GRANGERS PICNIC STATE EXHIBITS

Highway Department and Public Charities Association Will Present Educational Features

Mechanicsburg, Aug. 25.—Among the interesting exhibits at Williams Grove next week during the Granger's picnic will be that made by the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania. It is purely educational and is intended to show the condition of the feeble-minded of the country and the necessity for their care and segregation. Another exhibit of interest will be that of the Pennsylvania State Highway Department, which will consist of specimens of road construction, topographical maps and many views of the old and new roads of the State. It will be located in Horticultural Hall and will be in charge of W. R. D. Hall, the statistician of the department.

The evening entertainments will be especially fine. On Monday and Tuesday evenings, John R. Eustis of the editorial staff of the New York Evening Mail, will give a lecture on "Welfare by Automobile." Both lectures will be entirely different. On Wednesday and Thursday evening, W. W. Roberts, explorer and naturalist, will give illustrated lectures of his travels in the heart of Africa.

A concert will be given by the Singers of Mechanicsburg on Friday evening, which will also furnish music during the week.
