MOUNT UNION HAS MODEL VILLAGE

Built by Refractories Company For Employees; Harrisburg Man Interested

R. P. L. Davis, of Harrisburg, is president of the Mount Union Refractories Company, scientific manufacturer of bricks, who operate a big plant at Mount Union in the heart of the Juniata Valley. But that's not all. Mr. Davis has recently been interested in proper housing and living conditions for the employees of the company. He has secured the services of a landscape designer, and on the job, this new housing experiment is to be known as the "Kistler Village."

Mr. Nolan, in the making of the plans, was compelled to conform to the requirements which affected the design. These requirements might be given as follows: The property is to be occupied mainly by workingmen with a low wage. The houses will be small. The lots will be small. Permanent existing buildings on the property will be retained, namely, the brick farmhouse, the stone springhouse and the barn. The river embankment will be used as a park.

Provisions to be made for a recreation field of about four acres, centrally located and level as possible. Permanent existing buildings on the property will be retained, namely, the brick farmhouse, the stone springhouse and the barn. The river embankment will be used as a park.

The approach to the property will be from the Juniata river, being on Mount Union bridge from Mount Union. The architecture of the village, including the design of the workingmen's homes, is the work of Mann & MacNeill, architects, who have done so much elsewhere with this type of workingmen's development.

The stores are an example of architectural beauty and unity; with one and a fifth acres set aside for business use, providing about 600 feet of store frontage, assuming 200 feet per 1,000, the population of the village, under the limits, 600 feet will provide for expansion when Kistler trebles its population.

The Mount Union Refractories Company has a good plant in which to work. Kistler Industrial Village is a good place for the workingman and the remainder of his days playing and resting. He pays a rental of $10 a month for his home and his family derive the benefits of good housing in a community with a school, two churches, parks, playground and amusement facilities close at hand. Another change is added thereby to industrial efficiency and employee welfare, and all the while Kistler Industrial Village prospers and grows with a population happy and contented.

Scientist Says He Has Perfect Underground Phone

Special to the Telegraph San Francisco, Cal., July 18. — Dr. H. B. Barringer announced here that he had perfected a subterranean wireless telephone and that, incidentally, he had discovered a new law of physics, namely, that electrical energy can be transmitted over a single conductor.

For the last five months Dr. Cox has been working at Los Olives, Cal., with the United States forest service in an effort to perfect a system of wireless telegraph lines. It was while engaged in these forest work, that he discovered the possibilities of transmitting the human voice through the ground. He will leave in a few days for Washington.

The equipment consists of an ordinary telephone transmitter connected with a battery and a special instrument, which is Dr. Cox's secret, and then with a ground wire. At the receiving station, five or fifty miles away, is a similar equipment.

War Revives Shipbuilding as American Industry

By Associated Press

Washington, D. C., July 18.—War's revival of shipbuilding as an American industry is emphasized in a Bureau of Navigation statement to-day showing that the country's shipyards had under construction a contract on July 1, 1915, for 1,225,781 gross tons. High ocean freight rates proved the stimulus that quadrupled construction within a year.

Great Britain, hampered by the drain of war and a big naval construction program, still leads the world in building merchantmen. Her shipyards are engaged in actual construction now 423 steel merchant ships of 1,423,335 tonnage and would have more but for the fact that private yards are engaged in building war vessels. The United States launched 743 merchant ships of 1,201,638 tonnage. Of these 84, of 177,460 tonnage, were launched in the United States.

CITY EMPLOYEES' CASE COMING UP

Important Compensation Matter Will Be Heard in Philadelphia Tomorrow

Every city employe in the State of Pennsylvania is vitally affected by an appeal to be heard by the Workmen's Compensation Board at Philadelphia to-morrow. The appeal, which has been taken by the city of Reading from a decision of Referee Houck, of the second district, sets forth that the compensation act is unconstitutional in that it deprives municipalities of the right to an election of trial by jury, guaranteed by the constitution.

The case arose over an injury to Daniel J. Smith February 4, 1916, while acting as a patrolman for the city of Reading. He slipped and fell on the sidewalk, and a lesion of the heart led to gangrene. After an operation he died on May 21. Referee Houck awarded compensation of $3,098.35 to the decedent's wife and children. From this decision the city appealed on the ground that such governmental agencies as municipalities were entitled to trial by jury. The decision in the first agricultural case brought before the referees of the Philadelphia district was made public yesterday at Philadelphia. The claim petition of John Sobik, Manyunk, was dismissed by Referee Scott on the ground that the act expressly excludes agricultural workers. Sobik, while repairing a drain on the farm of George Allen, of King of Prussia, suffered a permanent injury of an eye on April 18. The dynamite caps with which he was blasting stone threw a chip into the muscles of his eye. For the last six years he has been doing general work on the farm. The cause of Referee Scott to class him as an agricultural worker.

Referee W. W. Campion, of the Williamsport district, arrived in Philadelphia yesterday to take up the cases of Referee Scott. The latter is resting at the Shore after an attack of appendicitis. In speaking of the act, Mr. Campion said that in his opinion the weakest part of the law was that dealing with accidents involving the loss of a part of a hand. The act classed the loss of an entire hand as a permanent injury, but for anything less the injured person receives compensation only for the period he is disabled.

SHARKS KILL FISHING

Tampa, Fla., July 18. — The W. D. Cash, schooner of the local fishing fleet, returned to port to-day because fishing, the captain said, is made impossible for schools of huge sharks. The sharks take fish that are hooked before they can be brought into the boat.

Heed the Warning If You Have a Cough!

The deep-seated cough that does not yield to ordinary treatment may lead to distressing pulmonary troubles. Or it may bring on a chronic bronchial affection. Many persons now incapacitated might have avoided such disastrous results by timely care and efficient medical treatment.

Among the latter Eckman's Alterative has an enviable record. It is a lime-bearing preparation, which is easily assimilated in most instances. Where used in connection with nourishing food and proper living, it has given widespread relief.

Its freedom from poisonous or habit-forming drugs of any nature whatsoever renders it safe to try. And its content of calcium gives it tonic value.

Huge Splinter Pierces Man's Body at Waynesboro

Special to the Telegraph Waynesboro, Pa., July 18. — Samuel McCh. Cook was severely injured in an odd manner in the E. B. shops yesterday afternoon. He was ripping a board with a saw when a large splinter broke off and entered his body on the right side of the pelvis and emerged on the left side after penetrating the flesh a distance of twelve inches.

Dr. A. Barr Snively pulled the splinter from the man's body. Mr. Cook suffered no pain. He was taken to a specialist in Baltimore by Dr. Snively. The splinter was almost eighteen inches in length, with a width of an inch, and for a dozen inches it was covered with blood.

WANTS SINGLE MEN ON BORDER

Overworked Mail Clerk Would Limit Number of Sweethearts of Soldier Boys

P. S.—From what I observe by the papers, you folks in Pennsylvania are preparing to send 10,000 more men down here. Dan, for the love of Mike, tell them to pick out the single men who have no relatives, and if they MUST have sweethearts, let the limit be ONE. Don't under any circumstances let them become possessed of any more fountain pens.

That little postscript tacked onto a letter to Daniel Barr, of the local Post Office, from his chum, M. J. Preston, president of Branch 477, United National Association of Post Office Clerks, in El Paso, Texas, deals with another side of the unpleasantness with Mexico—as an overworked mail clerk finds it.

In addition to the regular mail to the city of 70,000 the post office has to handle the mail for 30,000 troops.

The letter was written under date of July 14, some time before all the Pennsylvania troops had reached the border. At the time he was trying to get the mail for the Seventh (Pennsylvania) Division ready for delivery.

Troop trains at the rate of four per day unload their thousands of men, according to Mr. Preston. El Paso, however, is pretty well accustomed to the military scenes. "The boys are arriving here in good shape," he writes, "and they are fast getting accustomed to the ways and the climate. They could not have found a more disagreeable or more healthy place to put them. Hot days, cold nights, cactus, sand, thorns, mesquite sagebrush, sand fleas, rattlesnakes, horn toads—they're all here with similar little things that go with our West Texas country."

"Nothing doing so far as Mexico is concerned. We've seen so much scuffling and killing, or rather so much of it has been going on along the border, that we are used to it. You could not land a bet of ten to one that there will be a war. We've had a pretty fair round of entertainment here for a year or more. What with Pancho Villa's raids close around town, the local Mexicans and soldiers pulling off fights in the streets, and the occasional tiffs between the guardsmen and the regulars, we manage to keep amused. And when all this mess gets mixed up with a few cow punches and some booze—it's a real sweet place."

Try Magnesia For Stomach Trouble

It Neutralizes Stomach Acidity. Prevents Food Fermentation

Doubtless, if you are a sufferer from indigestion, you have already tried peppermint, bismuth, soda charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and you know these things will not cure your trouble—in some cases do not even give relief.

But before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic just try the effect of a little magnesia. Not the ordinary carbonate, citrate, oxide or milk but the pure bisulphated magnesia which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powder or tablet form. Take a teaspoonful of the powder or two compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous harmful acid in your stomach which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, and the bloated or heavy lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat.

You will find that, provided you take a little bisulphated magnesia immediately after a meal, you can eat almost anything and enjoy it without any danger of pain or discomfort to follow and moreover the continued use of the bisulphated magnesia cannot injure the stomach in any way so long as there are any symptoms of acid indigestion.
