

Chronic Catarrh is Curable

Nothing is more distressing to the sufferer and his friends. Chronic catarrh is systemic—that is, it is present throughout the body, though it may manifest itself in a local ulceration.

PERUNA Has Helped Thousands

It is a foe to catarrh. The voluntary testimony of thousands establishes that. Peruna benefits in a number of ways. Peruna builds up the digestion, restores the strength, and helps put the system in condition.

Peruna has special value in catarrh: It gives vitality to the system, restores tone to the membranes and enables these to perform their functions. In many cases the benefits begin at once, and it rarely fails when treatment is continued properly. The Peruna Medical Department will be glad to assist you to overcome this disease. The doctor's advice is free. Don't delay treatment.

BUSINESSMEN ASKED TO BOOST SCHOOL

DR. WILLIAM MCCLELLAN

New dean of the University of Pennsylvania Wharton school of accounts and finance, who will be guest of honor to-night at the annual "get-together" smoker of Harrisburg Wharton extension.

men and women matriculated in the fall of 1914 at least seventy-five will successfully complete the three-year course at the end of the present college year in Harrisburg.

We believe you are interested in the Harrisburg Wharton school. It is without doubt a unique educational institution. It offers a type of education which no other school affords. It brings university education to the very doors of your city. It gives young business men and women an opportunity to secure a kind of education that will put them in the front ranks of the successful business men of the future.

The progressive, wide-awake business men of Harrisburg and Scranton, realizing the great benefit to them of having university trained men in their employ, have adopted the plan of promoting Wharton school trained men in preference to the untrained men. Not because of favoritism, but because of superior business ability—because they are better money makers for them.

"Do you not have in your employ young men who need just this type of education? If you have, why not encourage them to enroll in Harrisburg's unusual business school? If you do, it will mean a financial benefit to you as well as your employees. In short, it will mean greater success to both. Why not encourage your young men to investigate our school?"

University officials are in constant attendance in the rooms of the Harrisburg Chamber of Commerce, where logs fully describing the courses will be mailed upon request.

Students of the Wharton extension school as well as local business men who have backed and are backing the branch of the University of Pennsylvania in this city are looking forward with pleasure and interest to meeting the new dean of the Wharton school, Dr. William McClellan, who will be the guest of honor at the annual "get-together" smoker of the Wharton students to-night at the Engineers Club.

Dr. McClellan is a noted engineer and upon his appointment to the head of the Wharton extension school a commendable comment was heard from all sides on the wisdom of appointing a really successful and practical business man to the place. The new dean is a member of an officer of so many engineering societies that to name them would take a quarter of a column of space; he has been equally successful in the business world and is above all things a practical business man; his time and energy will be given almost completely to the development of the Wharton school, and he is intensely interested in the work of the Harrisburg extension and the branches in the other cities of the state.

At the smoker to-night he is expected to outline his plans for the development of university extension work.

UNIVERSITY CLUB FORMAL OPENING

guest of honor and made a splendid address on the functions of a university club and the influence which it can wield. He went back to the founding of universities and discussed human knowledge and the ways in which the university meets along these lines. "A university club," he said, "attracts to one point men who would otherwise see one another and it associates them in a body that is essentially a moulder of public opinion and a power that is looked up to and cannot be ignored in a community. I congratulate the city of Harrisburg and the State of Pennsylvania upon its new and splendid organization."

Arthur E. Brown, president of the club, after Dr. Penningman's address, called upon various officers and members of the club, and for a short time business matters were discussed. Short speeches were made by Mark T. Milnor, A. E. Brown, John T. Shirley, B. M. Nead, Edward J. Stackpole, Jr., John Fox Weiss and Dr. J. George Becht. Rutherford cared and Shuey and DeLone kept things lively with the zither and piano, while various college songs were sung. A diversion was created later in the evening by the introduction of a strolling player, who had been secured from the Majestic's current bill and who entertained for a time.

Following is the entire membership of the club: E. C. Smith, W. R. Page, Samuel D. Emerson, F. V. Larkin, H. J. Dlicher, A. P. Spooner, H. Reitinger, William Barber, S. S. Riddle, Dr. Henry R. HARRISBURG, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1916.

FOUNDED 1871

"A service of unusual personal quality is provided in this Garment Shop. We insist that the individual requirements of our patrons shall be considered above the mere sale of a suit, coat or dress. A visit will make this service more apparent now than ever.

A Visit---And What One Sees In This Autumn Fashion Shop

Glance around; here are only a few of the interesting features you will observe.

Long coats are considered the smart thing, some even go to extremes in reaching barely within a few inches of the skirt hem. Other jackets come just below the hips and others are to the knees. In the longer models the coats sometimes fall in graceful points at the sides, and others are quite one-sided in their draping.

The Russian influence is paramount, even the favored materials have a texture that would indicate that they were intended for cold weather. Velour de laine, and soft finished broadcloths are very delightful materials being much in favor this Fall.

There will always be greens and blues, but just now plum is the leader.

And of course—FUR must be spelled in capital letters as the trimming. There are collars and cuffs, and even belts of fur, to say nothing of bountiful bands of fur.

Jackets have an odd way of closing, most of them, that is, in some very smart suits buttoning to the side, others almost give a surprise effect. Sometimes a fullness is introduced by shirring or pleating.

Serge and broadcloths are favored for the strictly tailored suits. A little touch of newness is found on one model that has vertical button-holes.

Whatever style suit you select this Fall—you are sure to select a becoming one.

Opera is Wonderful on the Aeolian-Vocalion

Take a record from Tristan and Isolde. Play it some evening for your music-loving friends.

With the first notes of the orchestra you will notice a new tone to the music. You are hearing real music for the first time from a phonograph.

Stand at the far end of the room and see how each note of the intricate melody reaches you perfectly.

Step up and take the Graduola in your hand. Soften the tone a little—a simple move of your hand will do it. Then increase the tone until it brings out the full force of those magnificent high notes.

That's what we mean when we say you can play the Aeolian-Vocalion. This is a pleasure that you have never had with the old mechanical, unchangeable phonograph.

But you can never appreciate how beautiful the Aeolian-Vocalion sounds until you actually hear it. A half hour's demonstration will be a revelation to you.

Come in and let us play for you your favorite selections. You can play the instrument yourself if you wish. No obligation will be incurred by a visit.

SAFETY BICYCLE FOR FAT MAN The fat man who wants to reduce by bicycling, but who does not want to fall off and injure himself in the attempt, can now ride with safety on a bicycle fitted with a new rear attachment which will prevent him from losing his balance. The frame of the bicycle carries an extra pair of small wheels at the back alongside the rear wheel. When these are attached it is no effort to maintain one's balance.—Popular Science Monthly for October.
