Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her.

West Danby, N. Y.—"I have had nervous trouble all my life until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for nerves and for female troubles and it straightened me out in good shape. I work nearly all the time, as we live on a farm and I have four girls. I do all my sewing and other work with their help, so it shows that I stand it real well. I took the Compound when my ten year old daughter came and it helped me a lot. I have also had my oldest girl take it and it did her lots of good. I keep it in the house all the time and recommend it."—Mrs. DEWITT SNICEBAUGH, West Danby, N. Y.

Sleeplessness, nervousness, irritability, backache, headaches, dragging sensations, all point to female derangements which may be overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from native roots and herbs, has for forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

HOW GRANDMA CURES A COLD

Coughs and colds, no matter how slight they may seem, are dangerous things. Any physician will tell you so.

Nowadays folks aggravate a cough or cold either by neglecting it or using dangerous patented medicines which bring false relief by deadening the nerves of the nose and throat. Then they wonder why they get the grippe, bronchitis and even pneumonia.

But Grandma knows that nothing will cure a cough or cold that does not go direct to the cause of these dangerous afflictions. That's why she turns a deaf ear to patented nostrums and relies only on the 50-year-old prescription she has always used. It is called Wonderoll and it hasn't failed her yet.

Wonderoll wipes out every symptom of cold so quickly that you almost think it is done by magic. Wonderoll is made from an old recipe that has been handed down through several generations. You can get the genuine Wonderoll in Harrisburg from George A. Gorgas or any other good druggist. Keep some in the house all the time. Grandma does and she knows.—Advertisement.

PAUL'S PREACHING WAS SENSATIONAL

Minister Should Be Most Generally-Discussed Man in Town

(By William T. Ellis)

THE ORATOR AND THE KING

Oriental pomp and pageantry confront the Sunday schools as they enter the great audience hall of Governor Festus, on the special occasion of a formal appearance of King Herod Agrippa II and his wife Bernice, who was also his full sister. Lovers of show and state were all the Herods—they gave more heed to the outward form than the inner integrities. They were courtiers alike of the Jews and of Rome, cloaking their selfish ambitions and unscrupulous intrigues beneath an appearance of Jewish orthodoxy. The sumptuously robed monarch, and his beautiful wife, blazoning with jewels of state, looked the part of Romans rather than Jews. It was such occasions of ceremony as this, when all the lick-spittle officialdom of Caesarea did obeisance to them, that stirred the jaded Herod blood.

Did the proud king and his wife recall, as they confronted the manacled prisoner who had been brought before them to gratify their curiosity, that it was in this very city that their father, Herod Agrippa I, who had slain the Apostle James with the sword, had died a horrible death, smitten in his pride as he paraded himself a god? And did their thoughts go back to their great-grandfather, Herod the Great, who had vainly sought to stay in childhood the infant Jesus, after whom all these Christians were named? A sort of dire judgment seemed to attend the contact of the Herods with all who were associated with this new religion. Did Agrippa and Bernice recall their great uncle Herod Antipas who had slain John the Baptist, at the behest of a dancing girl? The king and queen were not without imagination, and their facing of the foremost Christian of the day did not leave them wholly comfortable, even if he were but a prisoner, with fetters on his wrist and ankles.

Little would the world-to-day know or care about the whole tribe of Herods, were it not for their connection with Christian history. Gone is Caesarea, the scene of the stately Herods in triumph. The allied warships that patrol the coast of Palestine to-day waste never a shot upon it. Gone, too, is Rome, with all her might, while the messages of Paul, and the spiritual forces which he represented, are daily increasing their sway around the world. "The world passeth away, and the lust thereof; but he that doeth the will of God abideth forever."

The Preacher as a Sensation

Those jaded Jewish-Roman potentates, who sought a new sensation by hearing Paul, have their counterparts in modern society leaders who lionize evangelists. "Billy" Sunday's oration in Washington, at the hands of political and social leaders, rather brings the matter down to date. Thank God for the men who have made the gospel a sensation; who have set citizens by the ears; who like Savonarola, have been preachers of righteousness to entire communities. The preacher should be the most generally-discussed man in town. His words should set the people talking about the truth he preaches. But woe unto him if he yield to the temptation to be a mere entertainer, a seeker after notoriety and social position. If we have one gospel for the rich and another for the poor; if he be afraid to speak in Dame Society's parlor the message he delivers in the rescue mission, then he is an unworthy wearer of the name of the minister of the gospel.

This man Paul never swerved or hesitated or compromised when he stood before King Agrippa. His oration was almost the high-water mark of his recorded utterances. Essentially though it was the same old speech that he had been delivering up and down the land. Because it is a great and classic utterance, more impressive than any comments upon it, the address is quoted in full:

A Famous Oration

So Paul with outstretched arm proceeded to make his defense. "The kind of life I have lived from my youth upwards, as exemplified in my early days among my nation and in Jerusalem, is known to all the Jews. For they all know me of old; if they would testify to the fact—how being an inherent of the strictest sect of our religion, my life was that of a Pharisee. And now I stand here impeached because I profess the high-water mark of the promise of God to our forefathers—the promise which our twelve tribes, worshipping day and night with intense devotedness, hope to have made good in us. It is on the subject of this hope, Sir, that I am accused by the Jews. Why is it deemed with all of you a thing past belief if God raises the dead to life?"

"I myself, however, thought it a duty to do many things in hostility to the name of Jesus, the Nazarene. And that was how I acted in Jerusalem. Armed with authority received from the High Priests I shut up many of God's people in various prisons and when they were about to be put to death I gave my vote against them. In all the synagogues also I punished them many a time, and tried to make them blasphemous; and in my wild fury I chased them even to foreign towns."

"While thus engaged I was traveling one day to Damascus armed with authority and commission from the High Priests, and on the journey at noon Sir, I saw a light from Heaven—brighter than the brightness of the sun shining around me; and around those who were traveling with me. We all fell to the ground; and I heard a voice which said to me in Hebrew, "Saul, Saul, why are you persecuting Me? You are finding it painful to kick against the ox-goad."

ANAEMIC PEOPLE

Need More Iron in the Blood

If you are anaemic, you need more iron in your blood, and the tell-tale symptoms are pale face, colorless lips, ahen finger nails, poor circulation and short breath, and more serious diseases are easily contracted when in this condition.

Mr. W. H. Hodges, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "I suffered from the effects of bad blood, was run-down, dizzy, had headaches and did not feel like working. I had tried Beef, Iron and Serravallo's Tonic, but they did me no good. Wine without any help. After taking Vinol four days I noticed an improvement and its continued use built up my blood and my bad feelings disappeared like magic."

The bad effects of poor, devitalized blood cannot be overestimated, and it is the beef and cod liver peptonates, iron and manganese peptonates and glycerophosphates contained in Vinol that enriches the blood, improves the circulation, and in this natural manner builds up health and strength. Try it on our guarantee.

made direct address to King Agrippa. He saw him as a possible convert. True, the king like many other self-inflated notables since, supposed that he was above the claims of religion. He might give his august approval to Christianity; but as for discipleship—[laugh] Did Paul think that he could become one of the despised sect? With amused disdain he interrupted the address, not confessing that he was "almost persuaded," as the old version has it, but, as the American revision translates it, "With but little persuasion thou wouldstst faint make me a Christian." The idea is preposterous! The fellow thinks that, with a few words, he could induce a Herod to follow a Nazarene. There was a rebuke in the royal answer. Did it abash Paul?

If Pieces Were Changed

Not for an instant. That ready orator made instant and eloquent reply. "I would to God, that whether with little or much, not only thou, but also all that hear me this day, might become such as I am, except these bonds." What an admixture of sublime passion with exquisite courtesy! Paul wished his best for even his enemy—but not his bonds. The scene recalls his own words to Timothy, "But the word of God is not bound." The disciple might be fettered, but his message had free course.

Come to think of it that was an extraordinary wish of Paul's for the king. The unaffected audacity of it is staggering. It implied the prisoner's moral superiority to the monarch. The Christian state is more than royal. All the attributes of worldly wisdom and power and position are less desirable than the qualities of a Christian. Stupendous as was the proposition made by Paul, history has vindicated it fully.

An acid test was this which the prisoner replied, "Dare we wish for our friends no better boon than that they become as we are. Would it solve the world's problems if all men were to become like unto us?"

"What kind of church would my church be, if all its members were just like me?"

The implication of Paul's statement is that every witness to the Gospel should testify first by his own life. Paul lived, and so he was qualified to stand before kings and preach.
