THURSDAY EVENING, OCT. 19.

The foolish fears of what may happen - I cast them all away

OUR RIVER FRONT

ALEXANDER STUART, vice-president of the American Park Superintendents' Association

That is true. We have laid the foundations for a splendid park along the river, but because Park Commissioner Gross failed to insist, when the budget was being made up last Spring

If you asked you would be told, probably, that there was no money with which to do this work, that the appropriation was too small

But present conditions do not affect the future. Each year brings new opportunities. Mr. Stuart advises that we concentrate on the River Front and that we "do that job well"

Why doesn't the President go over to Bayonne and enact an Adamson law for the oil company strikers?

WATER SUPPLY PURE

OUR water supply is pure. The State Health Department chemists have analyzed it both before it entered the reservoir and from samples taken at spigots in private houses

Harrisburg spent hundreds of thousands of dollars some years ago in filtration experiments and built what has been regarded as a model filter plant

when it passes the filters that cost so much, but that the mains and reservoirs are also free from disease germs

The straw vote is almost as great a nuisance as the hay fever.

OUR BUSIEST HOLIDAY SEASON

OUTLOOK is bright for the busiest holiday season Harrisburg storekeepers have ever known

MILK PRICES

THE quality of milk and the price of milk are factors in the economics of every household

But in considering prices they must not think in terms of "all that the market will bear"

But in considering prices they must not think in terms of "all that the market will bear"

The latest development in Philadelphia politics is an attack by Senator R. V. Farley upon the residence of David Martin, who is a candidate for the Senate

Some advance in price may be necessary, but to assess Harrisburg as much for milk produced at its doors as Philadelphia pays for milk shipped from points one hundred to two hundred miles distant would be unjust on the face of it

There is one sure way of avoiding typhoid—Don't eat or drink anything that can possibly have the germs in it

"Wilson, Maker of History" is the title of a Democratic pamphlet, but Napoleon was also a maker of history

The Days of Real Sport

By BRIGGS

Evening Chat

A distressing symptom of what may be considered the tendency of the times to disregard the traditions of our ancestors is observable in Harrisburg's "quick lunch" restaurants

There is a limit however beyond which it is not wise to go. Let the proprietors of these pay-for-each-mouthful as it enters resists beware

According to people from the Shenandoah valleys, who have been here the last few days are apples growing to waste in some sections and growers, unable to get the fruit shipped

Word has been given out that the State Educational Association here in December will convene in this city

Governor Brumbaugh has attracted attention by a remark he made in Philadelphia for a day or two ago in an address at the Gelmer memorial service

The other man stood off and looked at him. Then he snorted—"I'll hold that too, and a reputation—until to-day"

WELL KNOWN PEOPLE

R. E. Lewis, one of the superintendents at Bethlehem, has been elected a director of Bethlehem Steel

Randal Morgan, prominent Philadelphia health chief, does not take much stock in some of the discoveries being made by Western physicians in infantile paralysis

DO YOU KNOW

That Harrisburg ships typewriting machines to fifteen different countries?

HARRISBURG HISTORIC HARRISBURG Harrisburg's graveyard in Mulberry street near Front in this long ago. Union Station stands on the site of another graveyard

WHAT THE ROTARY CLUB LEARNED OF THE CITY

What inspection a made of poles in the streets and for what purpose and the tax charged?

Americanism

The administration's defenders are insisting that the election of Hughes would mean war. From the record of Hughes as Governor of New York it would not mean war

Politics in Pennsylvania

By the Ex-Corruptee

Republican state candidates, who are touring the northwestern and northern counties this week, are meeting with big crowds in almost every town and are finding an abundant sentiment in favor of Hughes and the election of Republican congressmen

The withdrawal of Washington party legislative candidates is general all over the state and there is much pain caused thereby to the Democratic schemers

President Wilson will be here this evening and will follow the example of Mr. Hughes and speak from Union Station plaza

George Ellis, of Pottsville, substituted for the Twelfth district Democratic elector, has been active in politics in that county for years

The following dispatch from Chicago shows an opinion of the western situation by one who is accustomed to observing conditions: "Congressman J. Hampton Moore, of Philadelphia, a member of the ways and means committee, who spent the whole of last week in Ohio stumping for the Republican national ticket, conferred with the western headquarters in this city today and then left for the Cham-paign district of Illinois where he is to speak in the interest of Congressman William B. McKinley, former chairman of the national congressional committee"

There is, of course, particular interest in the question of suffrage. Women in the so-called suffrage States are not only intent upon the exercise of the rights accorded them but are deeply solicitous for the enfranchisement of the women of the other States

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Perhaps Japan's assurances of the integrity of China may be due to her determination to swallow it whole—Pittsburgh Dispatch

Look at those Transylvania names and then tell us why the Simplified Spelling Board picked on the United States—Indianapolis Star

Our River Front Steps

[Star-Independent]

We do not know who is responsible for the unclean and untidy appearance of the cement approach to the river bank, jocularly alluded to as "the steps of Harrisburg"

It is said that some of the city authorities, when their attention was called to conditions, endeavored to secure hose from one of the city fire houses to use for conveying water to clean the "steps"

If the city can use anything in its possession to clean the concrete esplanade, then it ought to do so, and in haste, for conditions along the River Front are as clean as a whistle

Hughes on Woman Suffrage

Charles Evans Hughes, Republican candidate for President, has written an article for the November Woman's Suffrage campaign in which he says: "In my trips across the continent nothing was more clearly manifested than the intense interest of women in the political questions of the day"

There is, of course, particular interest in the question of suffrage. Women in the so-called suffrage States are not only intent upon the exercise of the rights accorded them but are deeply solicitous for the enfranchisement of the women of the other States

"Man of Action" [Kansas City Star]

Regarding Mr. Ray Stannard Baker's very interesting article in defense of the Wilson administration, printed in The Star yesterday, two things were pointed out:

The "twenty years of talk" to which Mr. Baker refers with scorn in contrast to the "action" which has succeeded them, made possible any action at all

On the most vital problems pressing the country the administration had been busy pushing back the clouds, only to see them constantly return

"Sleepy Steve, the Stealthy Sleuth" or "No Mother to Guide Her"

By Max Robertson, III

CHAPTER 65

As the aeroplane rose from earth the savage cannibals who had surrounded it uttered shrill cries of disappointment

Within a few hours the aeroplane had sighted the coast of Harrisburg, and with a quick turn of the wrist Stealthy Steve had lowered his elevators and the machine came swooping down on the fair bosom of the municipal wharf boat

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

RAILROADER ON ADAMSON LAW

To the Editor of The Telegraph: Am a railroad employe, not directly affected by President Wilson's eight-hour law, but interested in its application, insofar as it concerns my fellow employes

Justice Hughes places himself on record as favoring an eight-hour law for all classes of labor, instead of certain bodies, so strongly organized as to be able to wield a "big stick" to get what they want

FATE'S AGAINST ME

By Wing Dinger

Of the many, many mean things which all mankind is cursed with there was one took place this morning

I looked upward toward the ceiling. Saw a long and narrow streak. And it quickly dawned upon me. In the roof there was a leak.

Our Daily Laugh

A GREAT ORATOR.

Are you a good extemporaneous speaker? Positively I never remember a thing I want to say when I get before an audience.

TRUE TO FORM

I hear your friend Brown was injured while speeding in his automobile. Yes, but the doctor thinks he'll make a speedy recovery. No doubt of it. He always was a fast young man.
