High Price of Coke Due Wholly to Car Shortage

Pittsburgh, Oct. 27.—W. K. Field, president of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, declared to-day that $5 coal and $8 coke was due almost entirely to the car shortage. While there is a scarcity of miners, he said, there are enough to operate the mines of the Pittsburgh district to 80 per cent. of their rated capacity, but they are in reality operating less than 50 per cent. because it is impossible to obtain cars. Ore shippers, continued Mr. Field, send iron ore into the Pittsburgh district in hopper cars, and as soon as the ore is unloaded the hopper openings are covered with heavy planking and the cars use to ship finished steel products instead of being sent to the Northwest and West with coal. Coal mines never have any incoming freight and have to depend on the car supply as it is doled out to them.

Other operators were equally emphatic, saying they could take care of almost double their present coal and coke tonnage if they had the cars, and consequently prices would not be so high. Even at the prevailing prices very little free coal and coke is available, producers devoting their entire energies to filling contracts taken at about one-half the prices now quoted in the open market.

In Future Craft Heavier—Than-Air Will Be Airplanes

Washington, Oct. 27.—The name aeroplane to designate heavier than air craft has been discarded officially by the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics. In a report issued to-day on "nomenclature of aeronautics" the name airplane is substituted for any "form of aircraft heavier than air which has wing surfaces for sustentation, with stabilizing surfaces, rudders, for steering and power plant for propulsion through the air. The landing gear may be suited for either land or water use."

An introduction to the report says it is issued to eliminate duplications and erroneous use of aeronautical terms. Only new terms, peculiar to aeronautics, are defined in the appended list of 142 words and phrases. Examination of the preferred terms shown, indicates that an effort has been made to eliminate also all foreign words which have come into use through the developments of aircraft. Most of these are French. Very few such words have been retained, however, even such terms as "volplane" being discarded in favor of glide and vol-pique rejected for nose-dive. One French term retained is "abre," which is defined as meaning the flying attitude of a machine which travels "down by the stern" when in the air.

RAID WARNING KEPT SECRET BY BAKER

be put upon my statement. The statement was without political purpose and ought to be without political effect. It will have served its entire purpose if it serves to imply that the lawless people in Mexico who have been warned and are prepared."
 Secretary Baker declared it was "absurd to suppose that his statement had been intended to imply that my political interest in the United States desired anything other than peace on the border."
 "Such a thing could not be," he said.
 Asked just what interests he charged were behind the movement, Secretary Baker dictated this statement: "The Mexicans who oppose the de facto government in Mexico would, of course, be glad to complicate relations between the United States and Mexico and our information is that they think this an appropriate time to do so. The statement made last night by the department ought to discourage any advance on their part in that direction."
 "Everybody knows that many Mexicans in this country are constantly agitating against the de facto government. Any sympathy there may be on the American side of the border with the movement is wholly from this source."
 "The only possible suggestion of a political purpose (in the war department's statement) is to prevent people in Mexico from creating a disturbance of a political character in furtherance of their own design."
 Part of the information which led to his statement, the secretary said, reached him yesterday afternoon with in a few minutes of the time he left to deliver a campaign speech in West Virginia. Mr. Baker, it was learned, took his advice up with Secretary Lansing and the latter is said to have advised that there be no delay in making public the substance of the information. Secretary Lansing views the information, although somewhat indefinite as to individuals, as showing a dangerous situation along the border.

 Publication of the fact that the government has taken steps to checkmate such a movement, he believes, goes far toward preventing an attack either upon a border town or upon General Pershing's forces.

Secretary Baker indicated that no immediate movement of General Pershing's columns were contemplated. He refused to say, however, whether orders had been given to meet an attack. He gave the impression that General Pershing and Pershing might have been directed to take certain steps of a retaliatory nature, should an attack be made upon their forces, or that the department had such orders under consideration.

"I have nothing to say on that subject," was his only response to every question in regard to orders sent to the border.

The Department of Justice was investigating the reports in an effort to prosecute any persons who may be directing the plot from the American side of the border. Secretary Lansing expressed the opinion that no Americans were involved, although Eliseo Arrondo, Mexican ambassador-designate, said similar reports reaching him two weeks ago indicated American advocates of intervention in Mexico were assisting Mexican bandits in planning the raid.

Later Mr. Lansing authorized the following statement:

"It was quite correctly reported last night in the statement that Secretary Baker's announcement was inspired by absolutely no political considerations as to this country. Nor does it mean to infer that Americans of any sort are involved in the plot. There are many Mexican refugees in this country who are inimical to the President's Mexican policy who would doubtless consider the present time as ripe for the furtherance of their projects. The silver which is known to have gone from this country to Mexican bandits was not necessarily from Americans. Indeed I cannot conceive that there is any American citizen who is so heartless, so entirely cruel, so wanton as to take a political step that would involve American lives."
 "The warning was given simply to protect American lives and property and I have every hope it will be effective."

Willcox Scores Baker For His Recent Actions in Reported Bandit Attack

New York, Oct. 27.—William R. Willcox, chairman of the Republican National Committee, issued a statement to-day in reference to the one last night by Secretary of War Baker that definite information had been received by the War Department that a bandit attack upon American troops or an American border town had been arranged to take place before election day by "enemies of the administration's policy toward Mexico." Mr. Willcox alluded also to Secretary of State Lansing's declaration that the War Department's statement was not intended as an assault upon the administration's political opponents.
 "In view of Secretary Lansing's statement in the morning papers," said Chairman Willcox, "Mr. Baker was guilty either of amazing stupidity or of a disingenuous attempt to gain votes for Mr. Wilson by misrepresentation. If Mr. Lansing is quoted correctly, he went over the Baker statement before it was issued and the Baker statement therefore appears to be the joint product of Mr. Wilson's two cabinet officers. There can be little doubt in the minds of anyone what this statement was designed to accomplish. The careful phrasing of Mr. Baker shows an attempt to make political capital out of what he appears to have regarded as an impending disaster on the Mexican border. This political capital was to be gained by charging that enemies of Mr. Wilson's policy with regard to Mexico were behind it and that the attempt was to take place between now and election. Other parts of Mr. Baker's statement are susceptible of the same interpretation."

 "If, as Mr. Lansing says, Mr. Baker made this statement without comprehending that it was a veiled charge against American citizens, thereby implying the infamous guilt of treason, then Mr. Baker has once more displayed the remarkable bias of mind which prompted him to make his unpatriotic statement regarding revolutionary soldiers in his speech in Jersey City. If, on the other hand, Mr. Baker

Value of Mass. Products Drops, but Wages Increase

Boston, Mass., Oct. 27.—Manufactured products in Massachusetts showed an increase in value of a little more than 10 per cent. in the five-year period from 1909 to 1914, according to a report issued by the State Bureau of Statistics to-day. The value in the latter year was $1,641,373,047. The report points out, however, that there was a decrease in value of more than $17,000,000 from the figures in 1913 and that the rate of increase for the five years was far below the average at any time for nearly twenty years. In the same period the amount of wages paid increased more than 30 per cent. In all previous five-year periods since 1895 the value of manufactured products had increased more rapidly than the amount paid in wages.

deliberately attempted to create political capital out of a national disaster his position is infamous."
 Mr. Willcox added that if the War Department had information in regard to the expected attack, "it is the duty of the administration to use every power of the government to find out the guilty ones and punish them."
