

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK, CROSS, FEVERISH

Hurry, Mother! Remove poisons from little stomach, liver, bowels.

Give "California Syrup of Figs" at once if bilious or constipated.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without straining, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative," they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle.

Refuse any other kind with contempt.

Who Knows This Man?

FLORIDA "BY SEA" Baltimore to JACKSONVILLE (Calling at Savannah) Delightful Sail

Mary Roberts Rinehart's Thrilling Mystery of "The Curve of the Catenary"

"If I was called," he said, "I had the outfit—professional dancer, and so on. But I wasn't called."

He walked straight to the women's dressingroom. Can you beat it? Sis turned and came back from the window.

"How did your brother get the—foot?" she asked curiously. He turned a bit surly at that.

Evidently Martin's part still rankled. "He was always hanging around," he said bitterly. "He was in my room when I got back to the hotel."

He never trusted me. He was full of the story of the fellow on the taxicab, and I suppose my face told him something. He took it away with him?"

"Yes." "And the bracelet?" "It fell out. He never saw it. I kept it in my pocket."

He gave it to Lottie. He was mad about her. And she had worn it, although he had told her not to.

Cherchez la femme! We went for Martin soon after that. My throat was hammering like a riveting machine by that time, with my head running at a close second.

Anderson is at the front in Planders, driving a biplane, and Martin is there, too, running an ambulance.

He hit on a locker at the Country Club. The lockers are only closed with wire netting doors.

But he had the suitcase on his hands. Maybe you think it is easy in an apartment house to get rid of an incriminating suitcase.

Why Martin took the blame as he did puzzled us a lot. But Sis says—and as I've said before, she doesn't reason, she feels—that when Anderson's successor arrived he probably left town, or pretended to.

When I got up to the house on the hill. The old man is inventing a new sort of shrapnel, and we spend hours arguing about it.

"I don't know that I ought to think about a grape vine before, unless that it produced something whose ultimate destination was a bottle."

Hazel is not in the office. Her father has a pen and somebody died and left them enough to live on.

"I don't think you play very much now." "By George, when I got to thinking about it, I didn't."

"When did you hear from Martin?" I said, in an offhand way. She'd never known the story, as I've said, and I know he wrote to her now and then.

Why Is the Old-Fashioned Telephone Like the Market Street Subway?

Because You Can Never "Get Through" When You Want To!

More than once you have been the victim of a jam in the Market Street Subway. You have missed a train, been late for an important engagement, or found dinner grown cold because of a traffic tie-up such as pictured.

Just so with the old-fashioned telephone! When you are in the biggest hurry to get your party you must patiently "wait in line" for the operator to handle your call because of congestion on the exchange.

It's not the fault of the operator; it's the fault of the system. You Go "Straight Through" When You Use the Automatic

It is just as if you had your own private subway to the place you want to go when you use the AUTOMATIC telephone. There are no jams.

You do not have to "line up" with the crowd. A mere twist of the wrist with the AUTOMATIC dial and in six seconds you have your party.

Not one operator to hundreds of calls, but an individual operator for each and every call. Drop into the AUTOMATIC exhibit to-day and you will need no further proof that here at last is real telephone service for your home or business.

WHY LET PIMPLES DISFIGURE YOU

Let Miss Shapley Tell How She Got Rid of Them.

"My trouble first began with small pimples which looked like blackheads. Later they became large, and looked awfully blue, and they festered and came to a head and then scaled over, and my entire face became covered."

They tortured me dreadfully at night, and they itched and when I would scratch, they burned something terrible. My skin became inflamed, and my face was a sight.

"I had the trouble five months before using Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I had only used two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment when I was completely healed."

For Trial Free by Return Mail address post-card: "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston." Sold throughout the world.
