LABOR-INDUSTRY HAS MASQUERADE

Clever Costuming and General Sociability Makes Fellowship Dance a Success

The community spirit was thoroughly in evidence last evening at the masquerade dance held at the second in a series of fellowship events by the State Department of Labor and Industry.

Hanshaw's hall was transformed into an autumn scene all aglow with Jack O'Lanterns, the soft light showing festoons of black and yellow, witches astride of their broomsticks and great black cats with shiny eyes ready to scam if times grew too lively. Branches of colored oak leaves and a screen of tall cornstalks for the Ross orchestra added to the decorations while the "howling bowls" of delicious fruit punch were hidden in a bower of autumn foliage.

Costumes Are Varied
The costumes were varied in the extreme, all of them as clever as the cleverest, Commissioner John Price Jackson made an excellent foreign artist with his blue smock and cap and never a smear of paint came on his palette; Mrs. Jackson was chaming as "the belle of town" in her flowered gown, wide hoops and cunning little rose wreath; Paul N. Furman was a Spanish romper kid; Mrs. Furman, a Spanish girl; John A. McDonald, Red-headed Coon; Mrs. McDonald, "Old Dutch Cleanser"; Miss Fannie Hoy, Hippo-drome balloon girl; Miss Caroline Patschke, Dutch boy; Mrs. J. R. Burns; George Bacon, soldier; Miss Mary Ryan, Topsy; Miss Ella Sharonsky, little girl; Arthur Lewis, Gentleman Joe; Miss Alice B. HALLOWE'EN FUN FOR S. S. CLASSES

Bethany Members Entertain Pine Street Visitors With Old-Fashioned Games

Class 22 of the Bethany Presbyterian Sunday school with Mrs. MacDonald, of 1200 North Fifteenth street, teacher, entertained the classes of the Pine Street Sunday school tonight by J. Frank Palmer and Mrs. John Holsberger. About fifty members and friends attended the social. The entertainment included numbers from the "Absolutely Peerless Orchestra", two unusually fine baritone solos by Arthur E. Jeffries; prayer by the Rev. J. S. Warden, pastor of the church; a violin and cornet duet by R. L. Simonetti and Walter McCormick; short stories, humorous and witty by J. S. MacDonald, and an autoharp solo by W. M. McCormick. Immediately after the entertainment a delightful social hour followed with real Halloween fun and refreshments. The social room of the chapel was cleverly decorated in autumn foliage, shocks of corn, pumpkin faces and the indispensable black cats. Bobbing for apples and various Halloween games "made merry the hearts of youth and maid."

The guests of honor included the officers of the Sunday school: Prof. Marion Sourbeer, the pianist, and Mrs. Sourbeer, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Polz, secretary an treasurer, the Rev. Mr. Armstrong, Walter M. McCormick, R. P. Simonetti, Arthur E. Jeffries, Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. John Holsberger.
