EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You can Bring Black Color and Lustre with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and not a medicine. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

WOULD YOU SHAKE WITH THE DEVIL?

Would You Prefer Satan or Spiritualist for a Warm Handclasp?

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX (Copyright, 1915, Star Company)

An evangelist, who has been prominent during the last year in trying to teach people what he believes to be the religion of Christ, said in the presence of a large audience not long ago that he would as soon shake hands with the devil as with a spiritualist. He then proceeded to apply every opprobrious epithet in his vocabulary to every one who believed in the possibility of communication with the spirits of those in the realms beyond.

Every one who believed this possible, he declared, was in league with the devil. Of course, any man who makes such assertions is not preaching the religion of Christ. Jesus conversed with Moses and Elias on the Mount of Transfiguration, and communicated with "clouds of witnesses." The list of great souls who have lived on earth as declared spiritualists is as long as it is brilliant. The prophet Zoroaster, Isaiah and the prophet Daniel, Pythagoras, Socrates and Plato were spiritualists. Irenus, Origen and Cyprian and Lord Gauranga, the prophet of Nadia in India (born 1455 A. D.), were all spiritualists. The latter's spiritual gifts were so marvelous that he was considered a god by a multitude. Shrines and temples were dedicated to his honor and glory. Angels and spirits were his daily companions.

Socrates had his attending spirit guide, to whose voice of wisdom he continually listened. Christ was attended by a legion of angels. Constantine, though not a saint, saw a flaming cross in the heavens bearing the inscription, "By this conquer." Torquato Tasso frequently heard the voices of spiritual beings. Louis XVI saw and addressed a female clothed in a spotless white robe just before his execution.

George Fox, the good Quaker, had visions and was blessed with healing and other spiritual gifts. The Wesleys heard strange footsteps and weird, mysterious sounds in their home, attributable only to spiritual causes. Savonarola, Bruno, Boehman and Roger Bacon were spiritualists, possessed of mediumistic powers. Baron Swedenborg conversed consciously with angels and spirits during twenty-seven years of his eventful life.

Those religious bodies in America known as Shakers had from their very initiation of Mother Ann Lee, the spiritual gifts and signs promised to believers in the New Testament.

Kant, in his dream of the "Ghost Steer," stated his firm belief in the "constant communications with the spiritual world." Ruskin be-

BUTCH M'DEVITT ACCEPTS LOSS OF PRESIDENCY

"Butch" McDevitt, self-nominated candidate for the presidency of the United States on a platform of his own making, last night conceded his defeat in a communication to the Telegraph. So far as he could learn, he failed to carry a single state. "Butch" accepted his defeat "gracefully," and to judge from the tenor of his message, quite philosophically.

The letter, which was addressed to the obituary editor, was dispatched from Wilkes-Barre, "Butch's" home. It follows:
Harrisburg Telegraph:
Will you kindly say for me that I accept defeat gracefully.
The loss of $75,000 for four years is a lot of money for me to lose at this time with living so high. But the people spoke and it's me for the woods for a few weeks.
(Signed) JOHN JAY M'DEVITT.

BREWERS' YEAST A NEW FEED

Dried brewers' yeast is one of the latest suggestions for enlarging the daily bill of fare of American livestock. As a by-product of the brewing industry there is produced in the United States about 65,000,000 pounds dry yeast a year. By the addition of some cheap sugar it is possible to double this quantity without much labor or expense, says the editor of Farm and Home.

The product carries about 50 per cent. protein, 30 per cent. fat-forming materials and 10 per cent. fat and ash and is said to be about 90 per cent. digestible. Little definite experimental data are available except from German sources. A few American farmers have fed it successfully.

Some of the American experiment stations have used it a little. The principal objection is that stock do not seem to relish it if fed in amounts even as high as 10 per cent. of the ration. The general conclusion from available German reports is that dried brewers' yeast is not relished by cows and must be fed with caution, while for hogs its value is very close to that of meat meal, but it must likewise be fed with caution.

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER

It will make things snug and cozy in a few minutes. It can easily be carried from room to room while lighted. You have just the right heat, exactly where you want it, at any time of day or night.

There are no ashes, soot, smoke or smell. Just a fine, warmful, radiating heat that does away with draughty corners and makes chilly bathrooms as comfy as can be.

Perfection Oil Heaters burn kerosene, but for perfect results always use Atlantic Rayolight Oil. A large, gallon tank makes constant refilling unnecessary.

Ask your dealer to show you Perfection Oil Heaters. They are reasonably priced—$3.50 to $5.00.

lived in the present converse with those peopling the unseen realms of being.

Abraham Lincoln had spiritualistic leanings. Of this we have the most conclusive evidence.

William Lloyd Garrison, the great anti-slavery advocate, was an outspoken spiritualist, and so was Theodore Parker. Professor Lombroso, the great Italian scientist, and Victorien Sardou, author and dramatist, were devoted spiritualists.

Professor William James of Harvard University, was convinced of a direct intercourse between the world's visible and invisible.

Sir Alfred R. Wallace was for forty years a pronounced spiritualist.

Sir William Crookes, Sir Oliver Lodge, both occupying the distinguished position as president of the British Association of Scientists, were pronounced spiritualists.

All of these people seem to me quite as respectable as the evangelist who declares them all to be in league with the devil. Such a remark as the evangelist made is an evidence of ignorance and a narrow mind, and an imperfectly developed intellect.

A score of friends could be named by me who are in every way the superior of the evangelist, and whose lives are devoted to helpfulness and good works, yet who are avowed spiritualists.

I have all my life been conscious of receiving help and guidance from invisible friends on other planes of existence, and on a few occasions I have received direct messages from the beyond. This I declare me according to the evangelist, from shaking his hand. And yet life seems to me worth living.

I do not believe in the frequent consultation of professional mediums. I believe those who make a profession of membership endanger their own peace of mind, and interfere with divine ordinances.

But I believe we are surrounded by "clouds of witnesses," and that each one of us has spiritual helpers and guides who are ready to give us light and power and strength to develop the God-like qualities in our own souls. If we keep our selves "in tune" with the infinite, we shall understand their messages.

Swedenborg, a great statesman, a great scholar, a great scientist, gave up all earthly honors and the friendship of the orthodox world after he came into speech with the invisibles, who were visible to him. He walked and talked with ghosts of spiritual beings and his works on these subjects have been the inspiration and the salvation of thousands of struggling souls.

SUGGEST CHURCH AS MEMORIAL TO BISHOP

In the September issue of the Indian Witness, a Methodist paper published in Lucknow, India, was printed an article urging the erection of a church as a fitting memorial to the late Bishop William Perry Eveland, Bishop of Southern Asia, who was electrocuted several months ago near Carlisle. If the proposed project is carried out, it will be known as the Bishop Eveland Memorial Church and will be erected in Manila, the capital of the Philippine Islands.

MACHINE HEMSTITCHING

This can hardly be distinguished from hand work. It may be done much more speedily on the sewing machine in this way: First, draw the number of threads desired in the goods to be hemstitched, then fold the hem over and baste the edge of the hem in the center of the drawn threads. Now loosen the tension on the sewing machine and stitch exactly along the edge of the hem. Pull the bastings out, and taking the goods in one hand and the hem in the other, pull the edge of the hem to the bottom of the drawn threads and your work is finished. Tucks hemstitched in this way make a pretty finish for children's clothes, and they are so much more quickly done than by hand.—Farm and Home.
