

HAIR GRAY? THEN APPLY Q-BAN

It Darkens Gray Hair Evenly

Your hair is gray, streaked with gray, prematurely or just turning gray, or if your hair is dry, harsh, thin or falling, simply shampoo hair and scalp a few times with Q-Ban Hair Color Restorer. Soon every strand of hair (whether gray or not) becomes evenly dark, soft, glossy, fluffy, full of life and health, full and heavy and fascinating, and entire head of hair is so beautifully and evenly darkened no one could suspect you had applied Q-Ban. It is absolutely harmless and no dye. Q-Ban acts on roots, restoring color glands. Sold on a money-back guarantee, 50c for a big bottle, at Geo. A. Gorgas' drug store, Harrisburg, Pa. REVIEW OF MAJESTIC BILL

A Bill That Provides Lots of Entertainment; Good Singing and Acrobatics

The Majestic bill for the last three days of this week provides entertainment sufficient to keep the audience amused throughout.

Welton and Marshall, in a singing and dancing act open the performance. William and Mary Rogers follow with an amusing offering of jest and song.

The real bright spot on the bill, however, is Camille Personi and Company, in a comedy operetta entitled "Butterfly Love," the scene of which is laid in Japan. Exceptionally good singing on the part of the principal characters distinguishes this number. Fisher, Luckie and Gordon, a clever trio of comedians and songsters please their audience. An acrobatic act known as the Five Idnias concludes the show, which is perhaps, not quite up to the usual Majestic standard.

Wednesday, matinee and night, October 13—"The House of Glass."

Coming for two days, October 20 and 21—Lillian H. Howe's Travel Festival.

MAJESTIC—Vaudeville.

COLONIAL—"The Dawn Maker."

GRAND—"The Market of Vain Desire."

REGENT—"Little Lady Eileen."

VICTORIA—"The Combat."

It is a positive relief to welcome such a clean, wholesome remarkable play as "Peg o' My Heart," which is the Orpheum to-day and to-morrow, with daily matinees. If there is such a thing as a great play, it is "Peg o' My Heart," which was produced by Oliver Moroso, who produced it, and Hartley Manners, its author, should be looked upon here in the cause of advancement and elevation of the drama, "Peg" being one of the purest plays ever seen on our local stage.

"The House of Glass," which comes to the Orpheum, Wednesday, matinee evening, tells an absorbing story of big affairs and of a woman, gentle and true, whose great misfortunes only make her more kind and pitying toward others. Margaret Case, a young New York stenographer, about to marry a young man who turns out to be a thief, is arrested as an accomplice, convicted, and serves part of her term and then breaks the parole on which she is released. She goes West and there marries the man who has employed her as his stenographer. He is called to New York to occupy an important position as general manager of a railroad. His wife goes with him. The husband is striving to put behind the bars a boy who has robbed the railroad company. A detective comes to his house to talk over the boy's case, sees his wife, recognizes her as the quarry he has long been seeking. Her conduct betrays to her husband what has happened and she is released. In the meantime the Governor of the State arrives to ask Mr. Lake to drop the case of the young boy. Now the husband consents to discontinue all prosecution of the boy if the Governor will pardon his innocent wife, which request is granted. So ends the story.

Lillian H. Howe's Travel Festival, which comes to the Orpheum, Friday and Saturday, with daily matinees, is inimitable not only because of the scenes themselves, but also because of the way they are presented. Mr. Howe links the sense of sound with the sense of sight and the effect is so natural that the effect is hypnotic in its compelling power. Mr. Howe's new program includes medieval and modern Spain, far-off Hawaii, the United States Military Academy at West Point, and diversified activities by splendidly trained cadets, snow-bound Norway, the amusing pranks of a tiny baby, odd and amusing portraits of famous men, various specimens of birds and fish in their natural colors, new animated cartoons, and many others.

William S. Hart will give his many admirers an opportunity to study him as "The Dawn-maker" at the Colonial Theater, to-day and to-morrow. When he is presented by Thomas H. Ince as the star of an unusual Triangle-Kay play by C. Gardner Sullivan, titled "The Dawn Maker." The production has been heralded from the Ince studios as one of the most beautiful film dramas ever seen on the screen, and is being counted upon to win additional laurels for the already famous Hart, who is cast in the role of Joe Elk, the quarter-breed, who offers himself in sacrifice that a white girl and a man may go on together. It is the most sympathetic role of those thus far essayed by this actor. The Keystone players will win new laurels and add many laughs and thrills to the program with a new two-reel Keystone comedy called "The Danger Girl." Coming, Monday and Tuesday, Lillian Gish in "Diane of the Follies."

A remarkable program of photoplays have been arranged for the last two days of the week.

Regent Today "Little Lady Eileen," which was originally booked for last Monday and Tuesday, and which was lost in the express, will be shown to-day and to-morrow.

"Come in, dear, and meet your future husband." If you were a little girl, suddenly taken out of school, and your

First---An all wool fabric without the slightest adulteration of cotton.

Second---The highest standard of materials --- canvas, linings, interlinings, even down to such details as the thread and buttons.

Third---Good tailoring---and by that we mean a Spirit of genuineness, of intelligence, of right intention, the scores of minute operations which every garment represents.

All these the Kirschbaum label signifies and guarantees.

The role of Muriel Fleming in "The Combat," the Vitagraph Company's greatest play of the year, gives Anita Stewart, the best-loved actress on the screen, a single picture her extraordinary versatility. A terrific railroad wreck is another very important feature of this great picture. Here one sees an entire train plunge down into a valley, the cars catch fire and illuminate the dark night with their flames. To-morrow we shall present part two of that wonderful serial story, "The Shielding Shadow," featuring Grace Darmond and Ralph Kellard.

baritone, who will open the Keystone Concert series of concerts by famous artists at Chestnut Street Auditorium, next Monday evening, has announced that he will sing on that occasion three of the numbers that made him noted wherever the great songs of the world are known and loved.

One of these is the Prologue from Façliacci, which he will render as the fourth number on the program, and the other two, the "Largo al Factotum," from the Barber of Seville, and the Toreador from Carmen, which he will sing as solos.

The whole program is so varied and full of the kind of selections that only Amato knows how to sign that it promises to be one of the most delightful in the course and those who miss it will not soon again have opportunity of hearing this noted artist whose metropolitan engagements give him little time outside the very largest cities.

Amato will be assisted by David Hochstein, one of the best violinists in New York critics have heard in a long time, and who is due to become one of the foremost performers on that instrument in the world. Maurice Lafarge, who, as concertmaster of the Metropolitan Opera Company's orchestra, is known the world over, will be the accompanist for this occasion.

PENN STATE EXPERT SAYS TREE BORERS DAMAGE ORCHARDS

C. H. Hadley, in charge of entomology extension at the Pennsylvania State College school of Agriculture and experiment station, reports many apple and peach orchards in the State badly infested with borers. Mr. Hadley's recommendations for combating these insects are as follows:

Examine the trees at least twice a year, if borers are abundant—in the Spring during late May or early June, and late in the Fall. Use a sharp knife or a piece of soft copper wire barbed at the end. Remove the earth to the depth of four or five inches from the tree base. Large, conspicuous masses of gum at the base indicate the insect burrows. In some cases the insect burrows in the bark, especially in the Fall, the borers will be found just beneath the gummy mass and may be killed without further cutting or probing.

Borers may be killed in their burrows by inserting the wire as far in possible. Pieces of scrub caught on the barbed end of the wire will indicate that the wire has reached to the end of the burrow. It may be necessary to use a knife in following the burrow. If cutting is done carefully and pains are taken to follow the grain of the wood as much as possible, the wound will soon heal without injury to the tree. Wounds made in cutting may be painted over with a good grade of paint, but this is not necessary.

HOW TO GET RID OF WRINKLES

A Simple, Safe and Reliable Way, That Produces Marvelous Results Without Plasters, Face Steaming or Masks of Any Kind

Some women think that the use of an ordinary face cream is an aid to beauty, said a noted English Beauty Specialist, when, as a matter of fact, a great majority of the grease creams contain animal fats which are positively injurious to the skin. Greaseless creams, too, are even worse for they are generally made from steric acid, which dries, chaps and wrinkles the skin often making it loose and flabby. Creams of this kind drive the blood away from the surface of the skin, giving it a pale sallow look and often clogs the pores, producing pimples and blackheads. Every woman realizes these days that beauty is her greatest asset and that it is her duty to enhance it by every means at her command. She knows that beauty is her greatest asset and that it is her duty to enhance it by every means at her command. By Winifred Grace Forrest plained above, and this, after they had in some cases been treated by expensive Beauty Specialists without obtaining any benefit. Wrinkles even of long standing will often entirely disappear after a few nights' treatment. Many a woman has obtained high social position or secured advancement in business ahead of her unfortunate rival who did not understand the power of beauty.

Again, the woman who neglects herself must continually fight an unequal battle with her younger and better looking sister. A woman really stands in her own light when she fails to realize the advantage that beauty gives to the gentle sex. Beauty may be only skin deep, but the woman who has improved her complexion and kept her face fair and free from wrinkles by the use of Amonized cocoa has an attractive skin that suggests a refinement that makes her personal charms. Beauty is woman's birth-right and nature's greatest gift to enhance this charm is amonized cocoa.

Note:—Amonized cocoa recommended above by Winifred Grace Forrest, the noted English Beauty Specialist, is one of the older forms of cocoa cream. Unlike the modern products it is pleasant to use, has a soft, fragrant odor and is used almost exclusively for massage and facial treatment in the English Beauty Parlors. American women who are treated by Beauty Specialists should insist that no other emollient be used on their face for massage. Superfluous hair and ruined complexions too often result from the use of cheap massage creams. Amonized cocoa can always be obtained from any first class Drug-gist and is so easy to apply that the average woman has no need for the services of a Beauty Specialist.—Advertisement.
