Man Cut in Fight at Lewistown May Die

Lewistown, Pa., Sept. 27.—A fight here on Saturday night, at first thought to be only a drunken brawl, with a man slightly cut about the face and body, may turn out to be a serious affair, as the injured man is at present in a serious condition, due to a wound in the chest, through which part of a lung protruded. The fight happened in the west end of town at the home of Mrs. Sam Smith, a colored woman. The man injured is James Havanna, an Italian, who says that he was struck first on the head by a piece of chinaware thrown from an upstairs window, which cut a gash in his head, and soon afterward was attacked and cut a number of times with a sharp knife. David Speaks, a young colored man, has been lodged in jail, charged with aggravated assault and battery and Mrs. Smith has been locked up charged with keeping a disorderly house. Mrs. Anna Robinson, a daughter of Mrs. Smith, was cut on the arm when she tried to stop the fight between the two men.

Catarrh Victim Could Only Sleep on Left Side

After Suffering for Years With Constant Headache and Indigestion Frank Brown Finds Relief in Tanlac

For fifteen years Frank Brown had his ups and downs at the courthouse, where he operated the elevator, and during that time he contracted catarrh, from which he has suffered for years. He says: "I have been tortured and tormented by catarrh for more years than I can remember. So bad that I could only sleep on my left side, and if I unintentionally turned over I would feel suffocated and would wake up in misery. I had headaches almost all the time and, probably because of my catarrh, I suffered from indigestion. My stomach was in very bad shape. I had but little appetite and food did not appeal to me, and when I did eat anything, no matter how simple, it would build me all up with gas and I would be in real agony for hours afterward. I guess I tried a hundred different remedies that I heard were good for what ailed me, but they none of them helped me a bit, and I continued to worry along feeling like the last days of summer until I heard about Tanlac and the wonderful results it had given to some other catarrh sufferers. I began using it and it certainly is all that is claimed for it for I feel better to-day than I have felt for many years. My catarrh has gone entirely. I have no more headaches and I eat and sleep as well when I was a boy. I certainly will be glad to recommend Tanlac to anyone who wants to know how it has helped me." Tanlac, the famous reconstructive vegetable tonic, appetizer and invigorant, is now being specially introduced here at Gorgas' Drug Store, 16 North Third Street, where the Tanlac man is daily explaining this master medicine to hosts of interested inquirers. Tanlac is also sold at the Gorgas Drug Store in P. R. Station.

Johnson Certain Big Baseball Classic Will Open Ten Days Hence

Chicago, Sept. 27.—The world's series will open on Saturday, October 7, according to President B. E. Johnson, of the American League, who as a member of the National Commission is to-day ready to begin preparations for the series. With the race as uncertain as it is, no final action has been taken yet by the National Commission Mr. Johnson said. "I am certain that the world's series will start on October 7," said Johnson. "The contestants might be willing to begin October 5, but I hardly think so. The American League race closes one day earlier than the Nationals, so I do not think that would be fair to the National League winner, however, so it looks as if the opening game will be played a week from next Saturday."

GOVERNOR URGES CROP INCREASES

Tells Farmers Food Production Must Be Given More Attention

Gettysburg, Pa., Sept. 27.—On their third tour of the agricultural sections of Pennsylvania, Governor Brumbaugh and other State officials, with a large number of others interested in the development of the rural portions of the State, yesterday told Adams county farmers food production must be given more attention. One of the large automobile trucks had been fitted up as a stand and from this Governor Brumbaugh made his address. He said: "We are now on the third week which we have devoted to tours in the interests of the farms of Pennsylvania and the State's highway problems. Unless we can develop our soil to increase our food production the time is not very far distant when we will be dependent upon outside communities to feed the workers in our mills, in our factories and at our forges, a situation which we do not wish for a moment to contemplate. "Our highway problems are a matter of transportation of people and materials from one part of our Commonwealth to another. I feel confident that I can look any man in the face and unblushingly say that we now have better roads in Pennsylvania than we ever had before. "I see no reason why we cannot continue this work until we have a dustless and durably surfaced road from every town in the State, and that without an unreasonable burden of taxation. "If we all work together, feeling that we have back of us the co-operation of the good people of our State, we can build up an efficient or right government of which we may all be proud, we ask the co-operation of you."

Gets Box of Apples Governor Brumbaugh was in Chambersburg three times yesterday. He stopped there with his touring party and made a speech to a crowd on Memorial Circle. He said Franklin county apples were the best in the world and got a box of Rambos as a present. He and his party visited the local apple show here. From here the party went to McConnellsburg and the Governor then came back about 6 P. M., on his way to York, eating his supper as he rode by. At midnight he returned westward, bound from York to Bedford.

HUGHES GREET WEST PA. CROWDS

Enters Pittsburgh District and Begins Tour of Industrial Towns

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 27.—Charles E. Hughes entered the Pittsburgh district soon after noon to-day and from that moment until the time for his departure for Trenton, N. J., at midnight, every hour has been carefully filled by the Republican party leaders who made up the committee of arrangements. Mr. Hughes was met at the station by a great crowd of Republicans from all over Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and Northern West Virginia, and immediately began a tour of industrial towns.

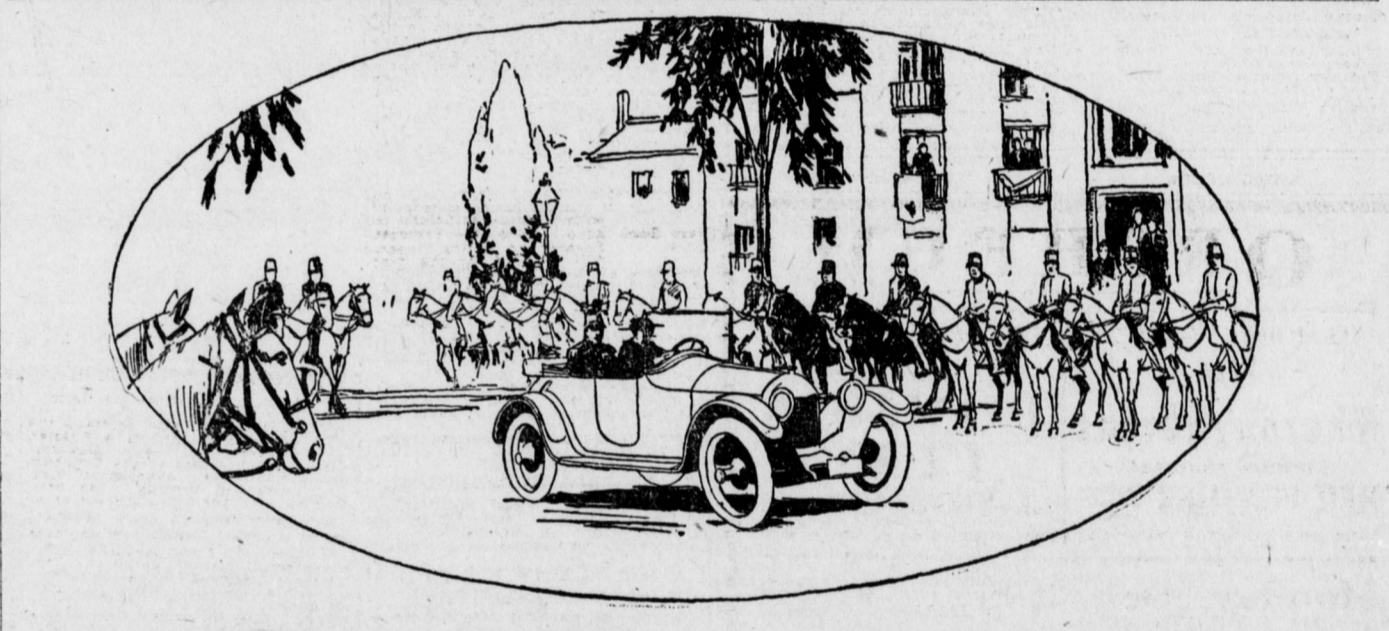

Issues Final Challenge Mr. Hughes last night challenged the administration to deny his charge that John Lind was authorized by President Wilson in 1914 to say to "the minister from a foreign power" that Huerta would be "put out" of the presidency of Mexico if he did not voluntarily get out.

Mr. Hughes issued his challenge in a speech here before an audience in Cleveland. In the same speech Mr. Hughes lauded Myron T. Herrick, sitting on the platform with him, for the manner in which he discharged the duties of ambassador to France in the early days of the war and declared that the appointment of a man to succeed Mr. Herrick "in a time of great emergency" would "ever remain a blot upon the present administration." In his second address at Toledo and in his speech at Cleveland last night Mr. Hughes renewed his attack on the administration for the Adamson law and declared that it was the duty of the Executive to stand "like a rock" for the principle of investigation before legislation and not to surrender to force. Mr. Hughes' challenge to the administration was part of his attack on the administration for its Mexican policy. He said: "We cannot maintain our just influence on this hemisphere in connection with our sister republic unless we are correct in our international attitude and careful and correct in our international policy. That is the deplorable thing about the conduct of our affairs in Mexico. We have followed no intelligent possible policy. We have not justified ourselves to those acquainted with international law. We have not satisfied our ideals. We have not won the friendship, but rather lost the friendship, of those who are in the sister republic of Mexico torn by disturbance. Only the other day we had a very clear statement of the principle that should govern us in this matter and in similar matters. It is a statement which comes from the head of the administration and it is very clearly put. It says, referring to Mexico: 'We have professed to believe that every nation, every people, has the right to order its own institutions as it will, and we must live up to that profession in our actions in absolute good faith.' That is the principle. I deeply regret that that principle was not followed."
