COPELIN DEFENDS SELF; SHARPLY RAPS CRITICS

from the banks on the Water Department monthly balances, but that the interest money was credited for business reasons to the city general fund instead of the Water Department. As to the variance in the average rate of interest paid on the monthly balances from less than 1 to nearly 2 per cent, Copelin gives reasons which Commissioner Gorgas to-day corroborated. The letter from ex-Treasurer Copelin is as follows:

"I have within the last ten minutes received a clipping from the Harrisburg Star-Independent relative to the report of the company which audited my accounts and the action taken by the City Commissioners thereon. The tone of this article is distinctly unfriendly and insinuates that there has been something crooked in my office. It is unnecessary for me to say to you that this is untrue.

"There are two things mentioned by the newspaper which are probably conversant with and can clear up without any help from me, but I will refresh your mind about them, anyway. The paper states that prior to 1913 the city received no interest on the cash in the water fund. In all the years that I was City Treasurer, up until the last one or two years, or maybe three years, no interest on the water department funds was credited, along with the interest on other city money, to the city general fund, and this fact is well known to most, if not all, city officials.

"It is known to City Clerk Miller, City Solicitor Seitz and former City Controller Groussart, and also to the poor George Kennedy's time when he was water commissioner it was a constant joke between him and the other city officials instead of giving the department credit with interest on its own money we turned the money over to the city, which needed money more than the Water Department. I do not know whether or not you changed the method of crediting this interest within the last couple of years, but at any rate the city's money during my administration, whether belonging to the Water Department, was all bulked so far as bank deposits were concerned and kept separate only on our books, and this fact is credited direct to the 'city general fund'.

"The other matter to which I take serious exception is the question as to the amount of interest collected and the variation from less than 1 per cent to nearly 2 per cent. The interest which I collected from the banks was invariably paid by checks and the disposition of the checks can be verified by the banks themselves and by the interest accounts.

"The biggest fool objection which I note was made was that some canceled bonds were destroyed and some were not. It was our custom to destroy all bonds after they were canceled and so recorded in my office and in the office of the City Controller and Commissioner of Finance and Accounts, and if some were not destroyed I would suggest the easiest method of correcting this omission would be to destroy them.

"I understand from the auditors' report that there are some canceled bonds missing, only a year or two old, that is canceled only a year or two ago. Inasmuch as these bonds are marked canceled both on my books and on yours, and, no doubt, were canceled both in my office and in yours, the matter is of no consequence, but since a city official took over all the documents belonging to my office, he should be in a better position than I to explain what became of them.

"I just want to say in conclusion that I am making no excuses for the conduct of my office, but that I am proud to stand in your memory. You may find this letter as public as you want; read it in Council if you like, or give it to the newspapers if you like; I am only concerned that the fact all interest in your memory. I forgot to finish about the variation of the interest collected from the banks. This was caused by the action of the Sinking Fund Commission, and, later, during your term, the Mayor, the Commissioner of Accounts and Finance and the Treasurer. During recent years it was impossible to sell the city's bonds at the present concessions to the banks. Some of the titles, such as Philadelphia, New York, Boston and others, were forced to pay 4 1/2 per cent, and 5 per cent for their money. We, in Harrisburg, were able to sell our 4 per cent bonds at 100, and the banks, who bought the bonds, to keep the money on deposit without paying interest for certain specified periods, agreed to sell the Sinking Fund Commission and the banks. I will trust you to look after these matters during my absence and look after my interests as far as possible."

SCHOOL BEGINS

AUGUST 28th Day and Evening Sessions

The Office Training School, Kaufman Building, 4 S. Market Square, will start its Term next Monday, August 28th, in both Day School and Night School.

From one hundred and fifty to two hundred young people will discover the disparity in size and architecture of their advantage. They will enter the school, stay for a few months and acquire the training which will eventually place them in high-salaried office positions.

In the teaching of pupils, it is the aim of The Office Training School to give each pupil such a mastery of the basic principles of the subject he or she is studying that nervousness cannot be felt in regard to that subject for the simple reason that it is so thoroughly well mastered.

A student drilled on this plan has a wonderful competitive advantage as probably nine-tenths of positions lost are lost through nervousness not permitting the otherwise capable applicant from making the demonstration he or she should make of which they are quite capable.—Advertisement

SERIOUSLY HURT IN STREET BRAWL

One in Hospital, Two in Jail Result of Fight in Lonely Lane Above Borough

As a result of a drunken brawl in the Gibson street lane, at the upper end of the borough, last night, Harry Cassel, Franklin street, is in the Harrisburg hospital with a possible fractured skull and Laura Murray and Charles Thompson, her brother, are both in jail.

Cassel was found unconscious at Front and Franklin streets by Patrolman John Wynn, who was sent to the place by Sergeant Masters in response to a telephone call. The patrolman took Cassel to the Harrisburg hospital where he regained consciousness long enough to tell Detective I. N. Durnbaugh the names of his assailants.

In company with Constable John Gibb, the detective went to a West Side house where they placed the Murray woman and Thompson under arrest. Both were committed for a hearing before Squire Frank A. Stees. What caused the brawl is not yet known to the police.

In the West End district, the plan calls for an addition to the Camp Curtin school to be used for the junior high school there.

Junior Schools Co-Ed The Junior high schools will be co-educational, and two grammar grades and the first year of the high school course will be included. The boys' high school and the girls' high school will be used to accommodate 1,000 pupils each in the three upper classes of that course.

The report of Dr. Downes and President Stamm included a sketch of both the surveys of the experts, Dr. James H. Yoder, of the high school, Mass., and Dr. Henry Snyder, of Jersey City.

In discussing the co-educational policy and the junior high school question, the report of the high school country the junior high schools are being introduced with success, and that the only way to form a practical solution of the high school problem in Harrisburg will be to separate the boys and girls in the last three years of their course.

To Meet "Citizens' Committee" The introduction of Latin into the course at the Technical high school should the new system be adopted, will probably be provided for. The recommendations of President Stamm and Superintendent Downes have been adopted by the high school committee will be considered next Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock at a meeting with a "citizens' committee" composed of A. D. Bacon, W. M. Donaldson, Francis J. Hall, E. Heffelfinger and William Jennings.

The necessity for immediate action was pointed out, and it was explained, will not require an increase in the present school tax rate. Every need of both grade and high schools in the city was carefully worked out, and the adoption of the Van Sickle plan and the passage of the law will help help grade school conditions. At present there are no vacant rooms in any building in Allison Hill, and unless the high school plan is adopted, a new grade school will be needed there within a short. Only eight rooms are vacant in the West End and these will soon be filled, which will mean another grade school for that section.

Junior high schools, however, will remove this necessity as the present building will be used for six grades only, instead of eight—the present system. The other two grades will be included in the junior high school course. This will relieve crowded conditions in the entire city for years, and in the opinion of school experts will be the best solution to present conditions.

Children between 5 and 12 years of age, half fare.
