Royal Welcome at Huntingdon Where Party Are Entertained at Dinner

Huntingdon, Pa., Sept. 28.—Governor Brumbaugh and party left here this morning on the last leg of their three days' farm tour of the state, the final journey of three which covered in all practically every agricultural community of importance in the commanwealth. Previous to leaving the automobilists inspected the Huntingdon Reformatory during the interval in which the Governor, who got up early for the purpose, drove over to Marklesburg to visit his aged father. To-day's trip will bring the automobilists to Harrisburg late this afternoon after numerous side journeys from the valley of the Juniata.

One of the notable events of yesterday was an old-fashioned cider feed at Maple Kroft, the country home of D. Shelley Kloss, the Tyrone banker, who served sweet cider and gingerbread when the party visited him. It was "community day" at Maple Kroft and the Governor's party was welcomed by Burgess Beaston, of Tyrone, who talked good roads and urged the completion of the William Penn Highway. The Governor and others of the party also spoke.

"No country can stand long if its agricultural assets are neglected," declared Governor Brumbaugh in an address before 1,500 persons who attended the Somerset county fair at Somerset. The Governor stopped at the fair grounds on the second day's trip and showed by figures that country folks are rapidly deserting their homes for the city life.

"In 1900," said the Governor, "60 per cent. of Pennsylvania's population was in the rural districts and 40 percent, in the cities. In 1910 the figures were reversed. The soil must be workel and I ask the country boys to marry country girls and stay on the farm for the life and success of the commonwealth."

The Governor and his party left Bedford yesterday morning and the visit to the Somerset fair was the first farm for the life and success of the commonwealth."

The Governor and his party left Bedford yesterday morning and the visit to the Somerset fair was the first official stop of the day. From Somerset the tour was continued to Ebensburg, where dinner was served by members of the Ladies' Industrial Society of the First Presbyterian Church. In the afternoon the party stopped in Holidaysburg and Altoona. From the Kloss farm the Governor's party came to Huntingdon and last night the Governor entertained his guests at a dinne rat Juniata College.

Following the dinner the Governor ittended a public meeting and he and Harry A. Mackey, chairman of the workmen's Compensation Board, made addresses.

and shouting in English they opened the door and called out: "We are all right if you will only get us some more juice so that the old girl can have a guzzle of her proper drink and we can take the road again."

So the infantry formed a line in front of the tank determined to defend her to the last man while a runner was hurried back for a can of gasoline. The gasoline arrived safely and the beast, having taking a swallow, ambled back into reserve amidst wild cheering. It left beind 250 dead Germans, according to its commander.

All Comforts of Home

Another tank which did well in this fight assisted in the taking of Thiepval. The cellar is still there, roofed by the remains of the dwelling, bricks, stone and mortar in a thick shell of pounded debris which protected it from penetration by even nine and twelve-inch high explosives. Here the Germans waited, smoking their mild cigars and drinking soda water which was brought up through shellproof underground tunnels while the ruins over their heads were belabored vainly by the British artiliery. They had the sense of security of an early Kansas settler when he went below and closed his cellar door during a cyclone. Of course they had anachine gun réady to welcome the British infantry instantly that the British bombardment stopped. When that gun began rattling Mr. Thomas Atkins took cover and tried ways of means of silencing it.

University Iraining Is Recognized

Two years ago, when the University of Pennsylvania, through the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce, decided to extend evening classes to Harrisburg, the business men of your city were generous in their support. Without their co-operation and the assistance of the School Board in extending the privilege of using the High School Building lege of using the High School Building, this school would not have been possible.

These business men are still interested. They realize that the ambitious young men of this school are some day to be the leaders of your city.

Speak to your employer about the value of this kind of training.

Classes held at the Technical High School. Session begins Monday evening, October 9th.

Call at the Chamber of Commerce any evening, except Saturday, and talk with a member of the faculty.
