CONTRASTING SCENES AT OPEN AIR SCHOOL

MERRY CHILDREN ENJOY PLAYTIME

Teacher Tells What Fresh Air Does For Lochiel Open Air Children

Miss Mary M. Snyder, superintendent of the Lochiel Open Air School is delighted at all times to exploit her work and this is what she has to say to-day:

"Plenty of air, proper exercise, nourishing food, rest and careful medical inspection have given the 'kiddies' rosy cheeks, muscles, alertness and pleasant dispositions. How could children feel grumpy and dull when every minute of their school day is spent in an atmosphere free from the poisonous carbon dioxide and the great humidity of ordinary school rooms?"

Our youngsters have not only grown physically, but have done their share of "reading, writing and arithmetic." The girls have become excellent house-keepers and learned to care for the little tots. The boys, too, take pride in their culinary work, cooking, the art of dishwashing, scouring pans, shining faucets and an occasional battle with the dishcloths form a part of their curriculum.

Among the fine treats given the children were a turkey dinner from the Civic Club, a piano, Victrola and records. Technical students made a red letter day with their 'live Christmas' entertainment and gifts for the youngsters.

The Anti-Tuberculosis society furnished hundreds of dollars of carefree so that children from all parts of the city may attend the school.

By special effort there has been a gain of 178 pounds total in the school with an average of 5 1/2 pounds each, and the blood test shows an average gain of ten points. The enrollment was 40 pupils for the year. The luncheon and dinner served the pupils averaged 5 1/2 cents a day.

The term ended with a picnic in the building, because the weather man predicted a delightful lark planned for Paxtang park by a friend of the school.

The Garden School is now open for all Lochiel School children, as well as those attending the Tubercular Dispensary. Folk dancing, story telling and gardening will be important and a good time is anticipated.
