Says Hog Cholera With Its Big Losses Can Be Prevented by Using Care

Dr. C. J. Marshall, secretary of the State Livestock Sanitary Board and State veterinarian, in a statement issued to-day on the hog cholera situation urges owners to raise their own pigs or purchase animals from farms where they know hogs have not died or been destroyed within three months.

died or been destroyed within three months.

"From January 1 to the middle of March—the beginning of the Spring sale season—Ponnsylvania was comparatively free from hog cholera," says Dr. Marshall, "but with the opening of the sale season the spread of hog cholera was startling. It seems that in some sections it is the practice of dealers to buy up hogs at one sale to be sold at another and the same batch of hogs frequently changes hands three or four times before finding a home on a farm. By this time the animals are almost invariably infected with hog cholera and after the farmer has had them a few days they begin to sicken and die."

Continuing, Dr. Marshall explained the manner in which the board endeavors to prevent the spread of infection.

Continuing. Dr. Marshall explained the manner in which the board endeavors to prevent the spread of infection.

"When the outbreak of hog cholera is discovered the premises are placed under quarantine and the owner advised to have all animals that have been exposed to infection, but are not showing signs of disease, vaccinated by the local veterinarian at his own expense. The department will supply the necessary hog cholera serum free of cost, and as this material is worth about $15 a quart it can be readily seen that the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture is bearing the larger portion of expense incident to the vaccination of hogs. The next important step is to discover the source of infection. Every effort is made to etdermine this point and all hogs and pigs that can be learned of as having been exposed to infection are quarantined and vaccinated if the owner cares to have the work carried out. In addition to the serving of a quarantine order and the advice given relative to the vaccination of the animals it is explained to each owner that he is not to depend on the serum treatment to eradicate the disease, but he must properly dispose of the carcasses of all hogs and pigs that die and thoroughly clean and disinfect his premises. A circular giving proper instructions for this work, the nature of hog cholera, the serum treatment, etc., is given each owner.

"It will readily be seen that it is practically impossible to trace the source of infection when animals have been handled through two or more sales, but in order to break up the practice of handling hogs that are affected with hog cholera or have been exposed to infection with that disease, the department has at this time under advisement the instituting of proceedings against several dealers who were responsible for the spread of hog cholera infection in Pennsylvania this Spring.

"At the present time there is very little hog cholera being reported by hog owners or local veterinarians, but unless the people of the State will avoid the hog sales that

Contract Awarded For New Chisuk Emuna Synagogue

The building committee of the Chisuk Emuna congregation awarded a contract yesterday for the erection of their new $50,000 synagogue to J. F. Barnhardt, of Enola. The building will have a frontage of 102 feet on Sixth street and extend 68 feet along Forster street. The building was designated by R. R. Markley along the lines of a famous Philadephia synagogue. The new edifice will occupy the site of the old St. Paul's Episcopal Church, whose buildings were purchased by the school board and used as an annex to Central high school.

LETTER TO THE KAISER

By Associated Press

London, Aug. 9.—"Berlin telegrams state that the American ambassador, James W. Gerard, asked an audience of Emperor William in order to hand him an autograph letter of President Wilson, in which the President outlines his wishes concerning the feeding of the population of Poland," the Amsterdam correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Company wired today. The letter is believed to be of high political importance, though no mention is made of an offer of peace mediation. Ambassador Gerard probably will join the emperor at the western headquarters.

AMERICAN DECORATED

Paris, Aug. 9.—Douglas MacMonagle, of San Francisco, a graduate of the University of California and now a member of the American ambulance field service, has been decorated with the war cross. The general commanding the sixteenth division in his citation of the American's service writes: "Although a bomb burst in the midst of his ambulance section, Mr. MacMonagle remained calmly at work and succeeded in carrying away three seriously wounded men while a terrific bombardment continued."

Relief

Washington, Aug. 9.—Belleving that the rising price in the cost of news print and other paper is rapidly bringing this country to the point where the question of producing paper from crop wastes and other plants may be considered from a new point of view. Senator Hoke Smith, of Georgia, announced yesterday that he intends to have a series of conferences with Government experts with a view to ascertaining whether the time is ripe for the manufacture of paper out of cotton stalks. Senator Smith intends to confer with officials of the Bureau of Plant Industry of the Department of Agriculture and with the Bureau of Standards regarding the situation. That paper may be made out of cotton stalks has been clearly demonstrated by Dr. Charles J. Brand, of the Department of Agriculture. In 1911, when he was physiologist in charge of paper plant investigations conducted by the Division of Agricultural Technology of the Department of Agriculture, Doctor Brand issued a bulletin giving the results of the work of his laboratory in making paper out of crop plants. This bulletin was printed on five different kinds of paper. One folio of the bulletin was printed on paper made from cornstalks and cotton stalks, another folio on paper made out of broomcorn stalks, another on paper made from cornstalks, another on paper made from cornstalks alone.

Demonstrate Practicability

Demonstrate Practicability
In these experiments the practicability of making paper from corn stalks and cotton stalks was demonstrated, but it was considered uneconomical to attempt to manufacture paper from stalks for commercial purposes. However, the threatened famine in paper has developed a situation which will force the country to deal more seriously with the question of finding new sources of supply for pulp for paper manufacture.

Senator Smith is anxious to ascertain whether a method cannot be developed by which paper can be made from cotton stalks at a price to make it commercially a paying proposition. He thinks it would aid the South by providing it with a new source of revenue from a waste crop. If the cotton stalk paper can be made at a

Phila. to Be Reduced

Philadelphia, Aug. 9.—As a result paper publishers of Philadelphia, called to consider the serious situation confronting them, caused by what are practically famine conditions in the news print paper market, the following agreement was unanimously reached:

All daily, evening and Sunday newspapers will immediately reduce the size of their issues to the extent of a fotal in excess of $0 pages weekly.

That, beginning September 1 next, the accepting from wholesale purchasers of unsold copies of all morning, evening and Sunday newspapers will be discontinued. Heretfore this privilege has been granted to newsboys, news agents, news stands and carriers.

At this meeting of publishers facts and figures were submitted showing that the mills have been unable to supply the enormous increased demand for white paper. Not only have the mills been unable to lay in a reserve stock during the summer months, as in former years, but they are at the present time below their normal supply. So serious has the situation become that it was pointed out that, unless drastic reduction of consumption was enforced, some newspapers throughout the country would be confronted with possible
