parish he frequently went out of his way to drink at a spring in the mountain, about four miles east of what is now Crescon. After the prince-priest's death in 1840 the place became known as "Prince Gallitzin Spring." Several years ago the Y. M. I. of Altoona determined to erect a memorial to Prince Gallitzin at the spring. A cut stone pergola has been erected; and last Sunday a bronze tablet was unveiled. These ceremonies attracted thousands. Interested persons who covered the three miles of parked vehicles counted 384 automobiles and over a hundred motorcycles. They figure the cost of these autos and motorcycles as being almost $400,000, while there were also many thousand dollars worth of horses and horse-drawn vehicles. Members of the Harrisburg Motor club on their next week's western tour will pass Gallitzin spring on the road from Hollidaysburg to Crescon.

PEACH TREES GET HIT BY BAD PEST

Reports Showed That a Couple of Nuisances Are at Work in Orchards

In spite of reports spread to the contrary, Pennsylvania peach trees are having their troubles this year. Some reliable information to the State Department of Agriculture is that all over the State damage has been done to trees by peach leaf curl. This is a fungous disease which winters over, apparently on the wood or buds, and infects the young leaves as they are pushing out of the buds. Once infested there is no cure for the disease during that season.

With this disease an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. It can be prevented by spraying during the dormant season with lime sulphur wash, as for San Jose scale, diluting concentrated lime sulphur wash to test 1.03 specific gravity.

The common practice has been to do this in the early spring, just before the buds burst, but recent experiments have shown that this is not the best time for applying the preventive. Better results are obtained when the lime sulphur wash is applied during the late fall or early winter, soon after the leaves have fallen.

The reason is that the spores of the fungus are on the buds and if there is open weather in winter, which causes the buds to swell and the bud scales separate, everything is in favor of an infection at that time which early spring spraying cannot prevent.

Woman, 80, Manages Farm of 2,000 Acres

Marion, Ohio.—Sixty-one years ago Eunice Concklin, a direct descendant of the historically famous Roger Williams, of Rhode Island, and d'Estaing, of the French Revolution, sought her room in the picturesque Concklin home here. The furniture and mural decorations of the room are the same as they were the day the Salisbury, now Salisbury Covert, of Cincinnati, knighted her father, Robert W. Concklin, who died, claimed his bride, who is now in her eightieth year. Despite her age, she manages the largest agricultural lands in northern Ohio, 2,000 acres her father, who bought for $150 an acre in 1821.

Proper Thing Now Is to Peel Off Soiled Skin

Those who abhor sticky, greasy, shiny, streaked complexions should religiously avoid creams, powders and rouges during the heated days. There's no need for them, anyway, since the virtues of merozolized wax have become known. No amount of perspiration will produce an evidence that you've been using the wax. As it is applied at bedtime and washed off in the morning, the complexion never looks like a make-up. Merozolized wax gradually takes off a bad complexion, instead of adding anything to make it worse. It has none of the disadvantages of cosmetics and accomplishes much more in keeping the complexion beautifully white, satiny and youthful. Just get an ounce of it at your druggist's and see what a few days' treatment will do. Use like cold cream. Another effective warm weather treatment—helping to cause wrinkles and flabbiness—is a skin-tightener made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered exfolite in 1 pt. witch hazel. Its use (as a face bath) leaves no trace.—Advertisement.

SMALL PIMPLES BURNED AWFUL

On Forehead, Got Larger, Spread Around Chin, Face So Sore Could Not Wash It.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"My trouble began with small pimples upon my forehead. Later they began to get larger and more came every day and my skin was very red. They burned something awful and I lost sleep especially around the hot weather. They spread across my chin and made me look as if I had a dirty face. At one time my face was so sore that I could not wash myself and I always had a greasy face. I had this trouble for some time before I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I put on the Ointment and then applied the Soap and in a little while I was healed." (Signed) Albert Z. Myers, Jr., 2151 S. Lee St., Philadelphia, Pa., July 23, 1915.

STATE BONDING WORK DEFINED

Attorney General Makes Public an Important Decision on a Question

Attorney General Brown has given an opinion to Samuel B. Rambo, executive officer of the Department of Public Grounds and Buildings, to the effect that bonds must be given only by officers of State institutions who account to the Auditor General and State Treasurer for moneys paid to the institution. In some hospitals others have been bonded, but hereafter the State will not pay the premiums on the bonds.

In an opinion to the Auditor General's Department it is held by W. M. Hargess, deputy attorney general, that Benjamin Maxey, mine inspector in the Susquehanna district, is not entitled to an increase of salary under the act of 1915, notwithstanding an opinion by the late Judge R. R. Little, of Susquehanna county. The Judge held that the inspector's term ended with 1915 and appointed him to serve until his successor, to be elected this year, could qualify, but the State officer decides that no vacancy existed and that he is still serving under the term for which he was elected before the salary-raiser became effective.
