

STATE TREASURY GAINS FOR MONEY

Powell Says Tax Settlements Far Over $5,000,000 Are on the Way

Auditor General Powell to-day reported to Governor Brumbaugh that during September the State Treasury gained $1,100,850.12 in the net general balance and that papers in tax cases carrying $5,449,618.61 were in process of settlement, the money from which would be received before long.

The September receipts at the Treasury were $2,868,295.26 and disbursements $1,767,445.14. The receipts were considerably ahead of those for July or August.

Nomination papers for Milton S. Jack and S. J. Scholer as candidates of the Local Option Party for the Legislature from Armstrong county were filed to-day.

A paper substituting Allen C. Shue as Prohibition candidate for the Legislature in the First York district was filed to-day at the Capitol.

Speaker Charles A. Ambler was among the visitors to Governor Brumbaugh to-day. He spent some time with him, but declared that he had not been talking politics. To visitors the Governor expressed himself as highly pleased with the results of his agricultural tours. The Governor left for Philadelphia to spend the week end and will speak in Scranton on Monday.

ECHO OF STRIKE IN TRIAL OF 'SYMPATHIZER'

By Blessing and Conductor Edward Seidel pulled into Market Square.

As Seidel stepped out of his car to post his packet of transfers Hissner, he said, swore at him and called him a "scab." Seidel replied that he was working at his job and that his business was his own, whereupon Hissner declared that if Seidel took off his cap "he'd knock his block off." Seidel called to Police Sergeant Frank Page and Hissner started to run. Blessing started after him and as he stretched out his hand to stop him, Hissner whirled about and struck the motorman with such force as to knock him to his knees. Police Sergeant Page and Police Chauffeur Demma corroborated this.

Hissner's Defense

Hissner's defense was that he had advised a friend about riding on a car manned by "scabs"; that Seidel resented this in an offensive way and then called the policeman. Hissner declared he didn't wish to have any trouble and wanted to stand where he did so, Blessing went after him with his fist upraised. He warned Blessing, he said, not to strike and dealt him the blow as the motorman persisted in the pursuit.

In submitting the case, Colonel Ott said he questioned whether there was a case of assault and battery and the prisoner evidently struck in his own defense.

"Why," said the court, "he has said himself that he struck the motorman."

When You Make a Hit

Newton A. Swails was convicted of aggravated assault and battery and in a cross-suit which he instituted against H. U. Barr, the jury returned a verdict of acquittal. The assault followed an altercation which occurred in the quarters of Redeker Briner's residence when Swails refused to leave the office at Briner's command. Swails, it appeared, was creating a disturbance and refused to leave. When Swails was on the stand the jury got some enlightening information as to whether or not one looks to see whether his blows land when he strikes in the heat of battle. Swails said he felt a blow over his own nose and then he struck.

"Maybe I hit him in the eye," said he. "I don't know. You never can tell, you know, where you hit when you land on a fellow."

Illegally Operates Motorcar

When court adjourned for the noon recess in Judge Kunkel's court, Alfred J. Lutz was on trial for operating W. H. Breneman's automobile without the owner's knowledge or permission.

Dr. Oliver E. Klugh will have to answer to a Dauphin county jury to a charge of performing a criminal operation. A true bill was found against him yesterday.

Murder Cases Before Grand Jury

With the convening of court this afternoon, the grand jury considered the bills against seven prisoners charged with murder. They are James White, Elwood Wilson, William Jackson, Vlada Yovonic, John O. Christley, Cornelius Shepperd and John Misko.

Among the cases ignored by the grand jury to-day were John C. Garsch, carrying concealed deadly weapons and William Cromer, false pretenses.

District Attorney Stroup said he expected to start the trial of Benjamin T. Gougler, charged with enticing a 14-year-old girl, before the afternoon adjournment.

Extensive Improvements to J. H. Troup Music House

Extensive improvements and additions have been completed at the J. H. Troup Music House, 15 South Market Square, to accommodate the increasing sale of records for phonographs. Four new record booths, sound proof, have been erected and furnished for the convenience and comfort of the patrons of the large store. Each of these is equipped with two large instruments of different manufacturing companies. There are now thirteen record booths in the store.

The entire first floor of the store has been redecorated in mahogany and white enameled wood and is lighted with shaded hanging lamps. Although various makes of pianos are on display on this floor, the second floor has been devoted largely to this department and also to the player-piano roll library.

The record library on the first floor has been enlarged and the management of the music house announces that a complete line of catalog numbers of the Edison, Victor and Columbia records are always carried in stock. The large display window at the front has been changed so that passers-by have a view of the complete length of the first floor of the store. One of the features of the present display is an arrangement of large portraits of great musicians, grouped in front of two of the best pianos on sale in the store.

The improvements completed at the music house place it among the foremost in the state for the convenience and service of its patrons. Hundreds of dollars were spent in making the improvements, which were necessary to handle increasing business.

SPECIAL TRAIN FOR ATHLETES

Pennsylvania Railroad athletes will hold final competition at Attona tomorrow for system honors in all sports. Special trains have been provided for the athletes, starting from Baltimore, Trenton, Philadelphia, Sunbury, Williamsport, Pittsburgh and Johnstown. Eastern trains will pass through Harrisburg early to-morrow morning. The big athletic program will open with a parade of 20,000 employes and athletes in the morning.

Where Is the School Bell That Used to Call For Study?

"Never 'mounted to a whole lot," an old mate remarks, "cept to bust up a game of baseball or fox."

But somehow that familiar alloy-iron clang still rings in our memory of the "first day" and how we looked forward to the morning.

Looked forward!—Yes, that is true to-day in a different sense. In this busy day we're preparing the young men and women; the small boys and girls with proper school apparel and equipment.

Our stocks are full and plenty, and our prices are low.
