AGED VETERANS MARCH IN PARADE

Thousands in Regimental Formation Follow Tattered Flags in Kansas City

By Associated Press

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 30.—Thousands of veterans of the Civil War, not a man of them less than sixty-five years old, marched through the streets of Kansas City, in regimental formation, behind the tattered flags they had followed as defenders of their country, in the annual parade to-day, of the Grand Army of the Republic. Some of them, the older and more feeble leaned on canes or on the shoulders of an atendant khaki-clad Boy Scout.

It was with drums beating, bands and fife corps playing and faded blue uniforms brushed spick and span, that to-day's march was made. Led by Commander E. H. Monfort and his staff the thousands wound through crowded streets. A public holiday had been proclaimed in Kansas City, in honor of the war heroes and reviewing stands were erected throughout the business district. Emergency hospital units were stationed at numerous corners.

Clear and cool weather made it easy for the veterans to withstand the hardships of the twelve blocks of tramping. They marched by State Departments although regimental formation was kept as closely as possible. Bands preceded almost every section and there were several fife and drum corps.

The Illinois department led by W. F. Calhoun, department commander, held the advance guard honor of the parade, being immediately behind the commander-in-chief and his staff. Following came the Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, Ohio and New York departments with the New England States and the remainder of the forty-four divisions bringing up the rear. Several hours were required for the slowly moving parade to pass the official reviewing stand.

Indiana, "The Verdun of 1916 Political Campaign," to Notify Fairbanks

By Associated Press
Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 30.—Preliminary to the official notification here to-morrow of Charles W. Final arrangements for the notification ceremonies were made and the part Mr. Fairbanks will take in the campusign discussed.

notification ceremonies were made and the part Mr. Fairbanks will take in the campaign discussed.

Among those participating in the conterence were A. T. Hert, of Kentucky, manager of the Republican western headquarters at Chicago; Frank H. Hitchcock, former Postmoster General; Ralph D. Cole, Ohio, chairman of the speakers bureau, and Will H. Hays, Republican state chairman of Indiana. National Chairman William R. Willcox is expected to arrive late to-day.

The campaign in Indiana, which has been described as "the Verdun of the 1916 political campaign," was to be one of the chief topics of the conference. With the candidates for the vice-presidency of the Democratic and Republican parties and the candidate for the presidency of the Prohibition party residents of Indiana, and with two United States senators, members if Congress and a complete state ticket including a governor to elect, the campaign in Indiana promises to be the most bitterly contested of any in recent years.

TRAVELETTE By NIKSAH THE DAHABIYEH

The dahabiyeh is one of the leading Egyptian inctitutions and one of the most prominent features of the scenery along the river Nile. It is a leading stage property for the fictionist who writes of Egypt, and a favorite haunt and recourse of the Nile tourist.

ist.

The dahabiyeh is a shallow-draft The dahabiyeh is a shallow-draft river boat of a pattern devised by some enterprising naval constructionist four or five thousand years ago. The Pharachs and Cleopatra used them, and the Egyptian aristocrat uses them to-day—a striking example of the continued popularity of a high grade article. There is, however, apparently little foundation for the report that some of the original craft are still plying the river.

of the original craft are still plying the river.

A trip up the Nile in a dahabiyeh is a soothing and restful experience, with a quiet and insidious charm peculiarly its own. Every day that you float southward seems to turn back the clock of time by a century. You slip into the past that Egypt has never quite come out of.

There is a wide roomy deck on your boat, with cushioned chairs and fans and awnings. They build steam dahaiyehs nowadays, but he who charters a craft with such a power plant has small respect for the shades of the Pharachs. The sailing boat floats quietly and without noise, as though it moved through some element smoother and less resistant than water. Now and then it grounds gently on one of the innumerable Nile sandbars, and the dark-skinned crew push and sweat over the poles stoically, with a tuncless song.

On such a trip you glimpse the heart

the poles stoically, with a tuneless song.

On such a trip you glimpse the heart of the land, for Egypt is nothing but a narrow belt of life clinging to Father Nile. The shores slip by like a slow pageant, with their stiff dreamlike outlines of pyramids, ruined temples and sphinxes under a white sun. Now and again you pass a mud village of today, strangely mean and poor beside the ruined splendor of the past. The world's greatest changes have played over the land and the people; only the coffee-colored stream that bears you along and gives life to both has never changed.
