the pitch winter habit of Mr. and Mrs. Harrisburg and all the little Harrisburgers.

And if you have that foolish idea tucked away anywhere that New York or Philadelphia has anything on the capital of Pennsylvania for real merchandising opportunities, that idea is bound to be knocked into a cocked hat, and no mistake.

The window display contest next Wednesday evening will be open to every store in the city and the prizes will be awarded on points of merit to include originality, artistic merit, neatness, selling value and so on. The cost of the display is to have little weight. It's the general effect and value of the exhibit that is to draw down the apple.

Not half the good things that are to be seen are being told now. Not by a long shot. Keep reading the papers and you'll miss your dinner rather than Harrisburg's Fall opening next Wednesday evening. confident he would retain his seat. The outcome as to this district has convinced the House.

The moral effects of the Maine vote, from the viewpoint of the Republican leaders, will be even more important than the actual gains in the Senete, and House Republicans believe it will have the effect of causing a lot of voters whose course was uncertain to come into the Republican camp.

Opponents of Hughes have been asserting that he was not making a succuss in campaigning. Inasmuch as Hughes went to Maine and drew large crowds, the Republican managers say these assertions are answered. Nor is the importance of the Roosevelt trip to Maine minimized.

It is admitted on all hands that each side put forth its best tickets in Maine. The State was invaded by an army of Republicans and Democratic speakers. Chairman Frank Woods, of the Republican Congressional Committee, said the Maine outcome meant a large majority for Hughes in November and that the National Republican Congressional committee, said the Maine outcome was made here that the National Republican Congressional Committee would make the same methodical fight for House and Senate in other States which was made successfully in Maine.

"It's Fine, Fine," Declares Roosevelt on Maine Result

Oyster Bay, Sept. 13 .- Colonel Roose-

Oyster Bay, Sept. 13.—Colonel Roosevelt yesterday received a number of Republican leaders at Sagamore Hill and was in telephonic communication frequently with the Republican headquarters in New York.

The result of the Maine election and the more active participation of the Colonel in the campaign, brought broad smiles of satisfaction to the faces of the Republican solons who journeyed to Oyster Bay.

The Colonel also, after he had tossed his hat into the ring, and stripped off his coat and finally got himself warmed up to his job, beamed his satisfaction at the Maine results. He was specially pleased with a huge pile of isfaction at the Maine results. He was specially pleased with a huge pile of telegrams from all parts of the country, complimenting him for his part in the Maine fight, and giving him much credit for the result.

"It's fine, fine; I am very glad." grinned the Colonel when he was asked for his opinion on the result.

Those who have talked with Mr. Roosevelt said that he was highly gratified with the bulk of the 1912 Progressive vote was found in the Republican column this year. He takes this as an indication that the rank and file of the Bull Moose party have buried their resentment and are still following his leadership.

W. Cameron Forbes, James M. Beck, Senator William M. Bennett and Regist P. Post were besides a number of lease.

Neither will he vary a jot from the nature of the speeches he has been delivering during the 12,060-mile tour which came to an end last night in outline every item in his oratorical repertoire which has been subjected to criticism as academic or "wishy-washy."

Speaking before an enthusiastic audience of 1,500 in the Plattsburg thater here he laid down this ultimatum:

"I come to you as the spokesman of a reunited Republican party. We have said it was reunited, we have devoutedly hoped it was reunited, we have devoutedly hoped it was reunited. Now Maine proves that it is reunited.

"Whoever was skeptical about that before must hide his criticism now. We shall abandon no efforts. We shall not change our plans or our atims. We shall go forward with renewed confidence because the old State in the northeast corner has spoken in no uncertain voice."

Following his visit to the preparedness camp the Republican presidential candidate donned his fighting clothes.

fallure rigidly to enforce the civil service law.

"This is not simply destructive criticism," he declared. "For when I say anything by way of criticism I endeavor to write alongside the criticism what we propose to do. We propose to have applied the merit system. We propose to have the spirit of our civil service laws maintained. We propose to have efficiency and competency in public office."

Chicago, Sept. 13. - Their camaigns for nomination completed, Repaigns for nomination completed, Republican and Democratic candidates at the Illinois State primary to-day waited for the count of ballots which will mean success or defeat for them. While there has been a spirited contest over virtually every State office nomination, the struggle for the Republican gubernatorial nomination overshadowed the others. declared, in approving the training camps, the first of which was established here:

"I think in this country we must rely in the main upon the great citizen reserve tained and controlled under federal authority. That is real preparedness."

This declaration, coupled with a denunciation of the abandonment of the continental army plan, was received with a burst of applause by the audience, which included many of the resultar army officers stationed at the camp.

He answered the charge that his criticisms are merely destructive. It came in connection with his condemnation of the administration's alleged failure rigidly to enforce the civil service law.

"This is not simply destructive criticism," he declared. "For when I say anything by way of criticism I endeavor to write alongside the criticism declared. "For when I say anything by way of criticism I endeavor to write alongside the criticism declared."
