directed against Russia. Russia will take part in no arrangement or political combination directed against Japan.

To a question from the Associated Press representative as to what effect the alliance would have upon the open door and the integrity of China, the foreign office replied:

The convention is effectually an emphasis upon an extension of the Anglo-Japanese alliance based upon the territorial integrity of China, whose open door and integrity are not endangered while the summary given out was the substance of the convention, it also was virtually the text of that document.

Now that Japan and Russia are pooling their interests in the Far East they will free themselves from the necessity of regarding each other as possible enemies in the future and from the maintenance of large bodies of troops on their respective frontiers.
