HUGHES ASSAILS WILSON TARIFF

No Shrinking From Just War; Protect American Rights Abroad

Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 16.
Charles E. Hughes told an audience in Tacoma's station yesterday that he would not shrink from war in enforcing American rights abroad. He read the Democratic program of 1912 declaring for protection of American rights abroad.

"I want that made real," the nominee said. "I do not think in making that real that we should encounter the danger of war. I would not shrink from it if we did in performing the obvious duty."

Mr. Hughes confined his remarks almost wholly to the tariff and the need for a protective tariff.

"I propose a wise tariff without abuses," he said, "but frankly a tariff to build and maintain American industries."

Mr. Hughes reviewed Democratic tariff legislation and the Democratic platform plank of 1912 relating to the tariff.

"Our opponents said they would reduce the cost of living," he said. "Behold the result. Through an unfortunate development in the Republican party, which is now happily healed, our opponents got into power and they did not reduce the cost of living. We don't propose that the shortcomings of the Administration with respect to the protection of American industries shall be forgotten. They want to forget the war, like charity, covers a multitude of sins."

Mr. Hughes referred to a statement issued by Secretary McAdoo soon after the war started in 1914, in which it was announced that $500,000,000 in emergency currency was available to relieve financial straits.

"Our opponents had to resort to a Republican measure of prevention, the 'Freeland law,'" he said, "to still the fear that their policy had engendered among the people of this country. It was the Republican measure that took us through that critical period."

Reverting to the tariff, Mr. Hughes asked why the Democratic party wanted a tariff commission.

"Do they want a tariff commission for the purpose of carrying out the protective principle, not block it?"

The antidumping provision of the pending revenue bill was discussed by Mr. Hughes.

"I have had some experience with statutes," he said, "and if that statute works it will be a tremendous surprise to me."

REPUBLICAN CHAIRMAN BELIEVES PARTY WILL CARRY MAINE

New York, Aug. 16. — William R. Willcox, Republican national chairman, speaking about the election in Maine, said:

"From information coming direct from the state the situation may be said to be encouraging. There are side issues in the campaign not entirely political. One of these is State-wide prohibition versus local option. It will be a factor in this year's fight."

"Of course, there are other issues. The sectionalism of the present national Administration does not set well in Maine, and I am told that the Mexican and foreign policies of the President are regarded with little respect."

"As to the outcome, Maine is normally Republican and seldom elects Democratic electors. Now the Progressive vote, I am told, is practically merged with the Republican, and if this information is correct we may reasonably expect to carry the State all along the line."

WHITE HOUSE DENIES REPORT

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16. — The White House has made public a letter from Charles M. Galloway, acting chairman of the Senate Committee on Administration, denying assertions of the Republican platform that the Democratic administration has created 30,000 offices outside the civil service law which cost $44,000,000 a year.

Mr. Galloway gave figures to combat the Republican declaration and to show that the number of outside offices is small.
