WOODS NAMES MEN FOR DINNER PLAN

Pennsylvania's Society First Annual Dinner Will Be Notable State Affair

Plans for the first annual dinner of the Pennsylvania State Society composed of the heads of departments and commissions of legislators will be worked out in the next ten days and it is expected to make the dinner at Philadelphia on November 23 one of the most notable affairs of the kind ever held in the State.

Secretary of the Commonwealth, Cyrus E. Woods, president of the society, has appointed as members of the dinner committee Public Service Commissioner John S. Rilling, chairman; State Treasurer Robert K. Young; Lieutenant-Governor Frank E. McClain and Major John C. Groome, Superintendent of State Police. The president is ex-officio a member of the committee.

A number of men of national fame who are natives of Pennsylvania will be guests.

Governor Speaks.—Governor Brumbaugh spoke yesterday at the Geiger memorial service in the Church of the Brethren in Philadelphia yesterday. He has long been a close friend of the Geiger family.

O'Neill Follows Up.—Men who have filed with the State Department of Insurance making complaints which they merely want to bring to the attention of State officers and not to follow up themselves have found it is a pretty dangerous practice. Commissioner J. Dennis O'Neill said that complaints should be run down until the matter objected to is corrected or found not to be a complaint but mere opinion. He adopted this policy soon after taking office and discovered that often men wrote letters to the department because of a "grouch" against some one in the insurance business and the State was out time and expense in running them down.

Lately men writing to the Commissioner with complaints have been asked to follow them up by giving information so that if abuses are discovered they may be righted. In some instances hearings have resulted and people have been brought up with a sharp turn for practices which did not comport with State laws and regulations. However, there were some people who did not answer requests for further information once they had gotten in their complaints and they have been brought up with summons to appear before the Commissioner. It is getting to be dangerous to write complaints without pretty thorough preparation to see them through.

Paralysis Falling Off.—Infantile paralysis cases commencing to show a decline throughout the State and the daily reports from Philadelphia especially indicate that the outbreak is passing. Many of the cases now being reported from distant points, some being widely separated, it is believed when the outbreak is ended that seven-eighths of the county will show records of cases. The mortality will run about 25 per cent. according to present figures.

Board to Meet.—The State Board of Education will be called to meet in the next week to act on further agreements for acquisition of normal schools.

Board to Meet.—The regular meeting of the Board of Public Grounds and buildings, postponed from last week, will be held to-morrow. Matters relative to supplies and to the treatment of the Capitol Park extension zone will be taken up.

Big Increase.—Dillworth, Porter & Co., Inc., Pittsburgh, to-day filed notice of increase of stock from $20,000 to $2,000,000.

Capitol Notes.—State Commissioner of Health Dixon opened the quail hunt in Montgomery county to-day by indulging in a day's hunting. It was the first in seven years.

Governor Brumbaugh is expected to name the commissioners to take the vote of the troops of Lackawanna county in the next twenty-four hours. The Governor will make a speech at Chambersburg to-morrow.

Auditor General Powell returned to the Capitol to-day on a brief furlough from the Tenth regiment in order to act on some tax cases.

Public Service Work.—The Jitney applications from Lackawanna county to have been heard by the Public Service Commission to-day have been transferred to Scranton for November 8. The Commission heard a long list of applications to-day, including that of the Reading for more girders at the Rutherford subway. John P. Dooney, investigator of accidents for the Public Service Commission, presided to-day at a conference between Pennsylvania Railroad officials and the officers of the borough of East Lansdowne in an effort to obtain abolition of a grade crossing.

M'GINNES TALKS TO CIVIC CLUB

Tells Members of Influence of Outside Agencies in Educating the World

L. E. McGinnes, superintendent of the borough schools this afternoon addressed members of the Civic Club at its opening meeting in the Trinity parish house, Pine street. The subject of his talk was "Agencies Outside of School that Assist in Education of the Country."

The speaker took the unorganized and organized agencies as the high points of his subject. In the unorganized he included the world of nature; the world of art; the world of music; the world of reading, such as newspapers and books.

He classed the world of churches; the world of homes; the world of politics and the world of civic clubs and municipal leagues in the organized class. All these organizations are great stepping stones in educating the world, he said. He dwelled mostly upon the civic club organizations and their work. He pointed out in several instances just what the clubs have done and how much more they can accomplish.

WILSON ADMITS ERRING, T. R. SAYS

President Condemns Himself by His Own Words, Roosevelt Declares

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 16.—Theodore Roosevelt made an extended attack here Saturday night on President Wilson's course in the recent railroad crisis. He compared it with his own in the anthracite coal miners' strike. The former President asserted Mr. Wilson had permitted brute force to override the nation's life without sacrificing the principles of arbitration to expediency. He declared the President, by his own remarks, has admitted the error of his course.

Mr. Roosevelt reviewed his action in the great anthracite strike of 1902, where he forced settlement by arbitration, contrasting it with President Wilson's course on the trainmen's demand. Concerning the latter the Colonel said:

"Mr. Wilson himself admits that his own action was so bad that it ought never to be repeated, for he has assured the public that although Congress has adjourned without doing anything, it is his intention when Congress meets to see something to render it impossible for another President ever to repeat exactly what he has done."

Concerning the President's declaration that the people must say to any outside organization that it "must not interrupt the nation's life without consulting us," Colonel Roosevelt said:

"These are fine words about the future. They are intended to cover up, but as a matter of fact they furnish the strongest condemnation of Mr. Wilson's deed in the present. In these words Mr. Wilson exactly describes what he ought to have done with the brotherhoods, and explicitly condemns the action which he in fact took. If the principles he laid down were good for the future, they were good for the present. Do it now, Mr. Wilson! Do not use fine words about what somebody else ought to do in the future in order to cover your own shameful abandonment of duty in the present."
