Girls In The World of Business

Temptation exists mostly for the people who look for it or invite it: This is not the hard-hearted statement of one who falls to sympathize with this is not the hard-hearted statement of one who falls to sympathize with the process of the people who look for it or invite it: This is not the hard-hearted statement of one who falls to sympathize with the process is a generalization to which there are indeed exceptions.

All through the world, in every walk of life, there are unscrupulous and designing men. The girl who lives sheltered and protected in her own home meets with temptation. The girl who speed down to business meets it, too, it is true—the girl is unfortunate in the men with whom she comes in contact or assarophs.

There are plenty of men in the world who are beasts of prey rather than human beings. From them neither maid, wife nor widow is quite safe.

Eut the average man is a sane, decent person, with plenty of kindly instincts and a great deal of chivalry. Such a man respects mobody more than a self-respecting worlding girl who invites neither impudence nor familiarity. A good deal of the talk about the average employer, is hysterical and quite untrue.

The Proper Way

If the pirl who goes down to business goes clad in an armor of dignified ones to be misjudged, and the wickedness in the natures of some men which a dignified girl by meeting and meeting well may possibly be able to lessen in slight descree.

Doesn't she roll her big blue eyes at "the boss" when she wants to get a method to the principle of "live and let live," she is likely to get on famously and to find pretty girl rather than because she is a efficient worker?

If she does these things, is she justified in posing as a persecuted martyr when some man takes her at her own valuation and treats her as a forward to handle.

This is a little suit that is ideal for little boys. It consists of straight trousers with a simple blouse. This blouse may be left loose or worn with a belt and it is supplied with patch pockets, consequently, it is sure to be the child's delight. Appropriately, it would be made of any simple washable fabric and, here, linen is shown but the ginghams and percales and fabrics of such sort are in general use and chambray is much liked. Green chambray is pretty with white collar and cuffs scalloped with black.

OF THE TURKEY FLOCK

Efficiency Versus Neglect in Maintaining Health and Converting Them Into Fancy Stock

By MYRA KELSEY COX
Experienced Poultrywoman and Writer The importance of an early round-up in view of the Fall routine of fattening, impresses the turkey-raiser. Neglect subtracts from profits. The commonest perils to health lie in orchards and drainage ditches. Success with fancy stock means uninterrupted feeding. Small-boned breeds re a ch market conditions more promptly at cost of weight.

It is not so generally recognized, nevertheless a fact—that one of the crucial phases of the turkey's development begins in October. The climatic change is strenuous. At the same time Nature withdraws from them her abundant summer provision. To weather the change, they need renewed attention. Too many raisers linger in the lap of laxity and fail to provide for the increasing needs of the October flock. These are they who note with disappointment the tardy conditioning of their birds while energetic nelghbors are making an early market and pocketing the proceeds.
