Captain Stine, U. S. Recruiting Officer, Will Be in Charge; Quick Action Necessary to Get Results; Will Not Mean Heavy Tax Burden, Points Out Dr. Yates

Harrisburg's campaign for the proposed $1,250,000 new high school loan will be actually started at the meeting Friday when the School Board opens bids for furnishing the 20,000 explanatory and educational pamphlets for distribution among the people of the city. The leaflets will be prepared by J. Horace McFarland, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce high school committee and will be modeled largely on the lines of similar pamphlets that were distributed during the city's improvement loan crusade.

"Plain truths about the high school problem." or a similar slogan will be adopted by Mr. McFarland who will have charge of the publicity cam-paign. The Chamber of Commerce, the Ro-tary Club, the Clvic club and the strain to something like $100,000 and practically a full mill had been apprinted to the passage of the boan. Density of the passage of will help boost for the passage of the loan. Pupils to Parade A feature of the high school stu-dents' participation will be the pa-geant of Central and Technical pupils arranged for Saturday afternoon, No-vember 4. Captain H. M. Stine, Uncle Sam's recruiting officer in Capitol park, will be in charge of the parad-ers. Two bands will furnish the music and after the parade the students will go to the island where a football game will be in order. Election day, November 7, is only three weeks away and interested citi-zens believe quick action is necessary if the loan problem is to be put prop-erly before the people and to this end the Chamber of Commerce commit-tee is bending its efforts. Need For Quick Action Present plans of the school board provide that the new girls' high school together with the converted Technical high school be turned into a boys' in-stitution, by not later than 1919--fit the proposed loan measure goes If the people of the city decide to the proposed loan measure goes in the proposed loan measure goes in the people of the city decide to borrow the million and a quarter to prelieve the city's high school problem, then plans for immediate relief will be mapped out by erecting the proposed junior high school on Allison's Hill and for the remodeling of the Camp Curtin building for the same purpose. As soon as these structures are ready to accommodate the junior high school swill be relieved of just that many of its freshmen students. Naturally this will provide more room for more high school youngsters. Ready by 1919

Ready by 1919 Work could be started on the two junior high schools in the Spring or summer of 1917 so that these build-ings should be ready for occupancy by not later than September, 1918. The Hill school, of course, will be located at Chestnut and Nineteenth streets where the School Board already owns sufficient ground to alrow the erection of a suitable structure. In its wake, but the fame of a fair city has been tarnished beyond the power of words to describe. There must be no more temporizing. No more backing and filling over the cost; no more fear of political or personal conse-quences of drastic official action. If existing law is not sufficient let the emergency suggest the method and the procedure. We have been told for weeks that the trouble is not with the water—thank heaven for that!—but that this disease lurks in the ice cream and milk dispensed to a helpless community. the supply. The public, it was said yesterday, must realize that smaller newspapers are due. The situation has become so serious that a dozen different remedies have been advocated and adopted recently. Cutting down the size of the paper or the advertising is only one of these. Raising the price of the newspaper and watching to detect the smaller waste of space are other devices adopted. A Gordon McIntyre, a retired official of the Canadian Pulp and Paper As-sociation and an authority in the paper trade, has been chosen by the American Newspaper Publishers' Association to start a new department. He will con-fer with the publishers and act as their representative in negotinitions with the paper manufacturers. To some of those in the newspaper publishers' ranks it looks as though the country dailes and weeklies, which cannot or will not contract for their print paper in quantity, will be forced to sus-pend.

COTTON TAKES BIG JUMP

COTTON TAKES BIG JUMP New Orleans, Oct. 18. — The most sensational advance of this extra-ordinary season in cotton ocurred around the opening of the market to-day as the result of the rumor that the tropical hurricane had struck the cotton region near Mobile. Prices were lifted 65 to 89 points, nearly $4.50 a bale on the strongest months. The July option went to 19.17 cents a pound, the highest price ever record-ed on the local future contract boards.
