In big block letters the word Harrisburg will stand out on a large blackboard at New York headquarters of the national committee in charge of the P. R. R. Y. M. C. A. meinbership campaigns. On the same board will be spaces in which will be marked each day the number of new members secured in this city.

The local committee will meet tonight to arrange for sending out the good news to the headquarters and from there to all associations in the United States. This campaign is to be wased systematically, and will furnish much interest t othe public. In the current issue of the Railroad Association magnzine. Chairman F. N. the current issue of the Railroad Association magazine. Chairman F. N. Thatcher, of the national committee, says:

Railroad Field

"Two millions of men are employed by the railroad companies of America, or realted industries. This vast army of two thousand regiments is the legitimate field of the Railroad Young Men's Christian Associations. Of course, there are varied reasons why less than 100,000 are enrolled in our membership. Many of these reasons are invalid excuses. The stinging truth is that most of these men are not related to our movement because our proposition has never been definitely and personally carried to them. Either from the privilege standpoint or the altruistic standpoint, nearly every railroad man is approachable.

The somewhat ambitious membership campaign will be a demonstration of the effectiveness of business methods. Our goods will be properly placed on the market. The association will be heralded. Everybody will be talking about it. It will stream in the sunshine and come down in the showers. Men will read of "30,000' in the morning papers, and see these figures in the dreams of the night. Wives will look for the caballistic button on hub's coat, and sweethearts will make that button a requisite for a pleasant evening, with "her."

"This is to be a Continental Campaign. The same emblematic poster that stares from the pine trees along the right-of-way in Maine will fination will speak its message from the canon walls of the Canadian Rockies and, mayhap, adorn the tower of Old South Church in Boston. This army of railroad men will know. The association will speak out for once. What it has to offer will be freely and frankly offered, and offered everywhere.

"November 14 to 24 may be a period of cold wintry weather, but the railroad associations will be hot-foot after members. And the happiest fellows will be the men who are signed up." November 14 to 24 may be a period of cold wintry weather, but the railroad associations will be freely and frankly offered, and offered everywhere.

Facilities on Interurban Trolley Cars Will Be Discussed Friday

Representatives of all companies engaged in interurban trolley traffic in Pennsylvania will be invited to a in Pennsylvania will be invited to a conference to be held with the Public Service Commissioners in the State Capitol next Friday to discuss complaints regarding lack of tollet facilities on trolley cars. It is the hope of the commission to arrive at some general plan which will not be too burdensome on the companies and meet all requirements of the public and at the same time not run counter to State health regulations.

The conference was called as a result of complaints from Berks and other counties about lack of facilities and several cases will be kept on the postponed calendar until the conference is held.

Several years ago the commission established the rule that no one could ride on front platforms of cars after a conference with street railway companies.

Von Bethmann-Hollweg Is Confident of Final Victory

Amsterdam, Nov. 10. — Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg expressed the conviction that Germany was certain of final victory in his speech before the Reichstag committee yesterday, according to reports of the session published here. The chancellor is quoted as saying:

"England and France in 1915 guaranteed to Russia territorial rule over Constantinople, the Bosphorus and the western shore of the Dardanelles with its hinterland, while Asia Minor was to be divided among the members of the entente. The annexation intentions of our enemies also include Alsace-Lorraine which the league of peace is to guarantee them. Such a policy of course, cannot form a basis for an effective peace union.

"The enemy obstinately wills to war with the calling up of military material and auxiliary forces from all parts of the world. These efforts harden our resistance to still greater determination. Whatever England can still bring up of strength has its limits, it is predestined to fail before our will to live. This will is unconquerable and we await the enemy's recognition of this, confident that this recognition must come."

London. Nov. 10.—The banquet of the new lord mayor of London, Sir William Henry Dunn, was given at the Guild Hall last night and was attended by cabinet ministers, members of the diplomatic corps, including Walter Hincs Page, the American ambassador, and men prominent in the military and nearly word, among them Lord Fisher, chairman of the invention board; Arthur J. Balfour, first lord of the admiralty, and Sir William R. Robertson, chief of the imperial staff at army headquarters.

The leading speech of the evening was delivered by Premier Asquith, who, in alluding to peace, declared that nobody had greater reason than Great Britain to desire peace, but that it was desired on only one condition—that the sacrifices of the war should not have been made in vain. A feature of the speeches was the warm tribute of admiration on the stand made by Rumania and the expression of the opinion that although the attack on Rumania had not yet been defeated, it had been successfully stayed.

Mr. Asquith began his speech with a reference to Turkey, which country he described as a subservient agent of German interests and ambitions, as was instanced. he said, by the fact that by lifting a finger Germany might have arrested the Armenian horrors, but instead looked on unmoved, acquiesced and possibly even complacent. "That." said the premier, "is a significant sample of what a continuance of the rule of Germanic Turkey in Europe will mean."

Mr. Asquith said he would refrain from any detailed review of the naval and military situation. He dwelt, however, on the continued entente allied successes and said the Pritish navy was ready, and more than ready, whenever opportunity was offered to it.

the recent raid by German warships.

This information came to-day from reliable sources. The raid carried out by enemy warships in the shipping courses between the Thames and Holland on November 1, this report says was a blind to get half a dozen or more U-boats through the channel.

more U-boats through the channel. That it succeeded is evidenced by the unsual activity of submarines in these waters during the last few days. Their roll of victims this week has been exceptionally high.

The British naval authorities have learned of this fact and are making strenuous efforts to trap some of the raiders, it is said. The channel patrol has been augmented and a watch is being kept night and day for any sign of the submarines reported to be operating off the coast. The few critics who share knowledge of the presence of the enemy submersibles express the opinion that by now most of them must have escaped and returned to their bases. The continued sinking of vessels in this region, however, suggests that a few raiders are still operating in the channel or slightly to the north.
