WANTS PLAYERS TO GET MONEY

Garry Herrmann Talks on World's Series Cash Divisions

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 20.—Various baseball men, ranging from league presidents and club owners down to plain fans, have been sticking in their various oars for about a week now telling what should be done about the world's series. All seem agreed that something must be done. They say the lure of the world's series coin has driven players and managers to money madness and that unless the method of conducting the series is changed there will be a big scandal in baseball before long.

Garry Herrmann, chairman of the national commission and president of the Reds, is one of those who favor a new deal in connection with the series, and his plans are different from those other baseball men have expressed.

Herrmann Talks

"I don't know what will be done about the series—the next one is too far away," he said. "But if I had my way about it I would fix it so that every ball player in each major league would share in the world's series spoils instead of giving all the money to the players on the pennant-winning team."

"I first would increase the series from seven to nine games and allow the players to share in the receipts of the first five games.

"Next I would guarantee the players on the winning club about $1,500 each, with $1,000 each going to the members of the losing team. That, I believe, is sufficient reward for the few games they play."

"I believe that we then would have enough money left in the players' pool to give each player of the second place club $500.

"Grading down, we could give each third place player $400, each fourth place man $300, fifth place $250, sixth place $200, seventh place $150 and eighth place $100. This schedule might be subject to revision, but I believe the various sums would approximate about these amounts."

Incentive to Players

"By distributing this annual reward we would create an incentive for all the players to try to finish as high as possible, as each position attained would mean extra money."

"All of the club owners of both leagues now share in the world series, so why shouldn't all of the players?"

"Twenty-five per cent. of the money earned on the series by each club owner is turned over to his league and this reduces each club's assessment."

"I also believe that by stretching the series out to nine games we could reduce the admission prices."

AMERICAN LEADS IN ALL BASEBALL

Minor Races Close; Furnish Many Thrills on Wind-up; Two Seasons Popular

New York, Oct. 20.—The close of the baseball season of 1916 found the American League pre-eminent, due to its victories in the world's series and the two city series which composed the post-season schedule of the baseball year. Of the six teams which figured in these contests the junior league trio won twelve of the fourteen games played.

The Boston Americans defeated the Brooklyn Nationals four out of five games; the St. Louis Americans won in a similar manner from their National rivals, and the Chicago Americans took four straight from the Chicago Nationals. This playing form was a sharp reversal from the result of the Spring series, when the National League clubs won twenty-four games out of the thirty-nine inter-league contests played just previous to the opening of the two major league pennant races.

Minor Races Close

In the minor leagues the majority of the flag struggles were reasonably close and there were less financial difficulties and disrupting of leagues than was the case a year ago. Among the circuits that confined their schedules to one season the winning club of the Eastern League showed the highest percentage when New London finished with 86 games won and 34 lost for a total of 120.

More leagues than usual divided their seasons into two parts and in some cases the winner of the first portion of the season met the victor of the second half in a play-off for the championship of the league. This system found considerable favor with the fans and is likely to be adopted more generally next summer.

The final standing of the various clubs and leagues, both in the post-season and regular pennant races, is shown in the appended tables:

World's Series
Won.	Lost.	P. C.
Boston Americans	4	1 .800
Brooklyn Nationals	1	4 .200
City Series
Chicago Americans	4	0 1.000
Chicago Nationals	0	4 .000
St. Louis Americans	4	1 .800
St. Louis Nationals	1	4 .200
Spring Games
National League teams	24	15 .615
American League teams	15	24 .385

PITT READY FOR SYRACUSE

Pittsburgh, Oct. 20.—Pitched into a series of games with powerful opponents, with only one lighter event preceding, the Pitt football team is playing probably the hardest schedule set before any college eleven in the country this year. Last Saturday Warner's men traveled to Annapolis and fought it out with the rejuvenated Midgies; tomorrow they face, in the Syracuse bowl, the big Orange team; a week hence comes the biggest game of the year from the local standpoint, when Bob Folwell's team carries the colors of Pennsylvania on Forbes Field. If the wily coach can lead his men through this program without defeat and still manage to face the challenges against Washington and Jefferson, Carnegie Tech. and Penn State, he should be credited with a marvelous achievement.

WELLY'S CORNER

Football, according to local enthusiasts, gets its real start to-morrow when Tech meets Steelton. The Coach Taggart bunch will have an advantage in the first game in being at home. No one predicts a one-sided score. Steelton eleven has been showing even better form than one year ago. Tech will not go into the game looking for something easy.

Central High eleven is booked for a real exhibition of football to-morrow. No matter what conditions may be with the Stevens Trade School team, the plays will be to make as many points as is possible. If the Trade school proves easy in the first half Coaches Smith and Harris may send in substitutes for the last half. This will be due to the fact that next week Central meets Steelton and it is the desire to keep the players from the injured list. It is the general belief that players are more likely to get injuries when opposition is weak than in a hard battle.

Former football stars got into a game yesterday. The Marshalls battled with the Harris eleven. It was a scoreless game but the work of each individual showed that football knowledge is not all with scholastic and collegiate players. These boys have been in the game and some are still playing, and they do fine work.

"BEAT STEELTON" IS TECH SLOGAN

First Battle in Triangular Series Takes Place Tomorrow on Cottage Hill Field

"Beat Steelton" was the slogan adopted at Tech this morning at the final mass meeting held prior to the game to be played at that place by the Maroon to-morrow by the Maroon football eleven. The entire student body gathered in the school auditorium at twenty minutes before nine and practiced the yells and songs to be used at Steelton.

Cheer Leader Smith and his assistants had charge of the meeting, and more "pep" and enthusiasm was seen at the gathering than any similar meeting held in the last several years.

Tech in Good Shape
Coaches Pendergast and Miller have the Maroon warriors primed for the conflict, and while the local aggregation is not expecting an easy contest they will enter the game with their strongest line-up, and roll up as big a score as possible.

There will be practically no changes in the line-up. The same players will be in the game at the start who have been in the Lebanon and Easton games. Fresh players will be rushed in, as the contest advances.

PRACTICE DURING RAIN FALL

Annville, Pa., Oct. 20.—Lebanon Valley held practice last night in a downpour of rain. Since the injury of ex-Captain Swartz on Wednesday night, Coach Guyer was afraid to take a chance on scrimmages so the practice consisted in a long signal drill. On examination the doctors found that Swartz was suffering from a badly torn ligament and would be out of the game for several weeks and possibly the remainder of the season. With him out of the game the chances at Lehigh to-morrow are lessened.

ROSE WILBER IN "THE SIMP" AT THE ORPHEUM MONDAY EVENING

Local theatergoers are fortunate to be able to see a new play before it heats its New York run. "The Simp," which is booked for Broadway, comes to the Orpheum Monday evening with a cast of New York favorites. If you like to laugh, if you are interested in seeing how a fellow is finally convinced that his ideal of womankind was an illusion, if you care to discover how a woman can show a man how to succeed in a big business deal, if you are at all attracted by laughter and love, then by all means see "The Simp," a comedy that has more in it than any play in many a day.

JOVIAN MASQUERS CAPER IN PARADE

Electrical League Will Turn Out in Jolly Body For Hallowe'en, Oct. 31

Jovians of Harrisburg will be among the hundreds of masked marchers who will caper in the fantastic parade now being arranged for the city-wide observance of "Hallowe'en," Tuesday, October 31.

The fantastic parade and big open-air dance on Market Square had been originally planned as the closing Fall opening campaign, but a sudden rain storm on the night set apart for the celebration, threw a mighty wet curtain over the city and plans. Consequently the committee headed by P. H. Bailey, postponed the affair until Hallowe'en.

HIS PHONE MARRIAGE TO COUSIN HELD VALID

Anniston, Ala., Oct. 20.—Any objection that might have been made to the marriage of the Rev. Z. T. McCann, pastor of the Marvin Memorial Methodist Church in St. Louis, to Miss Carrie McCann, of Oxford, over the long distance telephone, which prohibits the marrying of first cousins, is said to have been dismissed.

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATERS

It's a cheerful thought, on your way home through the storm and sleet, to know that a Perfection Oil Heater is waiting to warm you up in a jiffy. You've been shopping, attending the matinee, or making an evening call. The furnace fire will be low. It would take a half hour to make even one room comfortable, but the radiant glow of your Perfection Oil Heater will make things snug and cozy in a few minutes. That's real comfort.

There will be no smoke, soot or the slightest unpleasant odor. The Perfection Oil Heater burns kerosene, the most economical of fuels, but gives the best results when Atlantic Rayolight Oil is used.

ATLANTIC Rayolight OIL

is so highly refined and perfectly purified that it gives a clear, mellow light without smelting, smoking or charring the wick. Costs no more than the ordinary kind. Ask for it by name.

Any dealer will be glad to show you Perfection Oil Heaters—priced $3.50 to $5.00. A large gallon tank makes constant refilling unnecessary.
