

We put it up to Hundreds of Dentists

Long before SENRECO was offered to you we submitted it to hundreds of dentists, requesting that they put it to every test. Told them that we believed Senreco to be an unusually good dentifrice, especially as to its cleansing qualities and its remedial action on sore, soft, bleeding gums; in the treatment of Pyorrhea, etc.

And They Voted Yes

With practically one accord—said:

"Senreco appeals to me more than any dentifrice I have ever seen." "I cannot say too much for Senreco. It's one of the best I have used."

"I can recommend Senreco as the best." "Makes the teeth glister and is free from injurious ingredients, including pumice and grit."

"With such endorsements from the men who know; why not go to your dealer today and get a tube of SENRECO—Etc. Keep your teeth REALLY CLEAN, and protect yourself against Pyorrhea and decay."

A copy of the folder, "The Most General Disease in the World" together with a liberal trial size tube of SENRECO will be mailed you for 4c in stamps.

Story No. 14 THE MUSIC SWINDLER

Plot by George Brenson Howard. Novelization by Hugh C. Weir. Copyright Kalem Company.

"I can offer you the most attractive proposition which has ever been in my power to present to anyone," he began. "But I will tell you at once that it means quick action. I am not the kind of man to do business on promises."

"Then you are the man I am looking for," Mr. Peters said. "We will put up the ten thousand."

"The professor hastily turned to his desk to hide his smile of elation, as Peters nodded, and held out his hand."

"That goes! I will notify you within 24 hours where and when we can meet to close arrangements." He rose to his feet. "Glad to have met you all! I can only say that you have done a good piece of business, a very good piece of business, not only for the young lady but for yourselves."

He bowed himself out, and a moment later, Carson, Grant and Mona also took their departure, the professor accompanying them to the elevator, and waving his hand genially to them as they descended.

Mary had heard the entire interview, and smiled delightedly to herself as she saw the professor which was being made. She was on the point of opening the door, and stepping into Herrman's office when the hall door was pushed open, and Mona stepped in breathlessly. Herrman at his desk turned in surprise, as Mona made her way to his side, and slipped a note into his hand. Her face was flushed, and she was breathing quickly.

"I want to get better acquainted with you," she confided, looking up into his face with a glance that melted any suspicion which Herrman might have entertained. "Can't you call? I have written down my address for you. I am a member by myself in this big city and I would love to have you come and see me."

"Of course, I'll come—with pleasure!" promised Herrman, beaming. "But don't let Miss Roberts know I have asked you, said Mona hurriedly, calling to her attention to which the other had registered. "She is a little cat when she sees that men prefer me to her. And you do, don't you?"

The professor's smile deepened. "Of course, I do! How could I think otherwise?"

Mona flashed him an answering smile, and the door was just closing behind her when she entered the office from the adjoining room. Without a word, she stepped across to Herrman, and held out a note to him.

"Give me that note!" she demanded. "What note?" evaded Herrman unhesitatingly, trying to hide it behind his back.

"The note that brazen hussy gave you. She can't put anything like that over on me!"

Herrman held out the note grudgingly, and Mary snatched it away, her eyes flashing. "I thought that you were my friend!" she said, cuttingly.

"I am!" protested Herrman. "You are jumping at conclusions, my dear young woman! You are the most remarkable girl I have ever met!"

He rose from his chair, and tried to put his arm around her waist, but Mary cleverly evaded him.

"Then you will have to prove it!" she returned icily. "I didn't bring that girl here for you to make love to! I want you to understand that, and get it straight! It is a strictly business proposition. And I want you to keep it on that basis!"

"Of course, I shall, my dear!" Herrman looked properly crestfallen, and humble. Mary looked at him, opened her lips as though to speak again, and then, without another word, stepped into the hall, slamming the door behind her. Her eyes were twinkling when the elevator answered her summons.

She could picture the professor pacing the floor of his office, debating the best course to follow under the embarrassing circumstances.

Mary had hardly rejoined Mona in their flat when the telephone rang, and abruptly, Mona stepped to the instrument, laughing.

"I want to wager that it isn't Herrman!" She took down the receiver, and motioned Mary and Winnie Andrews to come closer.

"How are you, Professor?" she called sweetly. "It is so good of you to remember me so soon! What is that? Will I be at home this evening? Of course! Yes, indeed, I shall be glad to see you!"

She hung back the receiver and burst into a paroxysm of merriment. "He will be here at 8. You will have to leave the coast clear, Mary. Let me see—you have his address, didn't you?"

"I told him I lived in the suburbs. But I think I will be at home tonight if you don't mind, dear?"

"Fine! Give me half an hour with him, and I will guarantee to arrange as pretty a tableau as you ever saw!"

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

LOCAL TROOPERS TELL OF BORDER

Here's Your Chance to Read About Son or Lover on Rio Grande

Interesting news from the Harrisburg soldier boys on duty at the border is arriving daily. Reports thus far show little sickness, and the boys at the front are gradually becoming acclimated to conditions in the South.

Sergeant Charles Thomas of Company I, writes under date of July 17. Musician C. C. Leiby sends some interesting reports in a letter dated July 19, and Guy A. Dull, who is with the Pennsylvania Signal Corps, writes under date of July 18.

He has been appointed sergeant and attached to Battalion Headquarters under Major Fred Miller of Pittsburgh. The letters follow:

Camp Stewart, El Paso, Texas. The camp presented a busy appearance yesterday and this morning with all twelve companies on the parade grounds at one time. The company commanders are getting the companies in shape for parades.

In Company I we have inaugurated a system that we feel should bring quick results. After morning drill all men who have been observed by non-commissioned officers slopping through their drill are put under a drill sergeant and drilled until they can do the work properly.

Corporal Graeff and his six-foot-one squad, say they will be the first to be dismissed each day. We will see. "Abby Sponser visited El Paso yesterday and overstayed his time, on his return the first sergeant visited him and relieved him of his position in the kitchen and assigned him to the pick and shovel gang."

Harry B. Chubb has been assigned to the kitchen to take the place of Sponser. Privates Brant, Barbridge, and Corporal Green are the guard detail for today.

A busy man now getting the twenty-four buglers in good shape.

Last night about 10 o'clock we had one of the sandstorms that this part of the country is famous for.

The sand blows so thick you can scarcely see from one company to another.

Sergeant Kinter, Privates Zimmerman, Epkey and Kammerer went to explore the mountains about six miles to the south of us this afternoon and to try and capture a rattler.

There are a number of wild Indians on the mountains and they gave one party a scare Sunday night.

Sergeant Rogers is in charge of quarters to-day.

Here is the issue of the Texas Terrier for July 17, 1916:

Texas Terrier Items

Artificer Haley, Cooks Knell and Hamersla and Kitchen Police Klein and Sponser get up every morning at four bells to sling hash. They are the most important men in the outfit.

Private Stouffer still has hopes of being made a corporal.

Sergeant Kennedy had visitors yesterday, a horned toad and a vinegar.

The Miserable Quartet gave a concert last evening in front of Sergeant Thomas' tent.

Corporal Graeff has learned the carpenter trade. He built a bench 2 feet by 4 inches.

Thursday July 19

There was some excitement in camp this morning when a bull dog in Company G of the Eighth went mad. He was killed before he had bitten any one.

Privates Coble, Caldwell, Brown and E. Bickley are the Company I men on guard to-day.

Private Foster is detailed to the Quartermaster Corps to-day.

Private Sholder is helping to build the new bathhouses to-day.

Lieutenant Chambers visited Fort Bliss this afternoon for the purpose of making some purchases from the quartermasters' depot.

The drill for this morning was in school of the company, extended order, bayonet exercises and in semaphore signaling. A marked improvement has been noticed.

Private Roy Coble received word to-day of the death of his mother at New Market, Cumberland county, last week.

By Corporal C. C. Leiby

Sergeant Major Crist discovered a nest of scorpions in the adjutant's office this morning.

Corporal Graeff is the animal tamer of Company I. There is not a reptile within five miles that does not visit him.

Private Bernhiesel was explaining to the company the method of "mark time." Dutch said you walk but you don't get any place.

Why does Sergeant Thomas drill the rookies when there are eight corporals and six sergeants doing bunk fatigue? He is a willing worker.

From Sergeant Dull

I am pleased to say that the outfit to which I belong was the first organization of Pennsylvania militia to reach the border, arriving and de-training at El Paso July 4.

We were assigned a camp site about a mile from famous old Fort Bliss situated on the Alamogora road and very close to Mt. Franklin. Before making camp it was necessary for us to clear about two acres of cactus. This is some job as this cactus is one mass of sharp and jagged spines.

The militia is receiving some very valuable training and to my way of thinking will be in a state of high efficiency when ordered to their home stations. The officers of the regular army are taking a lively interest in the work of instruction and are doing their utmost to place us in condition for first line defense. These gentlemen represent a very high type of American manhood and seem to be capable and efficient.

This mobilization camp is a revelation to many militiamen and numbers are being surprised continually upon learning of the many duties that fall to the lot of the regular soldier. Those of our number who responded to the call expecting something in the way of an excursion are receiving something in the way of a rather rude awakening.

The general health of our command is excellent, some few of the men suffering from the effects of the heat. The thermometer has a disagreeable habit of going to about 105 degrees at 3 a. m. and remaining there until 5 p. m. The evenings are ideal, cool and pleasant, the sunsets being very beautiful.

All of our men have been inoculated and vaccinated and in nearly all cases have recovered from the effects of the operation. Personally I am feeling excellent, have made it a rule to confine myself to the army ration entirely, using no intoxicants of any description. By this method I am able to keep in very fair physical condition.

My regards to my friends of the Telegraph.
