BLACK AS WORKER MAKES HIT HERE

On Job Early and Late; Likes to "Learn Things For Himself"

Frank B. Black, the new State Highway Commissioner, is on the job and is delighting everybody around the office by the manner in which he has taken hold. "Don't be afraid of loading me up," said he to an attaché who begged pardon for bringing him an armload of correspondence before he had time to get accustomed to his new chair. "I've never been afraid of work and I'm not going to begin now."

Commissioner Black is an early riser, but he doesn't obey the old adage of "early to bed." He is brimful of energy and initiative and has piled up a good-sized fortune solely through his own efforts in developing coal lands in his home district. "I like to learn things for myself," he told employees of the department when he proposed a trip by auto over the road systems of the State. "Once when I was prospecting for coal an engineer I had employed used the excuse of having too far to walk to work to bolster up a lame report. So I thought I would walk over myself before breakfast and see what was doing. I found a fine vein of coal and beside getting my information first hand worked up a grand appetite. And it was only ten miles."

Gas Company Ruling.—The People's Natural Gas Company, of Altoona, is ordered in a decision handed down by the Public Service Commission to-day in the case of J. B. Swoveland vs. the company to file, post and publish, in accordance with law, an amendment or supplement to its tariffs and rules so as to eliminate guarantee deposits objected to by certain patrons, unless it requires them of all. The company's contention was that deposits had been required only of strangers or those known as "slow pay."

Complain of Crossings.—The Chestnut Hill Business Men's Association, of Philadelphia, to-day asked the Public Service Commission to require the Philadelphia and Reading Railway Company to eliminate grade crossings at Mount Airy, Mermaid avenue and Willow Grove avenue.

Jitney Cases Up.—The Public Service Commission to-day heard oral arguments of attorneys representing 250 operators of jitneys in Wilkes-Barre which the Wilkes-Barre Railways Company has charged are being operated illegally. The contention of the jitney men is that they do not come under the public utility act, but are subject to regulation by the municipalities in which they operate.

Payment of Bonds.—Oscar L. Swartz, steward for the State Hospital at Norristown, was to-day notified by the Attorney General that premiums on bonds for officials of that institution cannot be paid out of the special appropriation to the Board of Public Grounds and Buildings, but must be met out of the appropriation for the hospital itself. The department also gave it as its opinion in reply to a question raised by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction that a school district can, by the consent of three-fifths of the electors voting at the election, increase its indebtedness for purposes specified by the school code to an amount in excess of 7 per cent, but not exceeding 10 per cent, of the assessed valuation of property in the district.

Pittsburgh Hearings.—The hearing of the Pittsburgh Coal Operators vs. the Pennsylvania Company was concluded yesterday. Briefs will be filed and the case held over till next September, in all probability.

State College Thanks Rambo.—Superintendent of Public Grounds and Buildings S. B. Rambo has received a letter from W. Crowell, professor of landscape art at State College, in which he thanks the department and Mr. Rambo personally for the splendid treatment which the State College students received in connection with their work of surveying the Capitol Park extension under the auspices of the State. The students finished their work in ten days' time and will now take up the next step, that of getting out plans suggestive of the treatment of the whole property. Among the workers was one girl, Miss Pattee, who, with her chaperon, was one of the leading figures among the college students. Miss Pattee is a daughter of A. L. Pattee, professor of literature at State College and a writer and author of note, one of his principal works being a "History of American Literature Since 1870."

REPLY TO CARRANZA'S NOTE GOES FORWARD

Watertown, N. Y. He will keep in close touch with the department by telephone and telegraph, advising with Mr. Polk, while the conversations are in progress.

May Lend Financial Aid
While high officials have admitted that the Washington government in all probability would do what it could to encourage American bankers to go to the aid of the defacto government if General Carranza would furnish proper guarantees, Counselor Polk took occasion to-day to state that his conference yesterday with Henry T. Fletcher, ambassador designate to Mexico and Paul M. Warburg of the Federal Reserve Board, had nothing to do with this aspect of the situation. The fact that his visitors came together, he said, was merely a coincidence and without significance.

Department officials made it plain that it was as yet too early to forecast clearly what might be evolved from the more favorable aspects of the Mexican situation presented by General Carranza's recent amicable note. Everything depends, it was pointed out, upon the degree to which suspicions previously entertained by the first chief as to the motives of the United States have been overcome.

Text of Note
The text of the note, addressed to Mr. Arredondo, follows:
"Sir: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of July 4, 1916, in which you transcribe a note addressed to me by the secretary of foreign relations of your government and to request that you will transmit to him the following reply:

"Mr. Secretary: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your courteous note transmitted to me by Senor Arredondo on the 4th instant in which you refer to my notes of June 20 and June 25, and to assure you of the sincere gratification of my government at the frank statement of the difficulties which have unfortunately arisen in our relations along the international boundary and the unreserved expression of the desire of your government to reach a solution of these difficulties on a broad and amicable basis. The same spirit of friendship and of solicitude for the continuance of cordial relations between our two countries inspires my government, which equally desires an immediate solution of the matters of difference which have long vexed both governments.

Spirit of Concord
"It is especially pleasing to my government that the de facto government of Mexico is disposed to give such weight as practical consideration in a spirit of concord to the remedies which may be applied to the existing conditions. Reciprocating the same desire, the government of the United States is prepared immediately to exchange views as to a practical plan to remove finally and prevent a recurrence of the difficulties which have been the source of the controversy."
"Accept, Mr. Secretary, the renewed assurances of my highest consideration."
"I am, sir, yours very sincerely,"
"ROBERT LANSING."

The bathhouse on the island will be open from 9 in the morning until 8 in the evening with special provisions for girls. Bluecoats Handicapped by Sleuths They Claim

According to Chief of Police J. T. Zervino and Superintendent of Detectives W. L. Windsor, Jr., no robberies were reported to the police during the last twenty-four hours, but the men are working on the score of burglaries committed during the last week. It became known at police headquarters last night that three members of the detective bureau had a partial description of the man who has been robbing homes in the city, but failed to give the information to Chief of Police Zervino. Chief Zervino said this morning that he did not know until last night that the detectives had the description. It was given to the men last night, when an understanding was reached, but the men claim that they were handicapped in their work because they were not given any of the information.
