working condition are necessarily great in the case of dams of the height of the Holtwood dam. These difficulties are enhanced by the conditions prevailing in the Susquehanna as regards extremes of flood stages, the small storage capacity of pools inherent in the form of the prism of the river valley and the quantity of ice which is brought down by the spring floods. No fishway has ever been designed or constructed which could be expected to work successfully for shad under these or similar conditions. The present fishway on the York county side of Holtwood undoubtedly represents the most advance effort to solve the problem, although under present conditions there it is not possible to say that it represents a successful solution.

The report contains several photographs taken during the inspection.
