HUGE SUMS HELD BY B. & L. ASSNS. BIG DEMAND FOR MAXWELL CARS

Commissioner Smith Speaks in High Terms of the State's Organizations Trouble to Get Cars Than to Sell Them

The 1833 building and loan association of Pennsylvania reporting to the State Department of Banking during 1915 aided in the purchase of 22,133 homes according to the summary of the twenty-first annual report on the building and loan organizations issued to-day by Commissioner William H. Smith. The commissioner says in his report that the building and loan associations have been of great benefit to the people of the Keystone State, noting the large enrollment of young people and the fact that they are being taught to save and remarks in closing "The department is very proud of the building association system under its supervision and its tremendous growth."

In the summary of statistics the report makes some interesting comparisons with the first year of State supervision. The first annual report, issued in 1915, showed 1121 associations with assets of $99,519,917.50 against a total of 1869 associations now on the lists with assets aggregating the huge total of $278,393,319.99. The total number of associations has risen from 1,796,311 in 1895 to 4,592,891, while the total number of shareholders has risen from 253,860 to 1,849,719. The total number of shares issued as women. Assets of $1,414,917 in twenty years, notes the report, and where the capital used to be restricted to one million dollars there have been associations chartered with from five to fifteen million dollars capital.

During 1915 there were eighty associations chartered and eleven increased their business. The assets increased $21,505,272.81 over 1914, or 10.3 per cent. Reported deposits, $25,995,802.67 were mortgage loans on stock shares, $18,029,377.37; stock loans and $5,856,425.30. The report also shows that the aggregate of $5,000,000 and $1,824,487.25 was reported as delinquent. The receipts for last year aggregated $1,414,917.14, against $1,214,917.14, dues alone being over $500,000, while $32,000,000 loans were repaid. The salaries paid by the associations amounted to $812,616.81. The total number of shares outstanding, 1,849,719, over 200,000,000 being mature stock and interest.

The summary shows 4,592,891 shares in force at the end of the year, of which 1,542,694 were borrowed on leaving $8,000,000 of income. The report states that the funds of associations are now being used not only to purchase homes, but to build enterprises such as theaters, factories, churches, breweries, creameries, etc.

The commissioner says that associations which cling to the old principles of economy and thrift are successful and adds that it is highly important that all members should be acquainted with the "precision and exactness that a subscriber to the capital stock of a corporation is expected to pay if this money has been called upon. In this respect the department may be forced to require payments.

"It is to the building associations whose directors devote their energies among the small investors rather than to the large investors for large investments who can afford to pay their contributions for the private benefit of the outside agent or promoter that the credit of the system is due," says Mr. Smith, who adds that twenty years ago such a thing as a commission for an individual for his personal benefit in producing a loan in a building association would have been regarded as treason to the cause among the old-line managers.

An interesting feature is a statement by Mr. Smith that there are at least 60,000 persons in Pennsylvania who are constant borrowers of small sums of money from the department, turned up in the department's supervision of what have been called "loan sharks," who are now regulated by law. "The old-fashioned director of a building association who devotes much of his time to the interests of his friends and neighbors still has a great work of philanthropy to exterminate the loan shark and to teach its patrons to save instead of to borrow," closes Mr. Smith.

Disappearance of Sharon Youth Is Baffling

Pittsburgh, Aug. 5.—Much mystery surrounds the disappearance of Severn Ker, son of the head of the big steel hoop plant at Sharon. Complaining of the heat, he was started for a physician's office but was not seen afterward. His father has notified the police department, which indicates yet no clue. About a year ago young Ker lost his sight from a heat attack and it is believed by his family that he may have been similarly stricken and met with some sort of a fatality. The youth is an expert golf player, but was not in form during the tournament play Thursday.

STIRS HOUSE BY WILSON ATTACK

Washington, Aug. 5.—Political oratory stirred the House yesterday when Representative William A. Rodenberg, of Illinois, Republican, answered Democratic criticism of the Hughes acceptance speech and arraigned the administration of President Wilson. Mr. Rodenberg said that the President was one of the few House orators, will be a stump speaker this Autumn, and his speech to-day is for use as a campaign document.

Investing against the Administration's policy, Rodenberg, by implication, connected Cleveland R. Dodge, of New York, with recent shipments of ammunition into Mexico. Dodge, a personal friend of the President, was declared to have visited the State Department shortly before Secretary Lansing permitted an ammunition shipment to Carranza in April, but Rodenberg said no connection of connection between the two incidents. He declared, however, that Dodge was a maker of munitions of the United States, and a contributor to the Democratic campaign fund of 1912.

Artificial Prosperity Will Crumble

Trams of Destruction in Mexico

Tuesday's carnage in Mexico, Mr. Rodenberg said, in part: "All is chaos and confusion in Mexico to-day. Organized society is broken down, anarchy is triumphant. What part has our government played in the dreadful drama of destruction? Who is primarily responsible for the carnal of crime that exists in Mexico to-day? make the statement and I measure my words in doing so, that the impartial historian of the future will lay the responsibility at the foot of the present Administration and of the wobbling policy of watchful waiting."
