

LIME THE FIELDS SAYS AN EXPERT

Good Results Have Been Obtained by That Method in Years Goneby

Free use of lime raised big crops in the Susquehanna valley and it can do it again, says Professor Franklin Menges, soil expert of the State Department of Agriculture.

"The further investigations into use of lime are pushed, the stronger they become. A field which had not been farmed for a number of years and which had been pastured to death, was plowed up in the Spring several years ago and fairly well prepared and sown with soy beans, with the expectations of raising a small crop of this lumbe to plow down to get the land into some sort of shape to produce farm crops. The soils were tested for acidity before the land was plowed for planting soy beans, and the surface soil was found to be quite sour while the subsoil was only slightly so. Some time before plowing down the soy beans the surface and subsoil were again tested and while they were still sour, the acidity in the surface soil was much less than before plowing, while that of the subsoil was about the same.

"The soils produced a splendid crop of soy beans, much larger than was expected, and when plowed down returned to the soil fully sixty pounds of nitrogen to every acre of the field. After the land was well cultivated and the agencies of decay and nitrification became normally active, it was converted into an available farm, and when the wheat was sown, it made a splendid beginning in the Fall of the year which was renewed in the Spring, producing the wheat crop of the community with a spring of clover and timothy not equaled on this farm for years, and an exception for the neighborhood. This field was heavily limed, the evidences of which are still present from about fifteen or twenty years ago.

"The soils of another field on this same farm which had not been limed and which had been pastured in the same way when tested showed the soil and the subsoil to be equally sour, and when plowed and prepared and seeded with soy beans produced only a very ordinary crop, approximately only one-third of the yield of the former field with a hesitating starting and weakly growing and small yielding wheat crop and with a similar beginning of clover. The results of testing revealed these conditions and crop results could approximately be foretold under normal conditions."

WHERE THE BASKET CARRIERS REIGN

His sisters and daughters, to say nothing of some thousands of others who hadn't any relatives in the grocery store but who just went down to enjoy themselves at the biggest picnic of the kind ever held in the local history of such things.

Just an Estimate From 10,000 to 12,000 were the early day estimates of the crowd. Half a dozen special trains of from twelve to fifteen cars each carried many hundreds via the Philadelphia and Reading railroad; trolley cars carried a big lot of them; motor cars, motorcycles, delivery trucks, delivery wagons and teams carried more hosts.

The grocery boy's "girl" was there a-plenty, too; and when you had an eye-filling glance at her at the bathing pool, on the dance floor, on the athletic field, round the band concert forum, on the park benches, round the soda fountains, in the "movies," on the park paths, you probably wanted to have another eye-ful—and sighed your regrets to the whispering trees of Hershey Park; that you had a mere job as a bank clerk, or a bookkeeper, or an engineer, or a lawyer, and not a regular position like the grocer's boy.

Here, "Combie" Mack, Here! As early as 8:15 o'clock the first specials left the Philadelphia and Reading station. There were a dozen cars aplene on each. To say that the 70-capacity seating arrangements were overtaxed is putting it mildly. Shortly after noon three more trains went down. The return of the specials is set for 7 and 10 o'clock to-night. The program began as early as 9 o'clock with a ball game between the Hill and West End grocers. By the way, did you ever realize that many a "Ty" or "Rube" or "Eddie" of the future may be bringing the sugar and coffee and baked beans to the house every day?

Some Races, Too An hour later the other games began. Speaking of the multiplicity of possibilities, did you ever figure that the youngster of the delivery basket is in a class alone when it comes to quarter-mile sprints, tugs-o-war, running jumps, 100-yard dashes, and so on? There were all sorts of races and they were arranged to suit various ages so that if you were thirty-five or over or fifteen or under there was a race for you. Nor were these events for the mere men folks only. Hobbieskirt races for the women, candle races for the girls, a race for the bathers and a ladies' 50-yard free-for-all were only a few of the events.

THE NEW STORE OF

Judging these games were the following: Augustus H. Kreidler, C. B. Shammo, M. A. Morrison, J. S. Miller, H. E. Crownshield, F. G. Martin, George E. Runkle, A. F. Kitchen, W. M. Runkle, J. O. Orr, Samuel T. Kinsner, E. L. Marzoff, F. F. Forester, C. W. Fisher, H. H. Bower, C. F. Motter, L. C. Orr as the starter. Even Fish Are Lucky Round about 1 o'clock the luncheons were served and in the afternoon everybody—with the possible exception of grandma and the baby, who tucked into the program a wee nap under the trees—went to the bathing pool or the vaudeville show.

Various very nice, nice, reasons why it must be pleasant to be the grocer's boy were to be seen at the vaudeville show—they were plentifully on view in gay silk sweaters and flushed faces, blue-eyed and brown-eyed. But at the bathing pool! It was a toss up there whether you'd prefer to be a grocer's clerk or just—a fish.

The Regular Position At 4 o'clock the concert by the Municipal Band began and while mother and grandma bent comfortable thoughts toward "seein' gettin' supper," the crowds flocked to the bandstands. At 6:30 there was another concert by the Hepahay band. And, during the later hours of this evening, as the trainloads and motorloads and trolley car loads of weary but very, very happy picnickers made the roads from Hershey dusty but joyous, the surreptitious whispers of the grocery boy as he called at the house with the basket and the answering giggles of the maid or daughter of the house during the last few weeks may be readily understood. Gee! It must be nice to be the "grocer's boy."

TO CARRY AIRCRAFT GUNS By Associated Press New York, Aug. 10. — The battleship Nevada will be equipped with four antiaircraft guns, many of which have been received at the New York navy yard. The Pennsylvania also will carry four of these guns and it is stated that the rest of the larger warships of the Atlantic fleet will mount two of the new guns. The Oklahoma is now the only vessel in the navy carrying such weapons.

COKE SHIPMENTS DROP By Associated Press Connellsville, Pa., Aug. 10. — Unseasonably high temperatures combined with a lack of laborers and a car shortage to reduce shipments of coke from the Connellsville region during the week to 337,000 tons, the first time the record has fallen below the 400,000 ton mark since last February.
