OF INTEREST TO THE WOMEN GERMANY PLANS

Young Men Rescue Girls

Helen had never remembered working so hard as she had to get Winfred ready to go West for the summer. The dressmaker had been at the house for three days making little dresses and Winifred had worried Helen continually, for at every hot day she seemed to droop a little more, and Helen was afraid that she would not be able to get the child away before she became really ill.

Warren reassured Helen, although he was worried and it was with really want on both sides when everything was finally ready and Helen and Winifred had departed on the sleeper for Cleveland.

Helen met her mother on the morning of a rainy day, the coolness of which was welcome.

"Can't you possibly come out for just a few days, Helen?" Her mother had asked earnestly. "You look pale would by you so much good." A real rest, but she shook her head.

"I couldn't, mother: I promised Warren I would be back."

"Warren would be the first one tell you to stay if you would send at elegram."

"Not for a few days?"

"Not mother, much as I should like to come, and you can't know how much I really want to come. I don't think I ought. I don't approve of when are you going to take a vocation?"

"Later on in the summer Warren needs the rest as much as I do."

"When are you going to take a vacation?"

"Later on in the summer Warren can get away for two weeks, then I shall go with him."

"An Invitation

"Can't you both get out here?"

"I don't think so, dear. I don't believe Warren would want to come so far. But you and father must come of ar. But you and father must come of ar. But you and father must come of your headaches, I suppose."

"Got one of your headaches, I suppose."

"Can't you both get out here?"

"I don't think so, dear. I don't believe Warren would want to come so far. But you and father must come to the city this Fall when Winifred comes home. Just think, she is going to start in school."

Helen's mother looked proudly down at her small granddaughter.

"That is." Helen went on, "if she is good and drinks lots of milk and gets fat and rosy. We can't have any thin little girls going to school, can we, grandma?"

"I'm not thin," Winifred protested, it's the hot days, they make me so choky."

Helen exchanged looks with her mother.

"She seems to droop at the first hot spell," she explained under her breath. "Warren and I could hardly wait toget her out here with you."

"It certainly agrees with her, and you know, Helen, how glad we are to have her."

Helen had left that night for New York. The rain had stopped and the night was breathless. Helen lay in her upper berth and never closed hereyes. The rattle and rumble of the little restaurant in this interesting series will appear on this page soon.)

Is Charged With Murder

West Milton, Pa., July 26.— A violent thunderstorm accompanied by wind and hail and a cloudburst passed over Central Oak Heghts yesterday afternoon. Trees were broken down and the grove is strewn with branches. Some of the young folks were in the Susquehanna river bathing when the storm came and some of the women were on an island with no way to escape. Clark Swengel of Harrisburg jumped into his canoe and with the assistance of Wilbur Winter of Williamsport, hastened to the rescue of the girls who had become much excited. The boys loaded them into the canoe and started for the shore. The boys handled the paddle so skillfully that all were landed safely.

Bar 3 Americans From Ireland; Detain McClure

London, June 26.—British officials have refused to allow Eugene Hughes Kelly, treasurer of the Irish relief fund: his wife and his associate, Joseph Smith, to land at Liverpool, where they arrived yesterday from New York on the American Line steamship Philadelphia. Mr. Kelly also brought funds collected in New York for distribution among the families of the Irish revocate its sports and here is a perfectly comfortable suit for bathing and for swimming. Flannel, in dark blue and grey is the material usually chosen and the trimming could be banding or braid or of a different material. Boys are apt to spend as much time on the chore as in the water and the flannel protects them from cold. The body portions and the trousers are cut together and the belt holds them at the waist line. The sleeves may be used or not as preferred.

SUGGESTS BLOCK CLEATS ON WHEE

State Highway Commissioner Assured of Traction Engine Firms' Co-operation

If a suggestion offered yesterday by State Highway Commissioner Black can be carried out by manufacturers of traction engines, the wheels of these big machines hereafter will be pro-vided with adjustable block-cleats. The idea is to permit the use of the cleats on the soft dirt riads. By means of the adjustable block device the cleats can be removed whenever the engine passes over the improved State highway or other paved street. In this way the improved highway need not be torn up.

Commissioner Black advanced the suggestion yesterday during the hearing of John J. Baker, Enterline, and ing of John J. Baker, Enterline, and Byron E. Shoop, Halifax, who were charged with having operated their traction engines in a way detrimental to the improved State highway along the Susquehanna through Riverside. The State department had been notified by Dr. Ellenberger, Riverside, of the injurious effect of the passage of the road locomotives. Manufacturers promised to assist the State authorities in endeavoring to prevent future violations. J. A. Rose, an active member of the Pennsylvania Farmers' and Threshermen's association and a representative of traction engine firms, carnestly assured the commissioner of his co-operation.

Mystery of Chicken Missed in Transit Cleared at First Stop
Special to the Telegraph

Winsted, Conn., July 26. — George Ramsey, railway mail clerk, vouches for the following:
A crate which contained chickens in the express car of a New Haven train became broken and the chickens obtained their freedom. The entire flock, with the exception of one, was rounded up and returned to the crate, which was again securely locked. This happened at Bridgeport.
The train continued on, and when Ansonia, eighteen miles distant, was reached the fireman saw the missing chicken walk out from under the engine, the fowl having ridden that distance on the trucks of the engine.

HOW TO GET RID OF FRECKLES

By Winifred Grace Forrest.

By Winifred Grace Forrest.

If you are one of the many women who are troubled with freckles at this time of the year you know only too well the humiliation they cause. To keep the skin free from these unsightly blemishes get a little ordinary Amonized Cocoa from your druggist and apply it over your entire face and neck once or twice daily and you will be surprised after a few days to find that your freekles have entirely disappeared.

Apart from removing and keeping the skin free from freckles Amonized Cocoa seems to have almost a magical effect too in removing other blemishes such as pimples and black heads and will often entirely overcome the natural tendency that many women skin. I do not think there is anything that can equal it for keeping the skin soft, white and youthful in appearance. Besides it is inexpensive and has a soft fragrant odor that especially appeals to the lady of refinement.
