VILLA PLANNING TO TAKE FIELD

Border Rumors Says Bandit Has Large Force; Carranzistas Fighting One Band

El Paso, Tex., July 10.—Pancho Villa is undoubtedly alive and affairs are shaping themselves for another great military exploit in which the revolutionist will play the leading part, according to information pouring into the United States from scores of sources. It looks as the Villa's forces under the personal leadership of Contreras had won another victory over the troops of the de facto government. Early yesterday General Domingo Arrieta, commanding the 200 Carranzista troops sent out by General Trevino to disperse the Villistas, who had slaughtered the command of General Ramos and later looted and then abandoned the town of Jimenez, and that he was then engaging the Villistas. Since then no word has been received from Arrieta by General Trevino at Chihuahua City.

LAST MEN LEAVE MT. GRETNA CAMP

Eighth Infantry, Ambulance Company and Hospital Corps Off For the Border

Mt. Gretna, Pa., July 10.—The last units of Pennsylvania's quota of 12,711 officers and men for military duty on the Mexican border entrained here last evening. They comprised the 8th Infantry, Colonel Maurice E. Finney, Ambulance Company No. 1 and a field hospital company. Accompanying them is Brigadier-General C. T. O'Neill and staff of the 4th Brigade. The detachment is traveling in three sections, which left at intervals during the early hours of the evening. The regiment, which was hard hit by the United States medical inspectors in the rejection of more than 200 men left with a strength of 56 officers and 985 men, made up of 12 companies, two each from York and Harrisburg, and one each from Carlisle, Chambersburg, Lewistown, Bedford, Mahanoy City, Tamaqua and Pottsville, a sanitary corps at Tamaqua and a band from Easton. The hospital and ambulance outfit numbers 141 men. With the departure of the troops, there are but a dozen uniformed men remaining here. Among them are Colonel H. C. Trexler, chief of the new quartermaster's corps, and his assistants. Some weeks will be required before they can finish their work, as was pointed out by Adjutant General Thomas J. Stewart on the occasion of a visit to camp. He placed the cost of mobilization, transportation and equipment of the Pennsylvania division at $2,500,000. These figures include the cost of transportation of the soldiers here and thence on to the border. Their maintenance in camp and on the way to El Paso is fixed at 300,000 rations at a total cost of $30,000 exclusively of the vast amount of equipment. Five hundred railroad cars were required for transportation, 400 of them being coaches. Lieutenant-Colonel James Kemper, of the 8th Infantry, did not go out with his regiment, but will remain here for a week or more in order to complete his work as chief quartermaster officer for the United States army, in which capacity he came here and continued up to the time of his appointment and assignment to the State militia. He will fill the vacancy caused by the elevation of Lieutenant-Colonel Finney to the command of the regiment on account of the fatal illness of its old commander General Joseph Hutchinson, which occurred on Saturday at Chambersburg. In an order posted to-day, Colonel Finney is commenting on the death of his old commander, saying: "In his death the service loses a highly esteemed, valued and efficient officer, whose impartial administration has always been respected." The military post office which was opened here with the establishment of the mobilization camp, has been closed, but orders were issued by Adjutant General Stewart that the telephone and telegraph lines are to be maintained in first-class order, and the operators continued at their posts, prepared to meet any situation that may arise. Lieutenant-Colonel L. V. Rausch and his arsenal force will take up the work of getting the camp ready for the arrival of the coming here, on July 22, of the 3d Brigade, consisting of the 9th and 13th, and a separate battalion of the 12th Infantry, for eight days' tour of duty. Preparations are also being made for the reception of all recruits who may be sent for training preparatory to their departure for the border.

Griffith studio is called "When Lovers Quarrel" and features Lillian Gish. It is a story of the sunny South that carries a message to all women. It has to do with Colonel Carter, who lives in an old mansion just outside Louisville, Kentucky, and is very much opposed to the newer families who have come to live about him since the war, and brings up his daughter to keep very much aloof from them. Dorothy (Lillian Gish), the daughter, grows up, therefore, with no other company than two old negro servants. Into her life there comes a millionaire gambler from the North, the friendship ripens into love and when the colonel refuses his consent to their marriage, they elope. A new two-reel Keystone comedy called "When Lovers Quarrel" will complete the bill.

Sessue Hayakawa, the noted Japanese actor will be seen at the Regent in "Alien Souls." Lasky production of "Alien Souls" a photodrama written especially for him by Hector Turnbull, author of "The Cheat" in which play Hayakawa established himself as one of the distinguished actors of the day. Hayakawa as Sakata, a wealthy Japanese importer is in love with Yuri Chan, a beautiful Japanese girl, who is the prettiest of the school from which she is about to graduate. When they were but three years old, Sakata and Yuri Chan were betrothed by their parents. Upon the death of her father, Yuri Chan's support is entrusted to Sakata. Ignorant of this fact, she believes herself immensely wealthy, and decides to have some American independence before she settles down to married life with Sakata. She meets Aleck Lindsay, a social parasite who lives principally on the money furnished him by Mrs. Conway, widow of the deceased business partner of Sakata. How she is finally brought to realize that the East and West can never meet, is graphically shown in a number of thrilling and unusual scenes.

Penna. Guardsmen to Participate in Maneuvers on Big Scale at El Paso

El Paso, Tex., July 10.—American soldiers may never drive another tent stake into the soil of Mexico, but the two brigades of Pennsylvania troops now here will participate in the greatest maneuvers ever attempted in this country in times of peace. Behind this plan, which has reached the regular army already, is a scheme to deliver to the respective States next Fall or early winter more than 150,000 citizen soldiers, trained and equipped for instant call to warfare, regular army officers here declare. Volunteer troops will learn of these plans after they have taken hold of camp routine here for several weeks and pave the way for the more ambitious performances by drills, dress parades and guard mounts. The Pennsylvania forces, two brigades of which are complete with the arrival of the Eighteenth Infantry started work on the usual humdrum monotony. Possibly two weeks will be allotted for this work, which will harden the men sufficiently to send them into the more ambitious and involved technical instruction. The volunteers will be drilled with regulars, and while the Guard officers will maintain their present rank during this time, the border maneuvers will be under the direct supervision of a regular army officer. These men compare the present plan of intensive preparedness and preparation to the task that Lord Kitchener finished before his death with the volunteers and territorial forces of the British Isles. "To insure success in battle through the efficiency of teamwork" is the manner in which the orders to the regulars characterize these maneuvers. They comprise 18 distinct forms of education and embody the greatest program ever known in peace to whip into shape a civilian army for the United States, subject to instant call if needed. In accordance with this program the Pennsylvanians here for the next few months will have learned these 18 subjects which will be taught at the rate of perhaps one a week: First: To advance through a zone of artillery fire. Second, third, fourth: To advance through a zone of infantry fire before fire superiority has been gained. Fifth, Sixth: Gaining fire superiority—the advance to the assault; the final assault. Seventh, eighth: The attack complete; officers required to write a critique on the attack, while they will lecture their men into its system. Ninth: Reconnaissance and selection of various defensive positions and trench digging and construction. Tenth: Rifle practice and machine-gun training in defensive work, clearing the foreground of obstacles, sighting and constructing obstacles in the field to baffle the offensive gunners firing at range marks, firing in various sectors and sham battles which couple the actual defense of a position from attacking force. This portion of the program calls for war umpires, who will decide with whom victory rests, while the army of defense will be kept at this work until it has achieved success. Eleventh: Outpost training, educating sentinels in observation, defensive arrangements of supports, trenches, obstacles, lines of retreats, patrolling. Twelfth: Outpost duty with company performing exactly its normal functions, various positions to be occupied and connected. Positions occupied all night, the frequent patrols under competent instructors.
